The King Sees Poverty
Spring—Floods—Cause
Men May Wear Pink
A Disappointed Baby

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1936, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., International Copyright and all other rights reserved.)

EDWARD THE EIGHTH, new king of England, visited the magnificently luxurious ocean steamer "Queen Mary" in Glasgow, then went from house to house knocking on doors, visiting some of the worst slum dwellings in all his kingdom.

Later, talking to Lord Melchett, the king put the problem of England, this country and the whole world, in these few words; "How do you reconcile a world that has produced this mighty ship with the slums we have just visited?"

REPEATING the king's words at a banquet of scientists, Lord Melchett said truly, "That is the problem we have to solve. And it is useless to go out and solve scientific problems if we cannot solve that."

The present king of England is perhaps the only one in this or any other century that has actually visited slums and seen with his own eyes English families worried by hunger, poverty, dirt, their children pale, anemic, undernourished, without a chance in life.

That problem formulated by the young king must be settled before any nation on this earth will have any right to talk "Civilization."

SPRING BEGAN Friday, officially, with dozens of cities flooded, many rivers running wild, entire populations plunged in darkness, burglars plying their trade in boats, visiting second or third stories of abandoned houses; half a dozen states menaced, damage estimated at two hundred and twenty five million dollars, 200,000 homeless. The overflowing waters of the Potomac, rising toward the White House, make it appropriate, even for the president to say "River keep away from my door."

ONCE SUCH A SERIES of floods following on a depression that in old days would have meant wide famine might have suggested divine punishment for nation-wide wickedness or foolishness. Moderns know that it is a reminder to plan protection against floods, provision for overflowing waters.

Can you believe that this country, calling itself intelligent, would contribute ten thousand million dollars to wholesale murder in Europe and not wipe out swamps that breed mosquitoes and disease here?

THE WEATHER BUREAU presents a seven-fold concatenation of circumstances to account for the recent "flood of a century," drowning out cities.

The storm started in Texas. It turned to the northeast where damage was done. A flow of warm moist air coming in from the gulf and the Atlantic was "expanded and condensed" by collision with a wedge of cold air flowing southward from central Canada.

Labrador sent out a second wedge of cold air. This wedge helped to "trap" the storm, held it over the watersheds from Georgia to Vermont,

3 NATIONS ACCEPT FINAL PLANS FOR NEW NAVY TREATY

LONDON, March 21. — (AP) — The United States, Great Britain and France today accepted the final draft of a new naval treaty limiting the size of battleships and the building of cruisers for six years.

The document will be signed next Wednesday, when a conference of four months ends with the original big five powers of the 1922 Washington agreement reduced to three.

The draft treaty as finally approved would restrict battleships to a top size of 35,000 tons, retain 10,000 tons as the maximum for large cruisers and provide that none of this size shall be constructed during the six-year period.

Norman H. Davis, chief of the American delegation, served notice, however, that the United States would consider herself free from the large cruiser holiday if Great Britain should build more than 70 cruisers.

ORLEANS WOMAN EXPIRES AFTER TAKING POISON

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—(AP)—Mrs. Mildred Estoup, 33, well known in advertising circles here and formerly prominent in Birmingham, Ala., died at her home here early today from poison, her husband, Edward B. Estoup, reported to police.

Mr. Estoup told the officers that his wife had been treated by a physician for extreme nervousness for some time and that early today she entered his bedroom and informed him that she had taken poison.

2 MONROE BOYS FATALLY INJURED IN FREIGHT CAR

Thomas Harris And William Farley Are Crushed By Shifting Pipe

ACCIDENT TAKES PLACE DURING TRAIN SWITCHING

Another Local Lad Escapes Death; Bodies To Be Returned Here

BATON ROUGE, La., March 21.—(AP)—Two youths, Thomas Harris, 15, and William Farley, 17, of Monroe, La., were killed today at Angola, La., when pipe loaded in a freight car in which they were said to have been riding shifted and crushed them.

Sheriff Fred Wilcox of West Feliciana parish said the accident occurred when cars of a northbound Louisiana and Arkansas freight train were being switched on to a ferry at the state penal farm to be transported across the Mississippi river.

He said the Harris and Farley youths were with some other boys in a gondola loaded with pipe and that the pipe became dislodged during the switching and rolled down on them.

The sheriff said at least one of the other boys, whose names he did not know, was from Monroe and notified the parents of the dead youths.

The bodies were to be sent home for burial.

Thomas Harris was a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Harris, 111 Mouton street, in the southern part of the city, and William Farley was a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Pettey, 213 North Fifth

LANDON SUPPORT MAKES PROGRESS

Candidacy Gains In Face Of Antagonism Among Borah's Backers

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP)—The movement to nominate Governor Landon of Kansas for president progressed measurably this week in the face of antagonism among supporters of Senator Borah of Idaho.

Although the principals gave no hint of sharing the sentiment, hostility between some elements of their followers aroused conjecture about where it might lead and what effect, if any, it might have on the pissibility of a "dark horse" Republican nomination.

By winning the 21 Oklahoma votes in convention and the prospect of gaining the 32 from New Jersey, Landon's head-start in actual delegate strength was lengthened. He leads at the time in spite of being less personally active than either Borah or Col. Frank Knox of Illinois. His reorganization is being enlarged steadily in Missouri and elsewhere.

Landon also has become mentioned more as likely to be a principal beneficiary when uninstructed and "fav-

SENATE EXPECTED TO ADOPT PLAN TO INVESTIGATE WPA

WASHINGTON, March 21. — (AP) — Senate adoption early next week of a Republican resolution for a broad investigation of New Deal relief activities was indicated today when it was learned authoritatively that administration leaders would offer no serious opposition.

Democratic chieftains, however, were represented as intending to see to it that the inquiry, both into the WPA and its predecessor, FERA, is kept within certain bounds and not expanded into what some have called a political "fishing expedition."

SOVIET PRESS DECLARES JAPS TORTURE CITIZENS

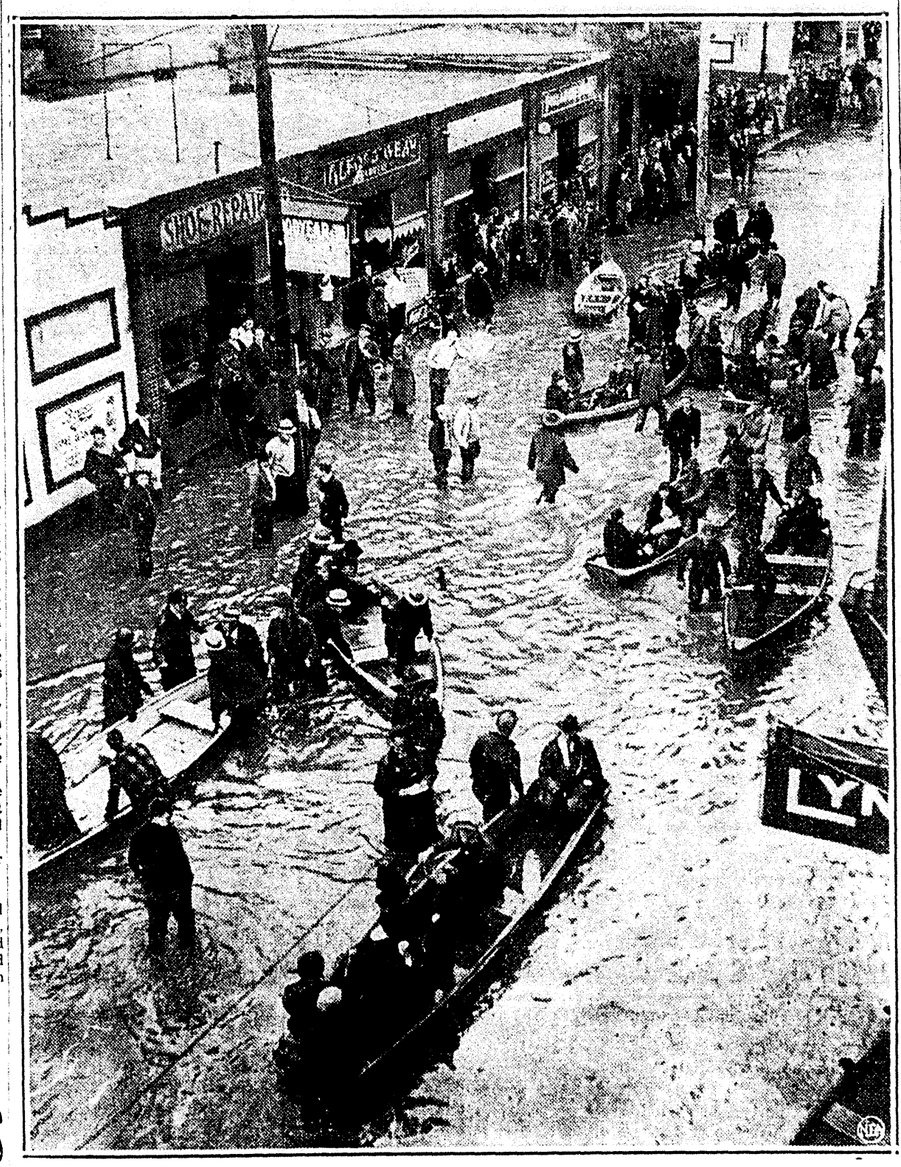

MOSCOW, March 21.—(AP)—The official Soviet press today charged that Soviet citizens have been tortured and put to death by the Japanese gendarmerie in Manchoukuo.

The press statements also declared that Japan has not yet answered a Russian protest dispatched Jan. 21.

The protest expressly demanded an investigation of the case of the Soviet citizen Bogomoloff, arrested in October and declared by the Japanese gendarmerie to have been killed while attempting to escape.

LOWLAND DWELLERS ALL IN THE SAME BOAT

HEARINGS ON TAX PLAN SCHEDULED

Tentative Agreement Reached On Sharply Revised Corporation Levy

WASHINGTON, March 21. — (AP) — House drafters of tax legislation today paved the way for starting open hearings March 30 on the $792,000,000 Roosevelt program, reaching a tentative agreement on a sharply revised corporation levy intended to avoid "taxing taxes."

The new schedule, it was learned authoritatively, would base the tax on statutory net income of corporations, with rates dependent on what portion of net income was diverted to reserves.

An earlier schedule approved informally was scrapped because it was found to call for a "tax on taxes."

It would have applied to percentages of net income withheld for reserves, rather than to total net income. Under it, corporations would have paid taxes not only on earnings retained in corporate treasuries, but also on profits withheld from stockholders to pay such taxes.

Sub-committee members were pledged to secrecy on specific rates in the new schedule, but it was described as designed to provide approximately the $620,000,000 additional revenue sought by the administration.

(President Roosevelt advised congress that $620,000,000 for farm relief and bonus payments might be obtained from taxes on undistributed corporate income and dividends. These would be substituted for existing corporate levies. He suggested also that $517,000,000 be raised over perhaps three years by new processing taxes and a "windfall" levy on unpaid or returned AAA processing taxes.)

BODY OF SERGE MDIVANI BURIED AT MIDDLETOWN

NEWPORT, R. I., March 21.—(AP)—The body of Prince Serge Mdivani, who was killed in a polo accident near Palm Beach last Sunday, was buried late this afternoon in the cemetery that surrounds St. Columbia's Berkeley Memorial chapel in Middletown.

The body was placed in the plot of the family of his widow, the former Louise Astor Van Alen.

Floods Hit Wide Area

(By Associated Press)

Snow, rain and cold aggravated the flood situation in many sections of northeastern United States last night, although high waters receded in many places. The situation at principal cities and towns:

PROTESTS FILED ON AAA PROGRAM

Producers Of Rice, Sugar Cane And Sugar Beets Make Objections

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP)—Announcement of some details of the new farm program brought a quick response today in telegraphed protests against rates and conditions for paying soil conservation subsidies to producers of rice, sugar cane and sugar beets.

The protesting farmers were understood to be contending that they would not receive sufficient reimbursement under the payment plan outlined yesterday by Secretary Wallace.

As agricultural extension directors arrived from several states to confer with the AAA, two main problems

Mississippi Flood Menace Will Depend On Rainfall

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP)—Whether the Mississippi valley will see a flood this spring comparable to that of 1927 depends on the amount of rain it has during the next six weeks.

That was the view expressed today by weather bureau officials and war department engineers who are keeping a close watch on the nation's river of song and story and sometimes havoc.

A close check of the readings of gauges along the Mississippi and its tributaries indicated to them that there was a much better chance of the valley escaping a flood of great proportions than there was in the spring of 1927. Precipitation charts for the past winter were not so black for the valley as were those of the 1926-27 winter.

It was that 1927 flood which set high water marks all through the valley.

Three million acres were under water at one time in northern Louisiana and Mississippi and southeastern Arkansas.

But, the war department engineers said, even if the valley should have such a flood as it had in 1927, New Orleans would not be endangered.

They said the heightened and strengthened levees would take care of the water until it passed the mouth of the Arkansas; then new floodways would handle it.

A part of the flood would go through the Atchafalaya, west of New Orleans, a part through a floodway into Lake Pontchartrain, east of the city, the remainder would circle the city by the regular channel of the river.

Of the possibility of such a flood, weather bureau and war department officials agreed that the rain and snow that had already fallen would not bring one; nor would the rampaging of one or two tributaries. One tributary on the rampage has about as much effect on the lower Mississippi as a wild steer trotting along the levee.

It is a combination of circumstances that brings a big flood to the lower valley. The experts put it this way:

"Bring all of your melting snows and rainfall out of the upper tributaries into the lower valley at one time. Then pile on top of them heavy rainfall, and we will have a flood. Leave off the rain, or let us just have normal rains when the lower river is bulging, and we'll handle it all right."

THREAT OF QUICK WAR FOR EUROPE BELIEVED ENDED

Next Move In Developments Is Up To Reichfuehrer Adolf Hitler

VIRTUAL ULTIMATUM GIVEN DICTATOR BY 4 COUNTRIES

Most Important Step Is French Offer To Submit Treaty To Court

By Joseph E. Sharkey
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

London, March 21.—With the next move in European developments up to Reichsfuehrer Hitler, officials of the League of Nations said tonight that the threat of immediate peril has been removed from Europe.

They declared that the league's possibilities as a new stronger power for peace had been increased by the recent developments which included Germany's remilitarization of the Rhineland and the league council's subsequent decision that Germany had violated both the Versailles and Locarno treaties.

Official British quarters said that now it was up to Hitler to make counter-proposals to the virtual ultimatum given him by Great Britain, France, Belgium and Italy.

Those four nations which, with Germany, are the signatories of the Locarno pact, made a series of propositions to Germany under which they believe the peace front, bent by treaty violations, may be realigned.

Most important of these proposals, from the broad international view-

RED CROSS FUND IS SOUGHT HERE

Ouachita Chapter To Aid In Assisting Eastern Flood Sufferers

The Ouachita parish chapter of the American Red Cross on Saturday issued a public appeal for contributions to the relief of flood sufferers in the northern and eastern sections of the country. A quota of $600 has been asked as the Ouachita chapter's share in the $3,000,000 relief fund that has been fixed by the national organization as the minimum required for immediate needs in the devastated area.

Calling attention to the fact that the flood in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland is the "most terrible catastrophe of the kind that has ever occurred in the history of the United States," C. R. Tidwell, chairman of the Ouachita chapter, has urged that the people of Monroe "respond as liberally as possible to the appeal for relief of our suffering fellow-citizens in the north and east."

RODESSA OIL FIELD INJUNCTION SOUGHT BY TEXAS RESIDENT

SHREVEPORT, La., March 21.—(AP)—A United States deputy marshal was flown to Lake Charles today to make service on W. T. Burton, defendant in a title slander suit filed in federal court here Monday by R. W. Norton.

The suit involves land situated in the Rodessa oil field and the plaintiff asks an injunction to prevent Burton from slandering his title to the lease by claiming the right of exploitation.

Norton, as a resident of San Antonio, Texas, brought the suit in the federal court on those grounds. He alleges that he owns the lease on certain property in the field granted to him by the board of commissioners of the Caddo levee district in 1931.

AMERICAN MISSIONARY FAMILY REPORTED SAFE

TAIYUAN, Shansi Province, China, March 21.—(AP)—The American missionaries, the Rev. and Mrs. Claude Thomas and their two children, reported missing from the China Inland mission at Hwoksien, are safe at Kungtung, southeast of here, where they fled after bandits occupied Hwoksien, advices received here said today.

Chinese reports said the walled cities where most of the missionaries were concentrated were not endangered, although communists were overrunning adacent country districts, seizing great quantities of supplies and attacking members of the "privileged class."

2 MOVES SLATED IN BRUNO'S CASE

Fisher To Ask For New Trial And Then For Action By Pardons Court

TRENTON, N. J., March 21.—(AP)—Two moves will be made next week by defense lawyers to save Bruno Richard Hauptmann from death in the electric chair the night of March 31.

C. Lloyd Fisher, an authoritative source disclosed today, will ask for a new trial, and failing in that direction, will seek mercy from the court of pardons for the man convicted of kidnaping and killing the Lindbergh baby.

Invitations to the execution were received today by the official witnesses, and unless Hauptmann wins one of his last moves or obtains an executive or judicial stay of execution, he will walk to the chair a few minutes after Charles Zied, Philadelphia gangster, is put to death.

Governor Hoffman has said repeatedly he did not plan to grant Hauptmann a second reprieve. He said if anything of a sensational nature should develop he would request Attorney General David T. Wilentz and Fisher to ask Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard to delay execution.

Fisher will base his application for a new trial on information uncovered by Governor Harold G. Hoffman since he became interested in the case.

Of major importance, Fisher said, will be Hauptmann's statement that he frequented City island, the Bronx, through all of the summer of 1932 at a time when Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon used the island.

Fisher will make the point that Condon, who identified Hauptmann at Flemington as the man to whom he paid the $50,000 ransom on the night of April 2, 1932, had daily opportunities to see Hauptmann on the island yet did not recognize him.

Condon had a real estate office, Fisher said, near the boathouse which Hauptmann used.

ASSERT NEW DEAL FOES GOT FUNDS AT SAME SOURCES

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP)—Senate lobby investigators today reported the receipt of evidence that several anti-New Deal organizations have drawn their principal financial support from a virtually identical list of large contributors.

This was learned, investigators said, in the course of an extensive and continuing examination of the financial sources of twenty or twenty-five organizations, among them the American Liberty League, the Southern Committee to uphold the Constitution, the Sentinels of the Republic and the Crusaders.

The Southern Committee to Uphold the Constitutuon sponsored the recent Grass Roots convention of anti-New Deal Democrats, headed by Governor Talmadge of Georgia The telegrams of one of its leaders, John H. Kirby of Houston, Tex., have been subpoenaed by the committee

221,500 PERSONS HOMELESS AFTER HIGH WATER HITS

Points Below Pittsburgh Become More Alarmed As Floods Push On

CINCINNATI, EVANSVILLE IN NEWLY THREATENED AREA

New England Continues Struggle; Rains Add To Menacing Situation

By Dale Harrison
(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)

The unruly rivers roared fresh threats at people and property last night.

Behind them, in the 13 states through which they course, were 169 dead—a figure that was increased by two during yesterday from Friday's 167. The energetic heroism of thousands of relief workers had much to do with that.

Behind them, too, were 221,500 homeless men, women and children. Even that figure was admittedly conservative.

The property damage was at least $270,000,000. There was little doubt but that it would rise much higher. If the loss to wage earners and to retailers is considered, together with the eventful cost of relief and rehabilitation, the money cost may exceed a billion dollars.

The state which suffered most during the week of unprecedented flood—Pennsylvania—appeared last night to be past the worst. The waters of the Monongahela and Allegheny which converge at Pittsburgh to form the Ohio, were falling. They were still above flood stage, but the waters which had overflown Pittsburgh earlier in the week were receding. Rehabilitation was definitely begun.

But downstream points become more and more alarmed. Flood stage of the Ohio river at Cincinnati is 52 feet. The river was at 51.7 feet yesterday morning, and rising. It is expected to reach a crest of 59 feet Monday.

At Evansville, Ind., the Ohio was slightly more than one foot under flood stage of 35 feet. The waters roaring down from the present flood areas are expected to hit 45 feet late this week—within three feet of the high water mark of the disastrous 1913 floods.

It will probably be a week before the flood is felt at Cairo. Engineers predicted that by the time the waters reached Cairo and the Mississippi they would send the river about six feet above flood stage.

New England continued its weary struggle against the flood, with more rain adding to the menace. "Rain tonight," said the Boston weather bureau, "would have some further adverse effect and will somewhat delay the rate of subsidence of the high flood levels."

Officials in the Connecticut valley were hopeful they had seen the worst. They believed that even new rains would have negligible effect,

3 COUNTRIES AGREE ON NEW TREATY TO REPLACE ROME PACT

ROME, March 21.—(AP)—A reliable source disclosed tonight that representatives of Italy, Austria and Hungary had agreed, after conferences here, to sign a new consultative treaty strengthening and replacing the Rome accords of 1934.

Premier Mussolini had made a renewed bid for continued friendship of Austria and Hungary in consultations with Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria and Premier Julius Goemboes of Hungary. It was those nations which expressed their sympathy for the Italian cause when the League of Nations tried to stop the Italo-Ethiopian war with sanctions.

The terms of the new treaty were still under discussion, but the principal points were said to have been covered.

Austria wishes independence guaranteed, but it was learned that Hungary is not very enthusiastic on that point.

KU KLUX KLAN DRAGON OPPOSES LENDING ROBES

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 21.—(AP)—Ku Klux Klansmen who lend their white robes to "angels" in the Easter morn mountainside pageant near Lawton will do so without the blessing of the Oklahoma grand dragon, J. W. Reed.

"No one in this state has authority to lend the robes," he said. "What if the robes should fall into the hands of our enemies and were used in some kind of a wrong deed?"

But the pageant director, the Reverend A. M. Wallock, said 400 pieces of Klan regalia already have been borrowed.

NOTED SURGEONS DIE AT ORLEANS

Two Leading Specialists Expire At Residences An Hour Apart

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—(AP)—Two noted New Orleans surgeons who had contributed much to the medical and surgical world died today at their residences only an hour apart.

They were Dr. Charles Jefferson Miller, 62, president-elect of the Southeastern Surgical Congress, and Dr. Charles L. Chassaignac, 74, one of the founders of the eye, ear, nose and throat hospital here.

Each died from heart ailments superinduced by long years of service to their profession.

Dr. Chassaignac had retired from active practice several years ago and had been dangerously ill only a few days.

Dr. Miller was recuperating from a severe attack of influenza ten days ago when he took active part in the Southeastern Surgical Congress annual meeting here and was named its president-elect. He later suffered a relapse and developed heart trouble.

Dr. Miller was internationally known as an outstanding surgeon and frequently was visited and consulted by surgeons who wished to solve the most puzzling cases.

He held high position in Touro infirmary here and was a prominent clubman, civic builder and social worker.

Dr. Miller was a native of Winchester, Tenn., and is survived by his widow, the former Miss Ada Parker. They were married in Memphis, Tenn., in 1896. He is survived by his widow and their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Miller.

Dr. Chassaignac is survived by his widow, the former Miss Mathilde Labry, of New Orleans; two daughters and four sons.

FRATERNITY GROUP TO ATTEND MEETING

Final preparations are being made by Northeast Center members of Gamma Gamma chapter of the Phi Theta Kappa junior college fraternity to attend the annual convention at Independence, Kansas, March 25-27. The delegates of this honor scholastic society will be Neva Worthington, Nibby McKenzie and either Luther Reed or Dawson Kennedy.

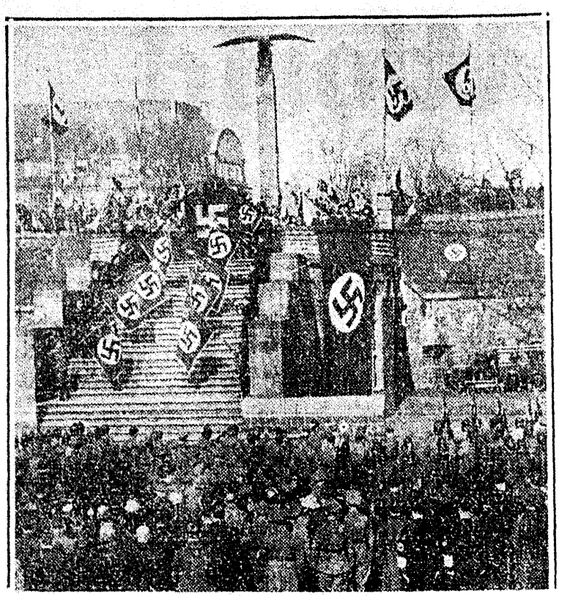

Dean C. C. Colvert plans to take the delegates in his car and will leave Monroe Tuesday and will return next Sunday.

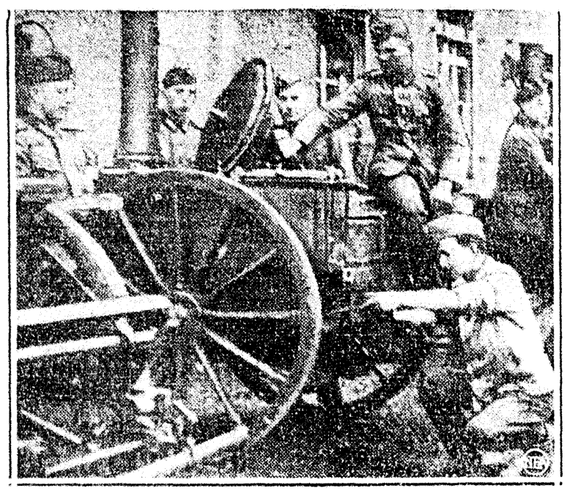

These are the first delegates to be sent to the national convention and they hope to receive recognition for the local chapter for their excellent work in the past.

The convention promises to be largely attended, and fully 70 chapters of the country are expected to send delegations. Expenses have been made as low as possible and specially low rates will be charged by railroads.

BANNER DAYS FOR REICH

BOOK CIRCLE IS ORGANIZED HERE

40 Women Heard Lecture By Miss Duchein At Legion Home Meeting

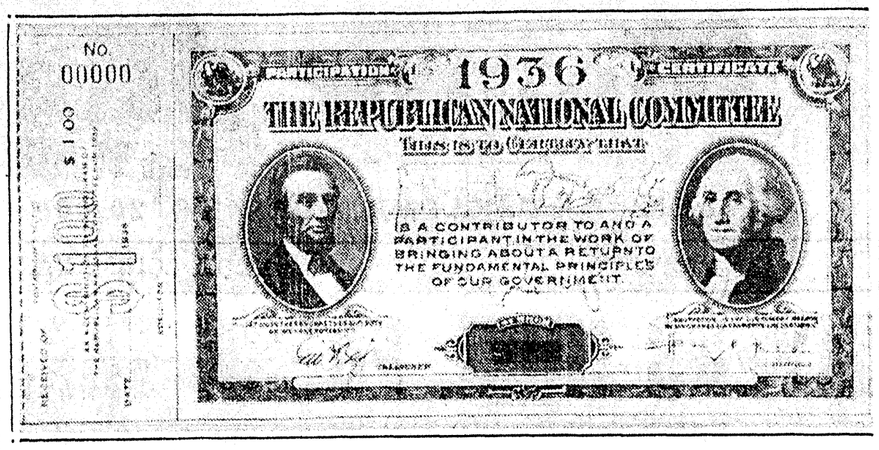

Organization of a unit of the Louisiana State university book circle was completed at a meeting of representatives from various book clubs of the city, held Friday afternoon at the American Legion home. About 40 women were in attendance at the gathering, which was addressed by Miss Annette Duchein, who will conduct a series of classes in Monroe beginning April 13, for those who are interested in books and their authors. The classes will be part of the university extension course.

Miss Duchein, L. S. U. lecturer on books and authors, gave a review of Clarence Day's "Life With Father," as part of the program at the Friday meeting. She then explained the purposes of the course of lectures to be given here as follows:

"The L. S. U. Book circle is organized as an additional service to be extended by the university to the women of the state. The course includes a group of ten-hour lectures that will be given every other week. The class will break for the summer months of July and August and the first lecture is scheduled tentatively to be held in Monroe on Monday, April 13. The class is divided into two half-hour periods. During the first half hour outstanding writers and outstanding schools of writers are discussed and during the second half hour books that are known as "best-sellers" are reviewed. The university extends at no additional expense other than the initial charge of $3, 15 'best-sellers' a month to every class. Louisiana state library commission supplements this service with the extension of 15 books a month from its shelves."

Miss Duchein received her B. A. and M. A. degrees from Louisiana State university and her degree as bachelor of journalism from the Pulitzer school of journalism of Columbia university. She was a reporter on the Times-Picayune for two years, and she wrote reviews for its book page for several months. While in New York she wrote special features for the Herald-Tribune. She studied book reviewing under Allan St. Clair Will, an editor of the New York Times book section, the novel under John Erskine, novelist, and Carl Van Doren, well known essayist and critic, and psychology under Walter B. Pitkin, author of "Life Begins at Forty." Miss Duchein was editorial assistant and publicity director for the Southwest Review, and later for the Southern Review. She now conducts classes on books and authors for the university in 20 towns and cities in the state.

REPUBLICANS CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTORS TO GET THESE

It looks a lot like money, but you'll have a hard time spending it—especially among New Dealers. It is a facsimile of the official Republican certificate, printed in red and blue, which will be sold at $1 each to voters to obtain funds for the 1936 presidential campaign. State and county Republican committees were to assist in the distribution.

INTEREST HIGH IN BABY SHOW HERE

More Than 70 Tots Are Entered In Paramount Theater Contest

Baby pictures surpass in interest all the colorful displays of film stars in the lobby of the Paramount theater where more than 70 are entered in a contest to determine the most winsome ones of the large number shown. All through the week, proud parents and friends of the parents have thronged the lobby and studied the pictures. Others have spent much time in an endeavor to identify the various babies.

The contest started Monday and will continue through tomorrow. Each picture is given a number and the public is asked to vote for a choice by numbers only. What makes the race so close is that each child is about as attractive as the other, and it is hard to make a selection but each patron of the theater is asked to cast his vote.

Thus far, Manager Harry W. Rice, of the Paramount, states that the votes are pretty well grouped. The following numbers seem to be a little in the lead of the others, Nos. 7, 1, 5, 26, 38, 50, 33, 16, 18 and 39. The order given is in keeping with the number of votes each had received up to Saturday. But by Monday night, when the contest closes, this order may be considerably changed and no one can tell which ones will win.

Many will cast their votes today, for not only will the attendance be large, according to the present outlook, but the fact that the contest will be near the zero hour will add impetus to the casting of votes.

In actuality there is little difference in the votes cast for the contestants, Mr. Rice admitted.

ESCAPED CONVICT WHO REFORMED IS RETURNED TO PEN

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 21.—(AP)—Talmadge E. Baker early tonight was placed back behind Kilby prison walls, over which he fled 11 years ago to lead a respectable life as a Kansas City steel plant worker under the name of James R. Brown.

"I learned how to be a Christian, and I expect to continue that life in here," Baker said as he was "registered in" to complete a life sentence imposed in Etowah county for the Christmas eve murder of former Alderman Grover Charles Cox of Alabama City, in 1921.

Baker, who climbed the prison walls to freedom in 1925, was returned here by Sheriff R. A. Leath, of Etowah county, and C. E. Bachelor, superintendent of Alabama prison farms. Baker married after going to Kansas City in 1929, but his wife did not know of his convict record until his arrest there Tuesday.

Big Pay Envelopes Listed In Report Of U. S. Treasury

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP)—Big pay envelopes carried home by movie stars and captains of industry in the calendar and fiscal year of 1934 were listed today in supplemental treasury reports of corporation salaries over $15,000 made to the house ways and means committee.

Thomas J. Watson, of New York, president of International Business Machines, topped all others on the list with a salary of $364,402. He was followed closely by the late Will Rogers, who received $321,314 from Fox Films corporation. Janet Gaynor, also of the films, received $252,583.

W. R. Sheehan, a Fox vice-president, received $103,000.

The salary report made today supplements similar statements filed with congress last January under the revenue act. A move is now under way in congress to repeal the section which provides publicity for corporate salaries.

WAGE, PRICE REGULATION IN COMMERCE PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP)—Regulation of minimum wages and prices in both interstate and intrastate commerce is proposed by George L. Berry's industrial council in a report to President Roosevelt, published today.

The council headed by Berry, the president's coordinator for industrial cooperation, termed "maldistribution of income" the outstanding defect in "our unrestricted competitive system" and added:

"Competition is undoubtedly the outstanding factor in the question of proper income distribution and, therefore, in the problem of balancing production and consumption."

Enforcement of fair trade practices by trade associations "under well-defined limitations and representative control" was among the recommendations.

A True Story

A couple of weeks ago, a man from a neighboring town not thirty miles from here, came in and said:

"I want to make over and rent one of the buildings owned by your Bank in my town—fix it so I can live in the back part of house and have me a little store in the front."

To which we agreed.

And then

A couple of days ago, the writer, while in that town, asked this man how was the job progressing.

"I've done part of the work and you see I'm living in your building now—had to—for the house I was living in burned last week.

"Yes sir, we lost everything—all furniture, clothes, relics, two old family watches, a quilt 147 years old—everything!

And the tough part is, I had four hundred dollars in a suit case—they told me I ought to put it in your bank, but I was saving it to open that little store. Oh yes! It all went up in smoke."

ONE KILLED, 34 INJURED IN WORK TRAIN COLLISION

LYNCHBURG, Va., March 21.—(AP)—One man was fatally hurt and 34 others less seriously injured when a work train struck a box car on Chesapeake and Ohio tracks near six mile bridge, Joshua Falls, 12 miles from here last night.

Dillard Franklin, negro track laborer, died in a Lynchburg hospital where he and other injured men were brought in ambulances railroad equipment.

Of the injured J. F. Handy, 50, of Lynchburg, was most seriously hurt. He has multiple fractures.

Two hospitals were caring for the men today as railroad officials prepared to move them to the Chesapeake and Ohio hospital at Clifton Forge. Most of the men received minor injuries. The majority of those hurt were negro track laborers.

VALLEE DISPUTE OFFICIALLY ENDS

Trouble Between Singer, Producer Is Closed By Arbitrators

NEW YORK, March 21.—(AP)—The dispute between Rudy Vallee and George White, which flared into fisticuffs the other night, ended officially today, and both sides apparently were satisfield with the outcome

For one thing, Rudy was out of the "scandals" which White greatly desired.

On the other hand, Rudy had an official ruling that White couldn't throw him out of the show, which is all that Rudy wanted.

It seems that after the rumpus on the stage of the New Amsterdam theater earlier in the week when White landed a few blows on Vallee because the band leader called him a "nasty" name, White decided he was going to end Vallee's connection with the "Scandals."

The matter was placed before three arbitrators named by the American arbitration tribunal They considered the whole thing and then announced their dicision, to wit:

That the "clash of temperament" between the two was not sufficient to warrant the termination of the contract by White.

That was enough to satisfy Vallee, and the band leader then obliged producer White by making the following announcement today:

"Now that the arbitrators of the American arbitration tribunal have decided in my favor, I do not care to continue in the scandals."

COUPLE SEVERELY HURT IN AUTOMOBILE MISHAP

PIONEER, La., March 21.—(Special)—Miss Doris Major, teacher of the Kilbourne high school, and Louie Leath of Oak Grove, are receiving treatment at a Lake Village, Ark., hospital for severe injuries received Friday night when an automobile in which they were riding was wrecked on the Lake Providence-Oak Grove highway.

Miss Major was partly thrown through the windshield of the car in the accident and received severe cuts on her face. Leath, an employe of the state highway commission, received a fracture of the jaw.

It was reported that the accident took place when the car struck a section of the road which is being reconstructed. Either there was no warning signal light or the driver failed to see a signal light, it was reported.

ACCUSED MOTHER SILENT ON DEATH

Second Daughter Dies Of Ailment Which Took Life Of First

GREENVILLE, Texas, March 21.—(AP)—Mrs. Velma Patterson, 34, accused of fatally poisoning one of her daughters, was silent in jail today as officers planned to exhume the body of a second daughter.

She fondled pictures of the two children, Billie Fae and Dorothy Leon McCasland, 11 and 12 years old.

Suspicion fell on the mother when her daughters died a month apart, about six months after the death of their stepfather, Bill Patterson.

Dester McCasland, father of the children, who was serving a prison term for liquor law violation when his wife divorced him and married Patterson, was held as a material witness.

A murder indictment against the woman followed the report of a Dallast chemist showing poison in the viscera of Billie Fae, whose death January 7 was first attributed to influenza. The same ailment was given as the cause of Dorothy Leon's death early in February.

PUBLIC FORUM

PROTECT THE CHILDREN

To the Editor:

A picture of a dead soldier on the battlefield—an angel in the mist near by. Title of this picture, "Never Alone." A picture of a policeman holding a little girl in his arms that has just been killed by an automobile. Title of this picture, "Stop This Killing."

Won't the authorities of this town place a stop sign at the intersection of Washington and Walnut streets? Please clear all automobiles from the sidewalks and have a clear view 75 feet from the southeast corner of Washington and Walnut streets. Pedestrians should have equal rights with traffic of all kinds. Now I see little girls six and twelve years of age going to school, making this corner. These children are your charge, or any other blooded man's charge. In fact, I feel duty bound to protect all women and children who walk the streets of our town. You know I gave you my mother's charge on my political cards: "Tell the truth, stand by the women folks and adore the shamrock." Understand, I am not out to injure any man's business. What's wanted in Monroe is more vigilance and less traffic laws not enforced.

Let "Never Alone" and "Stop This Killing" be the watchwords.

JURY FREES MAN FROM SENTENCE

Given Liberty After Serving Year Of Term For Kidnaping

LONDON, Ont., March 21.—(AP)—David Meisner, who spent more than a year in the penitentiary under conviction of the kidnaping of John S. Labatt, went free today, acquitted at his second trial.

A Middlesex county jury, after deliberating more than seven hours, returned the verdict just before midnight last night that released the bookmaker from Covington, Ky. He had been sentenced, after his first trial, to 15 years in Kingston penitentiary.

"On the finding of the jury, you are a very wronged man," the justice told Meisner. "This is a very serious affair. I can only say that you are partly to blame yourself. It is the old story that a man is judged by his friends. The jury might have taken the other view and again convicted you."

"Thank you, my lord," Meisner replied.

From Door To Door

The persons who get the most out of this world are those who maintain a sensible balance between materiality and spirituality.

Unquestionably we are here to gain experience and spiritual growth. There are certain material laws we must observe to promote spiritual growth. Since we are in a physical world we are obliged to employ physical means largely to express ourselves.

Our unswerving purpose should be to use this physical life as a means to a constructive end—as a means of acquiring such spiritual development as we shall need to merit going into a better world than this one.

It is ridiculous that a person should think he can slip along through this existence double-crossing everybody, cowardly in all matters that will not get him a dollar, then as soon as his faithless breath has left his faithless body expect to hear an all-wise, all-seeing, all-powerful Deity say, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant." Rather should he expect to hear, "Depart from me. You knew better, but you deliberately refused to do better."

To have clothing, food and shelter is necessary in this existence, short as it is. Those who disregard such things are missing the mark, while those who make material possessions and material expressions the big things in life are also missing the mark.

The men who devote themselves to "grabbing"—which is a universal trait—show about as much real sense as a sitting hen which has all the eggs she needs, but which steals fifteen more from another hen. Not only do the stolen eggs do her no good, but they prevent her from getting a good hatch from her own eggs.

Selfish interests that "sell the public down the river" are like so many silly ostriches, refusing to see that they are not only harming others but themselves. Too, they are like the greedy dog that eats up his own pan of grits and gravy and that of another. He makes himself sick with overeating and the other dog sick with want of eating. Dogs are not supposed to have better sense, but men are.

The thing for us to do in this world is to keep our eyes on the main chance—and that main chance is the place we make for ourselves in the hereafter while we are here.

We are merely passing through this existence. We go through two doors, the entrance—when we are born—and the exit, when we die. The way we behave ourselves while we are going from one door to the other will determine our position in the world to come.

Some of us get so sidetracked as we move from one door to the other that we lose sight entirely of our great opportunity. We fiddle around with foolishness or viciousness until the time comes to go out; then we are filled with regret, and wish we had done differently.

It seems logical that the person who has not been a good citizen here need not expect to go to a place where good citizenship is a requirement.

"PRODUCTION PEAK"—YES?

An Ohio psychologist, Dr. Harvey C. Lehman, after much research has come to the conclusion that the age of 41 years is the high spot in production for writers and that poets are at their best around 35. Other specialists are in proportion, with the usual exceptions, of course.

Speaking of late bloomers in literature and the arts generally how about William De Morgan? Up to a gracious maturity of 65 years he was interested in decoration, with emphasis on pottery and tiles. Then he burst out with "Joseph Vance," not a negligible novel, and within five years had turned out three or four more that made pre-war readers in England and America do a lot of new reading. There was Mark Twain, who did some of his best work after 50. Think of Hugo and Dickens! How about Joseph Conrad? He was a sea captain when he turned to writing fiction and not by any means in his first youth when he started; when he died at 67 he was famous, with a lot of good books to his credit and still more in his inexhaustible mind. Was he at his peak? The general impression seems to be he was. Howells wrote his greatest novel at 48.

Ever hear of the painter Titian? He was along in his 90s when he took the count. He almost died with his brush and palette in his hand. Then there is our own Einstein, not exactly a chicken, nor was Nietzsche when he died. Production peak? That eminence is not reached by time table. It arrives when it arrives. Page George Bernard Shaw!

Age is beginning to tell a little on Senator Carter Glass. After pounding the top of an oak desk during the greater part of an hour's speech, the senator's knuckles were covered with blood, but the desk remained intact.

Michigan family includes five World war veterans. Payment of the bonus should enable them to retire until enactment of the Townsend plan.

It is fortunate that no one will be able to compute what new taxes will be needed for several months. That will make it impossible to enact them until after the election.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

SOUNDING A WARNING

(Airplanes are scattering grain so there will be no lack of ducks when the shooting season arrives.)

Little quacking, ruddy duck,
You believe that you're in luck.
Men are dropping bags of grain
From a swiftly moving plane
Which the while you hurry by
Will provide your food supply
And, the while you soar aloft
You'll cry, "This is pretty soft,
Food in plenty comes my way
Without a single cent to pay."

For another month or two Hunger will not worry you;
As you journey to and fro
Food will fall like winter snow;
Plump and round you're form will be
As you float from log to tree,
Pausing now and then to drink
At the placid river's brink,
Crying, "Wasn't I in luck?
I'm a crafty little duck."

Ah, but fall will soon be here,
Men with shotguns will appear,
Sniping at you as you pass
Through the gaps in the morass,
Gathering from miles away
To make of foolish ducks their prey,
Then how are you going to feel—

Cruelty And Injustice

By BRUCE CATTON

Maybe, if we took the time to understand what that little word "war" really means, we wouldn't toss it around as casually as we have been doing lately.

The way the word has been handled you'd think war was a sort of exercise or discipline which, while mildly unpleasant, didn't really amount to enough to make anyone think twice about it.

It might be wholesome to pause for a minute or two and consider the case of Otto Stukart, of Vienna.

Twenty-one years ago, when the World war was young and some millions of young men had not yet found the graves for which they were destined, Stukart was a soldier in the imperial army of Francis Joseph of Austria. Serving on the Russian front, he was captured and stuck into a prison camp far back somewhere in the lonely Russian wastes.

• • •

The war ground its bloody way down the years, and Stukart stayed in prison. Revolution swept across Russia, the war ended, the house of Hapsburg fell, and its empire was dismembered—and still Stukart stayed in that desolate prison camp.

For this particular batch of prisoners had simply been forgotten. So many things had been happening that the Russian authorities just let it slip their minds. So Stukart remained in prison, along with his comrades, until at last, in the year 1936, somebody remembered them and turned them loose.

So Stukart, finally, after 21 years in prison, made his way back to Vienna and was reunited with his wife and daughter, who had supposed him dead.

• • •

That's all there is to this particular story. The cables didn't reveal what the husband and the wife said to each other, or what they thought about things. Someone did take a picture; and you can see the tired, haggard face of this former Austrian soldier looking out at you with the blank stare of a man who has come to understand that life is a sellout and a fraud. But you have to imagine the rest of it.

Now the point of all this is that this monstrous injustice is just a small sample of the sort of thing war hands out indiscriminately. War, in other words, is blind and stupid and heartless. It completely ignores the individual.

It can bite 21 years out of a man's life as heedlessly as it can gouge out his eyes or break his spine or drape his entrails over a barbed-wire fence; not because any purpose is served by so doing, but merely because that is the way war works.

If we can only remember that war is nothing but an infinite number of such cases of cruel and everlastingly useless injustice, we might stop talking about it so glibly—and, instead, renew our determination that we are going to remain at peace, no matter what happens in Europe.

KEPT FROM FREEZING BY MOVING ICE—A few years ago Wess Martin, foreman of the Ukiah ice plant in Ukiah, California, was working alone around the plant and accidentally locked himself in the ice storehouse. The lock worked only from the outside. Faced with the problem of freezing to death if he remained still, Martin started moving the heavy ice blocks and worked hard all night long, simply moving the blocks from place to place. By morning, when his men came to work, he had completely worn out all the ice in sight. A new lock was promptly installed.

Lights Of New York

By George Ross

NEW YORK—"This," murmured Lady (Adele Astaire) Cavendish as she raised a trembling finger, "is what America does to me. And I don't drink. I'm going to bed for a week and wake up when we sight the green shores of Ireland."

And so, now, look at what you've done, America! Exhausting a gentlewoman from a big castle at Lonsmore in the heart of old Erin, with your night clubs, theaters, race tracks, sunny country and Hollywood. No wonder that Lady Cavendish is tired.

For the little girl who was called Adele Austerlitz when she and her brother, Fred, came to Broadway from Omaha, Neb., is no longer accustomed to the pedestrian and noisy pleasures that our big towns have to offer. Time was when Aela Astaire was the life of the party at Park Avenue's salon extravaganzas and made little protest about weariness or satiety. But No More.

Lady Cavendish now has responsibilities.

The last time your correspondent chatted with the mistress of Lonsmore Castle, our topic dealt, even not for a moment, with such silly items as tap dancing, musical shows and the best comedienne of the year. But rambled on, instead, about the cost of a castle's upkeep in Ireland, agrarian expense and the relationship between the Irish Free State and England. Erstwhile Adele of the arm and leg shows was well informed on the subjects of How to Manage a Salmon Fishery, Budgeting the Castle Pantry and other domestic etceteras. Not a bit like the hurly-burly of Broadway or the ennui of Omaha, Neb. Besides, the Cavendishes retire at 10, when at home.

Paths of Glorification

What has become of the Zeigfield girls? This is a fine time to be posing that very query because the late Great Glorifier is being posthumously honored in the east and west right now. From Hollywood will soon come a talkie called "The Great Ziegfield," recounting the Glorifier's career. On Broadway is a 1936 edition of "The Ziegfield Follies" unto which Billie Burke, his widow, lends her support and her name. And yet, only one Ziegfield lady appears in the Broadway revue and three or four are in the film.

Where, then, are they all?

With Bernard Sobel's help—and Squire Sobel was the Great Ziegfield's first lieutenant for years—your correspondent learns of, at least, several whereabouts. Fannie Brice is in the "Follies" on the Rialto, out of sentiment, perhaps for she was one of Ziegfield's most loyal girls. Virginia Bruce, Camille Lanier and Harriet Hoctor, all of whom graced the line as showgirls in previous years, appear in Hollywood's hangouts.

Paulette Goddard, once a dancer in the Glorifier's revues, is now, as you all know, Charlie Chaplin's favorite and leading lady. Suzanne Fleming, out of whose slipper champagne was sipped, vanished from the limelight after appearing in a few pictures with Adolphe Menjou.

• • •

Shining Example

Ina Claire, who once stood in the rear row of Follies enchantresses, did pretty well by herself. So well that she is now considered [illegible]'s foremost comedienne.

It was she, as a m[illegible], who inspired several of her playmates to pursue dramatic careers for themselves. Like pretty Mary Alice Rice, who is now an understudy in "Pride and Prejudice." And then there was Gypsy Rose Lee, now the highest paid striptease dancer in the burlesque business. And Jessica Reade who has a daughter old and lovely enough to grace the front lines of the current Follies.

Recall Dorothy Knapp, the Miss America who was so widely advertised? She now lives quietly in Tudor City and studies sculpture. Or Claire Luce, who received more proposals of marriage in her day than any other of her contemporary showgirls? Now in London, an outstanding actress in legitimate plays.

But they remenisce sadly of Marion Strasmick, who later became Marion "Kiki" Roberts, sweetheart of the slain gangster, "Legs" Diamond. And even more sadly of Flo Lane, who for unexplained reasons committed suicide.

No, this doesn't purport to enumerate even half the roster of beautiful ladies who have gone on from backstage. Some have wed into millions, some have wed modestly and many have vanished into the pleasant oblivion of private life. But the name of Ziegfeld has become an institution for posterity.

The New Idea Of Cancer

As Outlined In Bulletins Of The American Society For The Control Of Cancer, New York

THE FAMILY DOCTOR IN CANCER

It is to him that a person should go for diagnosis and treatment. If the family physician is not certain of the diegnosis, he should not wait, but should refer the patient to a specialist or to a hospital or clinic where special facilities exist for the examinations which are required.

It is no reflection upon the family physician when he cannot himself make a diagnosis in cancer, for the disease takes so many forms and affects people in so many ways that it is sometimes impossible, even with the best equipment, skill and experience, to be certain of the trouble. There is an old saying and a true one to the effect that the more simple the diagnosis the more fatal the case. The reason for this lies in the fact that advanced cases of cancer present symtoms which are unmistakable, whereas newly formed cancers in certain locations may present few or no symptoms.

The family doctor in cancer should be the patient's guide, philosopher and friend. He is familiar with all the resources in his region of the country which can be turned to the advantage of his patients. He should be suspicious of cancer upon the slightest evidence, and he should be firm in the instruction he gives as to treatment. Being a practitioner of medicine and not a surgeon, he may not be able to perform the operation, if one is required, but he should know the qualifications of those who can do so with the greatest skill. He should be aware of the pitfalls which lie in the field of quackery and be able to guide his patients away from them.

The time to cure a cancer is when it is beginning.

If you think you have any of the symptoms described in these articles you should be examined by your doctor or at a hospital at once.

Subsequent article—"Home Remedies in Cancer."

A STAMPING CORNER

By W. J. KIRBY

There seems to have been another hitch regarding the design of the Arkansas centennial stamp, a recent Washington dispatch telling of the director of the bureau of printing and engraving, through Senator Carraway, having asked the Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce for views from that city to be used in the design of the stamp.

A Washington correspondent states that there is a possibility of a souvenir pane for the International Philatelic exhibition, which will be held in New York, May 9 to 17. The suggestion has been made that a block of four stamps be issued, it containing one each of the Wisconsin, Connecticut, Michigan and Texas stamps, while another suggestion is made that a block of four of the new 16c air-mail-special delivery be used.

Personally we prefer the four-state group suggestion, as collectors of United States issues have never had the novelty of sextenant pairs or blocks. Then, too, it would be much easier for collectors to spend 12c for such an issue than to spend 64c, as would be the case with the air-special.

Linn's Weekly Stamp News states that President Roosevelt announced at a recent press conference that he has asked the postoffice department to prepare a series of stamps honoring military and naval heroes.

Let us hope that, should such an issue materialize, it will be confined to a series of low values. With a low face value it would be within the reach of the average collector without a serious drain on the pocketbook.

Nigeria, one of Britain's African colonies, adds a new set to those bearing portraits of the late King George. These were in preparation when the popular sovereign died. Pictorial in design, the stamps bear a picture of the king in a medallion at the top. This, with the exception of the recent jubilee issue, is the first change in design of Nigerian stamps since the first issue in 1914. These are in 12 denominations ranging from 1-2 d. to 1 pound in value. Those from 2s. 6d. are in bi-colors.

In this conneciton, we might mention that the first stamp bearing the portrait of the late King George, after his ascending the throne, was the first stamp issued by the Union of South Africa. The union was founded immediately after his accession to the throne, by a consolidation of Orange Free State, Transvaal, Cape of Good Hope and Natal. The stamp, a 2 1-2d. blue, was issued a few months later in commemoration of the opening of the first parliament. Of large formation, it is very beautiful, reasonable in price, and is found in the collection of practically every collector. It was issued almost three years in advance of further issues of the new union.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON.—The best thing you can say about the New Deal housing policy—or the lack of it—is that the situation hardly can get messier than it is.

Senator Bob Wagner of New York, who realizes that New York has bad slums and that it would be nice to install the poor in pretty apartments, has been "leading the fight" for public housing for a year. Fortnightly he has made vigorous speeches and since January he has been on the verge of introducing a bill for a great housing program.

No one has seen the Wagner bill yet, however, and perhaps no one will. The senator wants administration support and the administration is divided, vague, and cloudy-minded.

Roosevelt recently complained that his advisers couldn't agree and those who know the inside of the housing issue insist that's just like bemoaning the lack of agreement between Italians and Ethiopians as to the future of Abyssinia.

• • •

Just What The Jam Is

A growing housing shortage finds the building industry constructing homes which only 15 per cent of families can afford. About 70 per cent of city wage earners have annual incomes below $1,500, with a medium of $950.

Practically everyone agrees that dwellings should be provided for the $800 to $1,500 income group. The only attempt at that now being made is through a few subsidized and experimental-demonstration projects of the resettlement administration and the PWA housing division, which hope to show what can be done to reach groups between $900 and $1,500.

Recognized housing experts agree that adequate housing for the lower income groups requires subsidies of from 40 to 50 per cent, depending on location. A 50 per cent capital grant for housing is equivalent to about a 25 per cent subsidy on rent.

• • •

Reasons Given For Plan

Any kind of public housing program means redistribution of income—through diversion of tax funds to rent subsidies. Public housing advocates assert it's a much better means of redistribution than the dole and usually advance these reasons why the federal government should go in for housing in a big way:

1. It's the most economical, efficient long-range method of reducing unemployment and stimulating the building and other heavy industries.
2. It opens a huge new field for investment of private funds in productive enterprise.
3. It can effect large savings for communities through reduction in crime and disease.
4. It would avert the continuing and increasing housing shortage which affects everybody and makes us all miserable by causing increases in rents to the gouging points.

• • •

Opposed By Big Interests

The last point is significant. The financial real estate interests, including banks and insurance companies, have good reason to oppose public housing programs. If renters are made to pay 30 per cent of their incomes for rent instead of an average 20 per cent, the pleasant benefits to such groups are obvious.

The more acute a housing shortage, the more rent you can get from an old shack or a slum tenement.

Those groups appear to have been represented in the president's galaxy of housing advisers. Important among the advisers are treasury heads, Peter Grimm—the New York real estate man—Allie Freed of New York's Paramount taxi firm, and Chairman Jesse Jones of RFC.

These and others paraded to Wagner and seem to have got the worthy senator, not to say the president as well, all mixed up.

• • •

Ends In A Mixup

A central housing committee was appointed and it labored for months to agree on a plan for recommendation to Roosevelt. Its members represented Federal Housing administration, HOLC, RFC, treasury, resettlement, PWA and the national resources board.

It finally presented two reports to the White House, disagreeing as to extent of subsidies and of federal participation in a program. Representatives of PWA, resettlement and HOLC favored a strong federal program creating a permanent U. S. housing authority with power to issue guaranteed bonds, make capital and annual grants, and permit federal construction where localities were not set to handle the building themselves.

The net result to date is that everyone concerned agrees he or she is "for housing," but that we just aren't having any.

And Mr. Roosevelt, who is watching his budget, apparently won't be happy until he can have a housing program which won't involve subsidies.

RUSSIAN CHORUS TO APPEAR HERE

Famous Organization Slated For Two Concerts In Monroe Monday

The world famous Slaviansky's Russian chorus that was heard here three or four years ago by a large audience, will return again Monday night at the Neville High school, where there will be a matinee at 2:30 p.m. and a night performance at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium. The matinee will be specially for school children and admission will be very small.

This entertainment is being brought here for the benefit of the Neville High school band, which needs added equipment at this time.

This is one of the oldest choral organizations in the world. It was first formed 75 years ago in Russia and has visited practically every country of the world, under the able direction of Dmitry Slaviansky, the founder, and his daughter, Mme. Margarita Slaviansky, present conductor.

The group is called the undisputed peers of choral harmony, and one of the slogans on the Pacific coast is "In all the world no singers like these."

Their programs are extremely versatile, also filled with fire and character distinctly Russian, all performed in native costumes. With special lighting effects, their programs are extremely colorful and fast-moving, with an unusual eye and ear appeal to people of every class, from the highly educated concert patron to those who have no knowledge of music.

In order to accommodate many children who can attend this program at a small cost in the afternoon, special buses will convey children from Barkdull Faulk and Lida Benton schools to and from the Neville high school on Monday afternoon, where the matinee is slated at 2:30 p.m.

WPA QUOTA IN DISTRICT CUT

Director States That Orders Require Reduction In Ranks

Reductions of district quotas from 4,903 to 3,265 by March 31, is required in the WPA ranks of the fifth congressional district, according to Albin P. Lassiter, director. This is in line with sweeping reductions ordered from Washington which will affect the entire state.

Mr. Lassiter made the following statement Saturday:

"Washington has ordered a reduction in Louisiana from the existing quota of approximately 60,000 to 44,800 by March 31; to 39,800 by April 15; to 37,800 by April 30; to 35,800 by May 15, and to 34,800 by May 31. Obviously there will be, in proportion to the whole, reduction in the fifth district.

"Our quota to March 15 has been 4,903, which has been cut to 3,265 for the period ending March 31. It is imperative that we reach that figure not later than the 31.

"These reductions are being made after an exhaustive study of each case and a comparison to the whole. Many factors will naturally enter into the selection of those persons who must be dropped. This entire procedure has been impartial and fair to all.

"With the reduced force it is very probable that we shall be forced to discontinue certain projects. Here again it has been necessary to study the comparative factors in order to determine these projects. These have been determined in a fair and impartial manner.

"The largest cut necessarily is the first. The others will be small in comparison. The same applies to projects discontinued.

"The remaining cuts will be made, as far as possible, on a basis of efficiency. We intend to complete by June 30 as many projects now operating as possible. Therefore, we must insist on efficiency in every department of the administration.

"When this reduction was first mentioned, the public believed that it would cause a great hardship on it and those directly affected. We sincerely believe that the public will be benefited and very few, if any, hardships will occur.

"We have always enjoyed a splendid cooperation from public officials and the general public in the 14 parishes of this district. We believe that this same spirit will prevail in the future."

MAN WIELDING AXE DAMAGES INTERIOR OF TRUST COMPANY

BAYONNE, N. J., March 21.—(AP)—A depositor, widely swinging an axe, all but wrecked the first floor interior of the Mechanics Trust company today and then, over-exerted, collapsed and died of heart disease en route to a hospital.

The man, later identified as William Freehan, 55, calmly strolled into the bank and suddenly began smashing two glass doors to bits with his long-handled axe.

Next he hewed away at two tellers' cages. "Just give me a few minutes to finish please," he said to a janitor, and brought the blade down repeatedly and indiscriminately.

Somebody shouted "holdup" and police entered the bank with guns drawn, to find customers and workers apparently cowed.

Seeing them, Freehan set down his axe and slumped to the floor. He was dead on admittance to a hospital.

Records showed Freehan had $200 on deposit in the bank which has operated on a restricted basis since Jan. 1, 1934.

because there were reports that the waters were receding upstream.

The Merrimack, which carried much misery and damage on its flood crest during the week, was receding, but slowly. There were fears that more rains at the river's source would send it screaming down its channel anew.

Epidemics menaced. There was scarlet fever at Southbridge, Mass., and at Amherst. All of the cities worst hit by the waters were alert to the menace to health. Unusual precautions were being taken everywhere. The Red Cross and the federal health service were extending help wherever the need existed.

There was martial law in dozens of places, not only in New England but in other flood-struck states. Looters were promptly dealt with.

Word came finally from Rumford, Maine, which had been isolated two days by the wild-running Androscoggin river. Five hundred families were being cared for there by others more fortunate. Farmers, fleeing from their inundated land, brought milk and food with them.

Industry throughout the Connecticut and Merrimack valleys was at a standstill. A dam in the Quinnebaug river near Danielson, Conn., caused great uneasiness as the waters poured over it.

Many cities from Connecticut to Maine were without power. The night was a night of darkness. Communication companies struggled unceasingly to undo the damage done to their lines.

There was one man who had reason to gloat as the flood waters rose in the prison at Wethersfield, Conn. He was John Siemborski who killed a policeman and was sentenced to be executed next Tuesday. There was a good chance the flood may have delayed his execution.

Hartford, among all New England cities, has suffered most. The waters stand many feet deep in some places. Hundreds have been driven from their homes. More than 1,000 national guardsmen were patrolling the street last night, with 500 more expected. The Red Cross was caring for 2,500 persons. The damage in Hartford alone was estimated at $10,000,000 in the worst calamity the city has ever known in its 300 years of existence.

Three hundred summer homes and cottages were inundated. Greater damage was predicted. The waters were rising last night.

Twenty-eight New York counties have been hit by the flood. The city of Binghampton has been a heavy sufferer. One large plant there estimated its own damage at a million dollars. A leak in the city's flood-surrounded gas fuel holder spread great alarm. WPA and CCC workers calked it late yesterday with sandbags.

The New York state health department, alert from the first moment of the flood, said there was no sign of disease in epidemic proportions anywhere in the state.

Much of Pennsylvania's flooded area was concerned with rehabilitation—with returning to homes where a few days ago water stood and where now there is muck and mud.

The need for money—for much money—was recognized in Washington as well as in the capitals of the stricken states and in the council chamber of suffering cities. President Roosevelt allocated $43,000,000 to the WPA for repairs and replacements in affected areas.

Red Cross money was being poured forth without stint. Private contributions were swelling.

Huntington, West Virginia, was experiencing the suffering that Pittsburgh and Wheeling knew earlier in the week and what, it is feared, down stream points on the Ohio may experience this week.

The flood waters were spreading over the Ohio lowlands from Marietta to Cincinnati, and on the West Virginia and Kentucky sides, too. A blinding snowstorm added to the difficulties and augmented the dangers. There was the menace of food shortage and disease. The number of homeless in that section was increasing hourly.

Manufactories along the Ohio have been hard hit. In Pittsburgh and Wheeling the damage was great. Steel plants, potteries and mines have been heavy losers.

Easter retail trade in many cities has been struck a severe blow.

Several rivers in North and South Carolina were reported last night to be rising rapidly. They were expected to reach their crest late today or tomorrow.

The flat, rubber change pads on cigar cases have a "weight," if lifted at the center, of almost 75 pounds.

SUPER-GIANT OF AIR GETS ITS FIRST TEST

The world's greatest airship the super-giant LZ-129, here is pictured as it emerged from its hangar at Friedrichshafen, Germany, for its inaugural flight over Lake Constance. Going through her paces under the watchful eyes of her commander, Dr. Hugo Eckener, the mammoth air liner's trip was a complete success. Built at a cost of more than $3,500,000, the LZ-129 is 813 feet long, 145 feet high, and can carry 50 passengers. She is expected to cross the north Atlantic to Lakehurst, N. J., late in May, before going into South American service.

Lake Providence

Mrs. Doyle Hill was hostess at the March meeting of the American Legion auxiliary, with Mrs. Harry Blount as cohostess.

Mrs. Vera R. Cohron, fifth district president, presided in the absence of Mrs. H. L. Van Valkenburgh.

Mrs. Blont, child welfare chairman submitted her monthly report, listing an expenditure of $35 for clothes donated to needy persons, and $2.50 for food furnished the Lake Providence high school soup kitchen.

Mrs. J. P. Davis, treasurer of the school first aid room, submitted a report.

Bulletins were distributed to the chairman for Community Service month.

A subscription to the Fidac Review was given to the library of the Lake Providence high school. Mrs. W. H. Hamley, department Fidac chairman, is offering a history to the unit Fidac chairman making the best record of the year on that work.

Miss Mabel Hamley, president of the juniors told of their activities and requested the cooperation of the unit in giving a "backward" party Saturday, April 18.

Mrs. H. T. Van Fossen submitted, for the committee, resolutions honoring the life and work of Mrs. C. B. Ellis, a departed member.

Members served with regreshments were: Mrs. W. H. Hamley, Mrs. E. C. Frenz, Mrs. A. J. Wyly, Mrs. S. N. King, Mrs. J. G. Wyly, Mrs. W. C. Lyon, Mrs. Vera Cohron, Mrs. F. W. Schober, Mrs. Van Fossen and Misses Mabel and Margaret Mary Hamley.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wise and daugters, Vivian and Ernestine, of Oak Grove were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Braswell of Transylvania.

orite son" delegations face actualities at Cleveland.

The practice of sending such delegations, instead of giving the party members a chance to vote on their preference in the primaries, was condemned by Borah at Youngstwon, O.

He took his case before a Chicago audience tonight, in contesting against Knox for Illinois delegates in the primaries next month.

While he himself refrained from naming his opponents in arguing the party should nominate one who enters the primaries as he is doing, his organization was not so reticent.

"It is quite obvious," said Edgar J. Cook, chairman of the Illinois Borah-for-president committee, "that both Mr. Landon and Mr. Knox hold the same views of sidestepping or dodging any primary fight with Senator Borah wherever they possibly can."

Cook called "bombastic and unfounded" an assertion by Knox that the contest at present lies between Landon and him.

were reported bringing knitted brows in conferences of officials responsible for administration of the new farm relief plan.'

These were:

1. Division of the $470,000,000 subsidy fund among the states.

2. Working out exact definitions for soil "depleting," "conserving" and "building crops," and classification of crops under such terms.

(In a general way, the soil conservation program would provide for payment of an average of $10 an acre for land diverted from commercial crops to soil conserving uses. The AAA seeks to shift to that category some 30,000,000 acres which otherwise would be devoted to commercial crops in 1936).

As outlined by Wallace, the program was said in almost no instance to contemplate paying farmers as much as they asked in four regional conferences held two weeks ago.

Cotton farmers, for example, after a two days controversy in a committee room had asked payment of six cents a pound for cotton which they would have grown on land which instead will be planted this year in soil conserving crops. The AAA will pay five cents.

Equitable divisions of subsidy funds among the states—expected within three weeks—was said to be causing considerable concern in farm administration circles.

It was indicated that the division of funds might follow roughly the amounts of old AAA benefit payments received by each state.

DANCE PARTNERS

HUDSON-DELANGE GROUP OF MUSICIANS TO PLAY HERE AT BENEFIT BALL

The Hudson-DeLange orchestra is scheduled to furnish music for the style show and ball to be held by the Junior Charity league Wednesday night at the Three Mile Inn. The entertainment will be given for the benefit of the league's medical clinic.

The orchestra, under a long-term contract to the Mills Artists, Inc., has just won acclaim for its rendition along the Atlantic seaboard and is making a bid for honors on a par with those of the best orchestras in the nation.

The musical aggregation is the latest find of Irving Mills, head of Mills Artists, Inc., who discovered such now famous bands as those of Duke Ellington, Cab Calloway and Ina Ray Hutton.

Will Hudson, one of the directors of the band, is one of the nation's leading composers and arrangers of dance music. Eddie DeLange, the other director of the orchestra, is a well-known lyricist.

Mills brought Hudson and Delange together to collaborate on song hits. The two pooled their musical resources and have turned out many successful tunes, among them being the lilting, melodic "Moonglow."

Special changes in the orchestral instruments, changes in the brass and strings, added woodwinds and various combinations have enabled the musical group to interpret to the fullest the distinctive pep and rhythm set on paper by the composers.

OFFICERS CALLED IN STUDENT RIOT

About 100 Men From Two Texas Schools Take Part In Fight

ABILENE, Texas, March 21.—(AP)—Police were called out here today to quell a general melee between 52 members of the band from Texas Technological college at Lubbock and about an equal number of Hardin-Simmons university students, who were reported to have "ganged" the Matador musicians as they drove out of Abilene in two buses.

The fight was waged along the highway and on the Texas and Pacific right-of-way.

Four Tech bandmen were taken uptown to have wounds treated by doctors. They were H. A. Watson, Lubbock; K. C. Pritchett, Abilene; Fred Stour, Midland; and Paul Coe, Wellington.

Several of the attackers also were reported beaten but hurried away before their names could be learned.

D. O. Wiley, Tech bandmaster and graduate of Hardin-Simmons, said the assailants were led by the Abilene's school football squad. As the Tech buses passed an intersection the Hardin-Simmons group let loose an egg barrage, he said. The Tech boys promptly accepted the challenge and the melee became general as they piled out of their buses.

An immediate investigation was launched by Hardin-Simmons officials. They said the ring leaders would be rounded up and drastically punished.

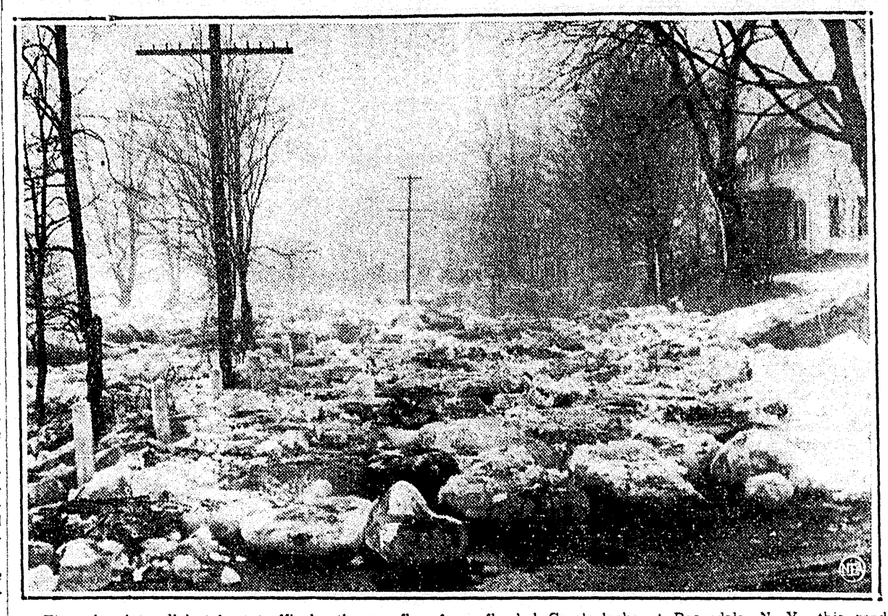

Bad feeling between the football squads of Hardin-Simmons and Texas Tech also was a cause of the attack on the Matador bandsmen, it was reported.

The Tech band gave a concert in Abilene last night under sponsorship of the local high school band. Before its start a stench bomb was discovered on the stage from a door in the rear. Later ten Tech bandsmen were captured at a downtown dance hall and the nitials "HSU" were branded on their foreheads in silver nitrate.

300 WORKMEN EMPLOYED IN CONSTRUCTING MILL

CROSSETT, Ark., March 21.—(Special) — Approximately 300 workmen have been given jobs on the construction of the Crossett Lumber company's new pulp and paper mill here. The employment is in the charge of the national re-employment service. Applicants from other sections are being turned away, as preference is given local workmen.

FLOOD CLUTTERS HIGHWAY WITH CHUNKS FROM FLOE

First closed to all but boat traffic by the overflow from flooded Creek locks at Rosendale, N. Y., this road was left impassable by the huge blocks of ice left behind when the water receded. Thawing of the vast accumulations of ice and snow of which the chunks are fragments is largely to blame for the flood conditions that took more than 10 lives and did extensive damage in eight seaboard states.

Soil Program On Small Farm Explained By AAA Officials

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP)—AAA officials said today this is how the soil conservation program might operate on a 100 acre southern farm, where cotton is the principle crop, allowing the farmer the maximum in subsidy payments:

With a total area of 100 acres, the farmer might have a cotton base of 70 acres. Ten acres might be planted in corn, 5 in rye for a cover crop or pasture, and 15 in garden crops and woodlands.

The soil depleting base for the farm would be 70 cotton acres, plus 10 for corn and 5 for rye, a total of 85 acres.

20 per cent of this total must be in a soil conserving crop before the farmer could qualify for a payment. This would be 17 acres.

The maximum amount of cotton land which the farmer could divert to soil conserving purposes and receive a payment would be 35 per cent of his base, or 24.5 acres.

If the average production of the 24.5 acres was 180 pounds of lint cotton to the acre the farmer would be entitled to 5 cents a pound for 4,410 pounds, or $220.50.

If the 24.5 diverted acres were planted in a soil conserving crop in 1936, the farmer might receive as much as $100 an acre, or $24.50.

If the five acres of rye were plowed under in 1936, the farmer might receive as much as $1.00 an acre for this.

The total payment, then, would be $220.50 for the cotton, plus $24.50 for soil conserving crops planted on cotton lands, plus $5.00 for plowing under the rye, or the total of $250.00.

BUSES TO COMPLETELY REPLACE STREET CARS

BATON ROUGE, La., March 21.—(AP)—Abolition of the few remaining street cars in Baton Rouge in favor of motor buses was approved today by the city council.

The council authorized the Baton Rouge Electric company to substitute buses on the city belt, the last car line still operating since the company some time ago began replacing trolleys with buses.

The line will be abandoned in about 30 days after formal consent of the Louisiana public service commission is obtained.

SLAYING TO BE PROBED BY LASALLE GRAND JURY

JENA, La., March 21.—(Special)—Convening in regular session Monday, the LaSalle parish grand jury will investigate the slaying of William E. Girlinghouse on last November 2, allegedly at the hands of Napoleon Jones.

The accused man was arrested for the slaying and released under bond. He claims self defense, declaring that the slaying followed a quarrel over a fence separating properties belonging to himself and Girlinghouse.

FARM LOAN BODY TO ELECT HEADS

Some Of Objectives Of Association Outlined By Watkins

The Ouachita Valley National Farm Loan association will hold its annual stockholders' meeting in a short time to elect officers, J. H. Watkins, president reported. The date for the meeting has not been set but will be announced shortly, he said.

The organization, which is farmer-owned, has more than 700 members and owns more than $100,000 of the federal land bank stock in New Orleans, as well as other assets, Mr. Watkins said.

This association is maintained by the farmers without cost to the government, except in the supervision of the farm credit administration.

Besides numerous clerical duties it becomes the special duty of the association, Mr. Watkins, said to direct those who seek emergency aid under the farm credit administration of which the association is a part. Foreclosures have been avoided in many instances through the operations of this association, Mr. Watkins stated.

One of the objectives for 1936, according to Mr. Watkins, is to assist in the removal of the present "threat and menace" of the Jadwin spillway, so as to permit farmers freedom of action in matters of farm finance.

RICHARD CROOKS TO SING AT SHREVEPORT

Monroe music lovers were interested Saturday in an announcement that Richard Crooks, the famous tenor of New York's Metropolitan Opera company, will appear in the municipal auditorium at Shreveport on Tuesday night, April 7, for a concert under the auspices of the Women's Department club of that city. Richard Crooks, a native American, is regarded as the successor of Caruso. He is recognized as the foremost American tenor now before the musical world. Tickets for the Shreveport concert will be on sale Monday at the municipal auditorium. Mail orders should be sent to the Crooks concert, municipal auditorium, Shreveport, it was announced by Mrs. Patrick J. White, chairman of music of the Women's Department club.

After a sensational success as a soloist with the New York Symphony orchestra, on his return from service in the World war, Richard Crooks went to England and the continent, where he scored unusual triumphs and came to be recognized as the world's leading tenor. He made his operatic debut in "Tosca" at the Hamburg opera house. Returning to the United States, he first appeared with the Metropolitan opera in 1933, singing in Massenet's "Manon." He received the record number of 37 curtain calls for his triumph. In subsequent seasons he has sung "Faust, "Traviata" and "Linda de Chamounix." During 1936 he has roles in "Mignon," "Tosca" and "Madame Butterfly."

Starboard and larboard, meaning the right and left sides of a boat, came from the Italian words, "sto bordo" and "lo bordo," which were contractions of "questo bordo" and "quello bordo," meaning "this side" and "that side."

DIONNES' MOTHER SEES MOVIE FILM

Parent Of Quintuplets Proud And Sad On Viewing Picture

NEW YORK, March 21.—(AP)—Proud and a little sad was Elzire Dionne, plump mother of the Dionne quintuplets, today after seeing her five babies perform on the screen for the first time in "The Country Doctor."

Here with her husband Oliva on a special trip to see the picture, Mamma Dionne voiced a mild objection to only one secene.

"Why, it wasn't like that at all!" she exclaimed in French on seeing Hollywood's portrayal of the manner in which one baby after another was carried into the room and placed before the flabbergasted Papa Dionne.

Olive Dionne agreed with her that this scene wasn't strictly accurate. "It's crazy," he said. But in the main, he enjoyed hugely the screen portrayal of himself as a confused little man.

Emerging from the theater after the performance, the quintuplets' mother dabbed at her eyes and smiled wistfully. She lingered before posters bearing the pictures of her lively daughters and said:—

"I am very proud. And I am also a little sad. I hope that some day we may be reunited."

"C'est Yvonne! C'est Emelie! Annette . . . Cecile . . . et Marie!" They said.

Several days of sightseeing are ahead for the quintuplets' parents, this is their first New York visit.

FOR ECONOMICAL CHEVROLET TRANSPORTATION

The Chevrolet engine is the most economical automobile engine produced today, because (1) it is a six-cylinder engine, and (2) it is a valve-in-head six-cylinder engine.

Its six cylinders use less gas and oil—in fact, use the least gas and oil—because six cylinders are the most economical combination used in modern automobiles.

Every test proves it's more economical . . . Every Chevrolet owner knows it's more economical . . . And every person will readily understand these simple A-B-C reasons why it is more economical

CHEVROLET

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Its valve-in-head design cuts gasoline consumption still lower because there is less loss of heat through the walls of the combustion chamber in valve-in-head engines, and the advanced construction of the Chevrolet engine gives maximum heat (or power) saving.

Most important of all, Chevrolet's more efficient cooling system, pressure stream oiling and the greater accessibility of all working parts result in more dependable operation, over a longer period of time, with the lowest maintenance costs. Thus, Chevrolet's valve-in-head engine—only one of its kind in Chevrolet's price range—gives economy without equal.

It was on this Franco-Soviet pact that Hitler based his order for German troops to enter the long-demilitarized Rhineland. He claimed that France had herself violated the Locarno pact in making a military alliance with a nation outside the scope of that pact and that, consequently, Germany no longer was bound by it.

France promised that she would leave it up to the Hague to decide whether she had broken her promises under the Locarno treaty, by which Germany, on one side, and France and Belgium on the other, pledged themselves not to attack each other.

French statesmen said that if the Hague court rules against them, France will immediately end her alliance with Russia—thus removing Hitler's cause for objections.

But in the meantime—and this point is, perhaps, of the greatest present interest to the German government—the Locarno treaty powers, at the insistence of France and Belgium, want a strip of territory in Germany, where it touches France and Belgium, patrolled by an international military force.

The French say that such a force is necessary to prohibit the possibility that Germany will launch a sudden attack across the Rhine.

To the entrance of such a force, Germany objects. However, the British, hoping that Hitler will accede to this demand, assured the German government that the Rhineland would be occupied by international soldiers for a time only "as short as the British can make it."

Modern puzzles have been traced to Fontana, Italy, and some are contained in a book published in 1606.

unseasonable warm weather in far northwestern sections of Canada and Alaska made things worse.

Then rain from the "trapped" storm clouds came pouring down at a time when melting snows had wet the soil to the "saturation point." The wet earth could absorb no more water and the heavy rains rushed down through the rivers and upon the cities. Pouring with full power into the Ohio river, the Connecticut and the Potomac, these rains did most of the damage.

PERHAPS SOMETHING like that happened in the original Big Flood, Noah knowing nothing about "trapped storms," thought the whole world, like his section of it, was deep under water. He did not know that the earth is round and the water would be compelled to run away down hill.

M. W. CRESAP, of Chicago, knows all about clothing, says that this season, men will wear "checks and plaids, light browns and light blues and gay grays; and you will like it, and your wives won't get so tired looking at you."

Mr. Cresap does not mean that "men are going to wear pink suits or anything foolish, but there is emphasis on color."

HAVING BEEN DEPRESSED for seven years, some men might enjoy artificial gayety, even in pink suits.

Mr. Cresap in business on a very big scale, reports retail business good, which is more important than the checks and plaids.

JAMES J. WALKER, formerly mayor of New York City, and his young wife arranged to adopt a five weeks old baby girl but dropped the plan because of "too much publicity" after the baby had actually been selected.

What fortune teller, astrologer, or "Wise Woman" could tell the difference that "non-adoption" will make in the life of that little girl?

Sig Haas & Sons	2.00
W. C. Holstein	2.00
Dr. Minnie Faulk	1.00
Mrs. John Sanders	.50
Cypress Springs school	.50

Contributions should be made to the local chapter and will be forwarded promptly to the national Red Cross headquarters at Washington. Acknowledgments will be made in the press, it was announced.

Following is Mr. Tidwell's appeal:

"The flood disasters that have visited several states in the heart of the great industrial regions of the country, particularly in the Pittsburgh and Johnstown districts of Pennsylvania, constitute the most terrible catastrophe of the kind that has occurred in the history of the United States.

"Hundreds of millions worth of property has been destroyed and many lives have been lost. Beside that, according to the latest information, upwards of 275,000 persons have been made homeless. The suffering and distress are appalling among workers and small householders who have been deprived of their entire possessions.

"In this situation the president has issued a call for cooperation in rendering help in what is a national emergency. The American Red Cross, always prompt to serve in disaster relief, is already on the ground, and all its forces have been mobilized to repel the spectre of privation and epidemic.

"Every community in the south, especially in those areas which at too frequent intervals in the past have been obliged to look to the nation at large for help in flood and drouth, owes a debt of gratitude to the Red Cross for the timely and generous help it has given to us in times of great distress and need. We owe, too, a debt of appreciation to such communities as Pittsburgh, Johnstown and Wheeling, which have contributed largely to flood relief in the Mississippi valley in the past. For that reason it is especially appropriate that the people of this area should respond as liberally as possible to the appeal which has now been made to contribute to the relief of our suffering fellow-citizens in the north and east.

"Ouachita parish chapter of the American Red Cross has been asked to raise $600 as its quota in the national relief fund of $3,000,000. This is a small amount, but by giving quickly we can perform a service of the highest importance in making relief adequate and timely in this appalling disaster. The officers of the Ouachita parish chapter urge that every citizen undertake a share in meeting this great need.

"Contributions should be made to the American Red Cross and should be sent at once to the chapter headquarters, 220 South Grand street, Monroe. Public acknowledgment of all donations will be made through the press.

"C. R. TIDWELL,
"Chairman Ouachita Parish Chapter American Red Cross."

TOKYO MOURNS—AND REJOICES

MRS. ORA SNYDER HAD SMALL START

Big Candy Dealer Of Chicago Began Business In Her Own Kitchen

CHICAGO—(AP)—With a cup of sugar and a piece of chocolate as her stock in trade, Mrs. Ora H. Snyder entered the business world.

Mrs. Ora Snyder

That was 26 years ago. Today she is turning out tons of candy, owns and operates a chain of 15 stores in Chicago, and has 350 persons on her payroll.

In private life, Mrs. Snyder has six grandchildren and finds time in her busy day to maintain her home. Whatever her age is, she doesn't look it.

Mrs. Snyder always knew she could make candy. She started when she was a girl of six. It was a household art with her. Business experience had been confined to bickering with the grocer and butcher.

When her husband became dangerously ill, she wanted to help financially. So she turned to candy. With her meager resources, she made a plate of candy that friends quickly bought.

With her small profit, she made more candy, and by the end of that first week had increased her capital to almost $5. Then she branched out by taking space in a shop, and has been branching out ever since.

Her office is whichever store she happens to be in at the moment, although she does reserve a tiny cubicle for herself in one of her downtown shops.

"Seventy-five per cent of my customers are men," she says, "so I have six of my shops in typically men's locations."

Men, she says, like highly flavored candies of the chewy type, especially caramels. Girls and young women prefer fudges and creams. Older people demand hard sugar candies.

"I've never gone in debt," she says. "I sleep on all decisions and have found that over-optimism is fatal in business. I don't watch my competitors, I watch my customers."

She is enthusiastically in favor of a business career for women and sees no reason why it should interfere with home life.

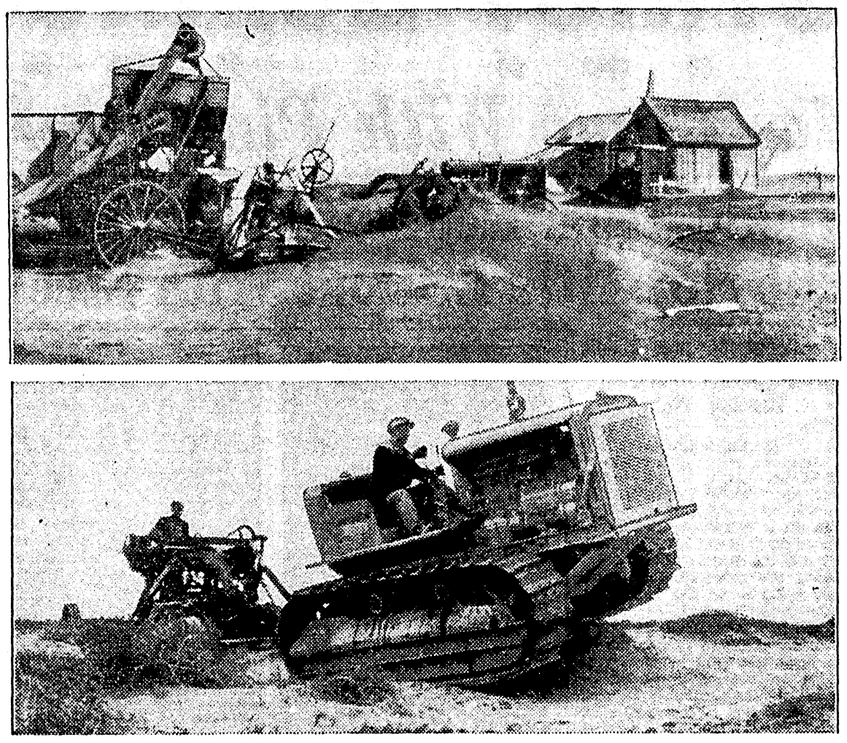

Here's her formula for success:

"Do the thing you know how to do best, have confidence, courage and ambition, and remember that a smile costs nothing, but pays big dividends."

CHOKING CLOUDS SWEEP WESTERN 'DUST BOWL'

Now that winds are whipping across the plains again, the southwestern "dust bowl" is threatened with another catastrophe like that which caused such suffering and damage last year. At the top is shown a farm near Guymon, Okla., with its abandoned house and machinery partially buried by the shifting top soil. Meanwhile, the government has joined in combatting the menace. Federal workers are seen (below) leveling down wind-driven dirt dunes with tractor and grader. (Associated Press Photos)

Wasted Time And Money In Taking Ordinary Remedies

Gly-Cas Easily Gets To Source Of Her Health Troubles After All Else Tried Had Failed; Rheumatism, Nervousness, Bowel Troubles Gone, Now Like New.

Monroe men and women who have any doubt regarding the remarkable efficacy of this great herbal remedy, Gly-Cas, which is being introduced and explained every day at the Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard street, this city, should talk with Mrs. Pearl

MRS. PEARL MARTIN

Martin, 213 Ouachita avenue, Monroe, well known and highly respected housewife whose husband is a prominent World war veteran of this city. Mrs. Martin had been in a miserable condition for so long before trying this new Gly-Cas and now read what she has to say:

"I want to say just one thing to all sufferers 'JUST TRY GLY-CAS' and notice how quickly your health troubles leave you," said Mrs. Pearl Martin, "I had been so badly with so many ailments for so long I was really in constant misery. Chronic constipation had allowed my system to become clogged with poisons and it was necessary for me to take the strongest medicines every night—but to no good effect. My head ached constantly, was nervous, had crying spells and it was hard to control myself. Rheumatism seemed to settle over my entire system and the pains were often unbearable until it was with a great effort I was able to do my housework or look after my family properly. A good night's sleep was almost impossible and the most stubborn headaches were almost a continual habit with me. Of course I put many medicines to the test in my case—but it was just wasted money and effort for all the good they gave me. One day, however, a relative knowing of Gly-Cas and of my suffering persuaded me to give it a trial which I did and have found it really remarkable."

"I am happy to say I am feeling entirely well and able to do as others do once more," continued Mrs. Martin. "I now eat and sleep well and have recovered from those awful headaches, severe nervousness, and rheumatic pains which were brought on through so much poison in my system. Now my bowels are regulated, my former strength and energy has been restored and I am an entirely different person. Gly-Cas has made such a remarkable change in my condition I now have a new interest in life itself. Too much cannot be said in praising this new vegetable medical discovery.

TOUTING BREVITY

The wise ones wending their way back from Florida bring word that Brevity, the Widener colt, looked like the proverbial million in winning the Florida derby. Consequently the price on the black son of Chance Shot has been slashed again in the Kentucky Derby winter book.

The latest quotations in Tom Kearney's big book, now being operated by Charlie Burke, hold Brevity at 5-2, 3-2 and 7-10. That's plenty short for a winter book price.

When the Derby nominations were announced on February 29, Brevity and Hollyrood were the favorites at 6 and 8 to 1. Hollyrood's price has since been slashed to 4-1, while Tintagel, another outstanding three-year-old has been boosted from 10 to 12.

Brevity won two of his three starts in 1935, including the Champagne stakes at Belmont. Hollyrood numbered the Pimlico Futurity, the Kentucky Jockey club stakes and the Maplewood handicap among his victories. Tintagel was the biggest money winner as a two-year-old, copping, among others, the Belmont Futurity to boost his earnings to $75,100.

Despite the fact that Brevity was way down the list of money winners of 1935, his sensational showing early this year, climaxed by an easy victory in the Florida Derby, has made the Widener colt the overwhelming winter book favorite at odds that are hardly attractive. Tintagel at 12-1, Coldstream at 15-1 or Grand Slam at 10-1 undoubtedly offer more appeal to your average investor.

If you want a real long shot, the Kearney winter book offers Baltimore Boy, Judge Kavanaugh, Lawyer Bridge or Sun Tryst at 400 to 1. It's all play or pay, of course.

DYNAMIC SCHMIDT

Francis Schmidt, Ohio State football coach, is one of the most colorful mentors in the business. He's rated one of the "toughest" football coaches in the game. Yet there is another side to Schmitty that's not generally known.

The other night we had dinner with Curtis Parker, Centenary coach, and the talk turned to Schmidt. Parker, ranked as one of Arkansas' greatest basketball players, knew his subject thoroughly.

"Schmidt was the toughest man in football I ever knew," said Parker. "Yet when he takes over a basketball squad, he's entirely different. Hard to get along with on the football field, Schmitty is as mild as a May breeze on the basketball court. Just why the different technique was always a mystery to me.

Perhaps Schmidt is a master at psychology. Realizing the difference in temperament of football and basketball players, the wily mentor uses different tactics in tutoring the two squads. Or there may be another answer to that one.

We often wonder why more coaches don't study the moods and peculiarities of the boys they're working with. Schmidt does, and his success is a matter of record. Parker does, and his work at Centenary has gained him a measure of fame that rarely is achieved by a young coach.

The other night a Wisconsin basketball player refused to go on the court when ordered into the game by his coach. And closer to home, a certain athlete refused to perform his chores when something happened that didn't please him. Imagine what would happen if Schmidt were the coach in either instance. You'd get an A-1 imitation of the Marines going into action at Verdun.

'GRANT CAN HELP'—PARE

"The United States will not win the Davis Cup back this year. England will retain it. Fred Perry is still the world's greatest amateur player."

That's the opinion of Emmett Pare, Tulane university tennis coach and formerly national professional tennis doubles championship player.

"Our real hope to regain the cup lies in the future. Such young players as Harmon, Hunt and Riggs, all juniors at present, are our real hope to win the cup within the next five years.

"If our team meets Australia on clay in the finals of the North American zone, our best chance for victory will be realized by the use of Bitsy Grant in singles. Personally, I think Grant is our only chance of beating Australia on clay. The little Atlantan is the greatest clay court tennis player in the country and one of the finest tennis has ever seen."

Pare doubts that Wilmer Allison's game will be as effective as a year ago. Neither does he believe Donald Budge, regarded as the other probable singles choice for play abroad, capable of beating the British.

"I imagine the line-up for play abroad, should we beat Australia in this zone, will consist of Allison and Budge in singles. Budge and Gene Mako will probably pair in one of the doubles teams and the other is likely to consist of Wilmer Hines and Henry Culley.

"They are all capable players in fast competition but hardly up to the British peak that we must look for this year," says the Tulane coach.

HOMER PILES UP 44 POINTS, WINS RUSTON TOURNEY

Pelicans Sweep All Three Trophies In Taking Rally Mitt Title

RUSTON, La., March 21.—(Special)—By taking seven firsts and three seconds places for total of 44 points, Homer high school won the championship in the finals of the second annual north Louisiana high school boxing rally held at Louisiana Tech Saturday night.

In addition to the sweepstakes trophy awarded for winning the tournament, the Claiborne Pelicans captured the cups offered the school totaling the most points in both the lightweight and heavyweight divisions In their total of 44 points, the Homer mittmen earned 21 points in the lightweight class and 23 points in the heavyweight class

A highlight of the final program was the heavyweight bout waged by Robert Kendrick, Homer, and J. W. Chandler, Choudrant, which the Pelican pounder won by a technical knockout.

Gold, silver and bronze medals were presentd to individaul winners of first, second and third places, respectively at the close of the finals.

126 pounds—W. A. White, Homer, defeated Pat Riser, Ruston.

In determining the championship of the rally, five points were awarded for a first place, three points for a second, and one point for a third.

Homer High school, following the semi-finals, had the championship "in the bag." There were 12 bouts in the finals Saturday night and Homer had entries in 10 of them. Even by losing all of their final matches and taking second places in all events, the Homer Pelicans would have earned 30 points. Their nearest "threat" was Choudrant, with four finalists whose maximum possibilities were only 20 points if they won all of their bouts Of Homer's 10 entrants in the finals, however, only four boxers had reached that bracket in fighting. The other six had either come through from original byes or had been placed in the finals for want of opponents. Thus, exactly half of the 12 final matches were participated in by six men, all from Homer, who had not raised a hand in any previous bout of the tournament.

Results of the semi-finals Saturday morning were as follows:

135 pounds: Colvin Benefield, Haynesville, defeated A. Shuler, Dubach, and Gerald Hightower, Arcadia, won on a forfeit from Fred McClanahan, Homer, who was ill.

Members of the Tech boxing squad alternated as referee and judges of the semi-finals. No draws were permitted, each bout requiring a decision for a victor.

Losers in semi-final rounds were to fight Saturday afternoon in consolation matches to determine winners of third places, but all of those bouts were forfeited. Although the winners of third places are eligible to compete in the state high school boxing tournament, the privilege was not conducive to continued fighting among the boys who already had been losers, it was explained.

From these third-place results, points were earned by schools as follows: Haynesville, 1; Ruston, 2; Bernice, 1; Choudrant, 2; Arcadia, 2; and Dubach, 1.

VOLS REBUILD FOR COMING CAMPAIGN

Major League Castoffs And Rookies Make Up Nashville Squad

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 21.—(AP)—Drawing players from the majors, the minors and bushes, the Nashville baseball club has an almost entirely new cast for its 1936 debut in the Southern association diamond show.

Lance Clayton Richbourg, manager, announced he probably would retire from active or at least regular duty, in favor of Douglas "Poco Tait, only member of the 1935 garden trio, counted on as a regular this season.

Gone are Jumping Joe Martin, third baseman; colorful Mule Shirley, first baseman; Tony Fiarito, keystoner; Steve Kuk, center fielder; and Pitchers Hal Stafford, Sharkey Eiland and Jim Chaplin. The latter two won more than 40 games between them last summer.

The infield is decidedly a question mark. On first base will be Bob Garretson, of the Pacific Coast league.

Dependable Bill Rodda, starting his sixth year as a Vol, will be in the shortfield, and young Jimmy Outlaw, of the Three-Eye league, has the hot corner assignment.

Tait, shifted over to right field, has handed over his old left field slot to Joe Dwyer, New York-Penn loop slugger whose 1935 plate mark was .350-plus.

Center field has been clinched by Adam Comorosky, genial 31-year-old gardener formerly of the Pirates and Reds. He anticipates a big year in Dixie, saying, "If I can't hit in this league I ought to quit baseball."

Young Ray Blaemire is back to share catching chores with Red O'Malley, also from the New York-Penn league. Richbourg plans to divide the work among them equally.

Returning is Byron Speece only. The veteran submarine tosser will be used mainly in relief roles. As starters Richbourg has the seasoned major leaguer, Flint Rhem, and a flock of rookies. The Cincinnati Reds may come through with a pitcher or two, but have given no indication yet as to who it might be.

CUNNINGHAM EASILY WINS BUTLER MILE

INDIANAPOLIS, March 21.—(AP)—Glenn Cunningham, former Kansas university mile star, tonight took an easy workout at the Butler university indoor relays and won a special mile race as he pleased over a field of little known mid-western runners in the slow time of 4:29.4.

Cunningham won by five yards from Mel Trutt, Indiana university freshman. Gregory Rice, Notre Dame freshman was third and Steve Schumanshowski, former Schenectady, N. Y., school boy star and now a Notre Dame freshman, was fourth. Ray Sears, Butler two mile star, who was expected to furnish Cunningham's main opposition, faded in the last quarter mile and finished fifth after leading through the early stages of the race.

The University of Michigan, by winning the final event on the program, the one mile relay, retained its team title with a total of 41 points, one and one-third points ahead of Ohio State university. Indiana finished third in the university division with 23 1-3.

Emporia (Kansas) Teachers college won the team title in the college division with 32 points to 21 1-2 for the Pittsburgh (Kansas) Teachers, who finished second.

MANIFEST CAGERS TENDERED BANQUET

MANIFEST, La., March 21.—(Special)—The basketball teams of the Manifest high school, senior boys and junior girls, winners of the annual Sicily Island high school tournament, were honored on St. Patrick's Day by a banquet tendered them by the home economics class of the school.

A green and white color scheme was carried out and there were imitation shamrocks and wild plum blossoms in evidence for the occasion.

OUACHITA BOOKS ATTRACTIVE CARD FOR 1936 SEASON

Byrd And Haynesville To Play Here; Spring Work Continues

The powerful Pine Bluff Zebras, undefeated in Arkansas high school football circles last season, have been added to the 1936 schedule of the Ouachita parish high school Lions, Coach "Lefty" Haynes announced last night.

The Zebras, who have been producing one of the nation's outstanding prep school elevens for years, will take the place of the Bolton Bears of Alexandria on the locals' schedule. The game is to be played on Thanksgiving Day in Pine Bluff.

A completed nine-game schedule for the 1936 Lion campaign was also announced by Coach Haynes.

Besides Pine Bluff, two other new teams appear on the schedule. They are the Waterproof Tigers, who won the north Louisiana Class B crown last season, and the Mangham Dragons, who also experienced a very successful campaign last fall. Three teams dropped from the list of games include Bolton, Crossett, Ark., and Columbia.

Five home games will be played by the Lions and four will be played on the road.

Among the home games will be two old rivals, the Byrd high school Yellow Jackets of Shreveport and the Haynesville Golden Tornado. The Jackets are state Class A champions, while Haynesville for years has been one of the outstanding Class A teams of the state.

In announcing the schedule, Coach Haynes said the dates for home games were not "fixed" and were subject to slight changes as he will cooperate with Northeast Center of L. S. U. and Neville high school in an effort to avoid conflicts in the three elevens' home schedule.

However, the dates are approximate as the games will be played on Thursday, Friday or Saturday of the week given.

The complete schedule is:

Sept. 25: Delhi, here.
Oct. 2: Waterproof here.
Oct. 9: Tallulah, there.
Oct. 16: Mangham, there.
Oct. 23: Bastrop, there.
Oct. 30: Haynesville, here.
Nov. 6: Byrd of Shreveport, here.
Nov. 13: Rayville, here.
Nov. 20: Open.
Nov. 26: Pine Bluff, Ark., there.

Spring training at Ouachita has been under way for the past two weeks, and the 30 odd candidates out for the team have at least five more weeks of strenuous work ahead of them, Coach Haynes said.

Most of the boys taking the "spring training course" are inexperienced, but from them Coach Haynes hopes to reap enough substantial material to reconstruct his 1936 edition. Flu, which has prevailed among Ouachita students for the past few days, cut down the squad considerably but the workouts will continue as long as an epidemic of illness or other unforeseen obstacles do not interfere.

The fundamentals of blocking and tackling have featured the days of work thus far, with quite a bit of passing and punting thrown in for good measure. Tackling and blocking dummies have been set up on the parish school grounds to absorb the energy of aspirants to the Lion eleven.

No scrimmages have been added to the drills yet, but Coach Haynes said last night that if no more of his boys took ill and they responded favorably to the workouts they would probably get a taste of scrimmage by the middle of the week.

The biggest task toward reconstruction of the Lions will be filling the gaps at both ends and at the tackles. Coach Haynes is losing all his regular ends and tackles and his number one substitute end and tackle. The ends to be lost through graduation this spring are Earl Cobb, John Renwick and Jack Warren. Tackles to be lost are F. C. Eason, Billy Trimble and Jules Parks. Only two men will be lost from the backfield but even at that the Lions should have a better ball carrying combination this fall than they had last year. The backs who are through are Bob Staples and Harvey Gregg. Coach Haynes started his first year here last September with practically no backfield to speak about and by the end of the season he had two sets of fast dependable backs. These boys are developing and promise to place another hard fighting aggregation on the north Louisiana gridirons this year.

Risko Risks Reputation And Jaw But Not Title In Bout With Steele

Sensational Tacoma Middleweight Meets Champion Tuesday Night

By Frank Gorrie
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

SEATTLE, March 21.—(AP)—Freddie Steele, the "Tacoma Terror" who has sky-rocketed up among the top-flighters in the middleweight division, has gained a crack at Eddie (Babe) Risko, but not at the championship.

Risko, the title-holder, will give Steele a chance to test his fighting mettle in a 10-round, over-weight, non-title bout here March 24.

Virtually unknown outside the Pacific Northwest until he gave Vince Dundee an unmerciful beating last summer, Steele is aiming to make Risko admit that he deserves a shot at the crown. Freddie, a straight punching, two-fisted slugger, jumped into the middleweight spotlight when he smashed former Champion Vance Dundee to the canvas 11 times in three rounds.

Champ To Take $6,000

Promoter Nate Druxman of Seattle, unable to lure Risko into a title battle, guaranteed a purse of $10,000 for the overweight bout. The champion will receive $6,000 for risking his reputation and Steele will get the other $4,000.

Druxman said Risko demanded $35,000 to bring his title along. If Steele is victorious, or at least makes a good showing against the champion, the promoter said he may attempt a title bout in an outdoor arena this summer.

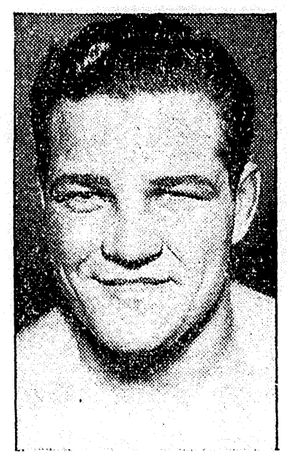

For this fight Steele and Risko will clash in the civic auditorium seating around 9,500. A capacity crowd will make it Seattle's biggest boxing gathering. Hundreds of reservations were recieved from neighboring towns particularly Tacoma, where Steele is the idol of sport's followers.

He's A Jaw-Breaker

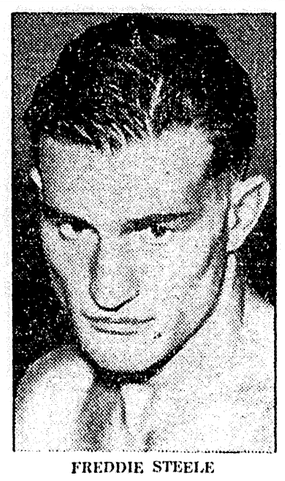

Freddie has had 84 fights since he started boxing professionally in 1930, winning 36 by knockouts and 41 by decisions. He has had five draws, the last one with Gorilla Jones of Akron, O., in 1934. He lost two bouts, one to Tony Portillo of Seattle in 1931, and the other to Tommy Herman of Los Angeles in 1932, but he later avenged both.

Steele is 23 years old, stands exactly 6 feet, has a reach of 73 inches, and weighs normally in the ring between 155 and 157 pounds. Against Risko he will have to weigh over the limit of 160 and he has been training on potatoes to satisfy the champion. Risko likely will scale about 164.

The Tacoma boy is of the "killer" type, carrying dynamite in either fist and usually knocking his victims groggy with his left and finishing them with his right. He has scored 11 knockouts in his last 15 fights, most of them in one to three rounds. It might be well to warn Risko, too, that he has broken three jaws, including Dundee's.

Bartell Made Giants' Head Whoop-It-Upper

Terry's Lads Emulate Gas House Gang In Popping Off This Year

By Eddie Brietz
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—True to his promise of last winter, Bill Terry has taken steps to convert his New York Giants into a hustling, hollering, popping-off ball club.

Dick Bartell

He has created a brand new "whoop-it-up" department with that well known baseball "jockey," Dick Bartell, in charge.

One of the best "holler guys" in the business, when he isn't worrying about a batting slump, Prof. Bartell is imparting the last word in pop-off tactics to a picked group of enthusiastic and highly specialized pupils.

"We'll show you a different type of ball club," said Terry in an off-season statement from Memphis. "We're going to be colorful, hard-riding, go get 'em outfit, with plenty of hollering on the side."

So he set out to stud the Giants with players who can make life miserable for enemy, both from the field and the dugout.

Already the results are noticeable. The Chicago Cubs couldn't believe their eyes—or ears—when they invaded Legion field here today for a series with the New Yorkers.

"Are them really the Jints?" one Bruin veteran wanted to know as the Giants, screaming like coyotes, hustled through infield practice.

Prof. Bartell, more than pleased with the progress of his class, thinks he has four or five prospective major league whooper-uppers.

All Coffman asks of life is that he stick with the Giants and thus show Rogers Hornsby he still is in the major leagues. If he can't do it with his pitching, he'll do it with his hollering. He only wishes the Browns were in the National league.

Then there is Charlie English, the hog-calling South Carolinian. They say when Charlie tunes up you can hear him in the next county. Bartell is grooming him in some snappy things to yell at the Cardinals and Cubs.

Bartell says Frank Gabler, the wise cracking Californian, is a "real prospect. He certainly can think up things to make you boil."

Another coming popper-offer is Harry Danning, the second string catcher.

"You'll hear from us," promised Terry today. "I can do some hollering on my own, if I have to. You probably heard me last season. I was about the only guy doing it regularly."

NEVILLE NETTERS DEFEAT BASTROP

Tigers Down Rams, 6 To 3; Bendel Continues Sweep With Two Wins

Neville high school's tennis team won another victory yesterday, turning back the bastrop high school Rams, 6 to 3. No girls' matches were played, due to illness of several members of the Bastrop team

Billy Bendel, of the Neville team, continued his sweep, winning his singles and doubles matches. Bendel last week gave Neville a tie with the strong Bolton team by winning his matches. He has not been defeated this season in a dual match.

Yesterday's summary:

Richard Sackett, Neville, beat R. Aubrey, 6-1, 6-0.

Keller, Bastrop, beat Fred Culpepper, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

Boys doubles:

Lawrence and Rodgers, Bastrop, beat Paine and Scakett, 6-8, 9-7, 6-2.

Gleason and Bendel, Neville, beat Keller and Aubrey, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4.

Roe and Nichols, Bastrop, beat Culpepper and Learned, 8-6, 4-6, 8-6.

A return match between the two schools will be played at a later date, it was announced.

HULA GRID STAR

NEW YORK, March 21.—If swivel hips mean anything in football, the Brooklyn Dodgers, of the National Football league, are going to have a grid star next fall who'll run 'em ragged. He's Johnny Kaakua, Hawaiian halfback, whose hula-hula action on the field has earned him the nickname of "Black Grange."

TIGERS SCORE 46 POINTS TO TAKE ANNUAL TOURNEY

Farmerville Second In Highly Successful Meet At Local Gym

By Paul Martin

The Tigers of Neville high school bounced back into the spotlight of state boxing circles here last night by winning the third annual northeast Louisiana high school boxing tournament and qualifying their entire team of twelve fighters for the state championship fights which will take place at Baton Rouge on April 3 and 4.

Neville won the team trophy with a total of 46 points. Total points for the other teams were Farmerville, 26; Lake Providence, 19; Bastrop, 13; and Tallulah, 1. The Neville fighters also won the heavyweight trophy with 26 points, against 16 points by Lake Providence, their nearest rival in that division. Neville and Farmerville tied for the trophy in the lightweight division with 20 points each, but Coach Percy Brown of Neville gave the Farmers that trophy.

The Neville team won seven first places, three second places and two third places. Farmerville furnished three champions, three second place winners and a couple of third placers. Lake Providence got one first, four seconds and a third. Bastrop won one first, two seconds and two thirds, and Tallulah won one third place. In the team scoring, first places counted five points, second places three points and third places one point.

The champions:

90 pounds: Louie Thomas, Bastrop.
98 pounds: Mitchell Brazier, Farmerville.
105 pounds; Horace Clark, Farmerville.
112 pounds: Tom King, Neville.
118 pounds: Ernest Pierce, Neville.
126 pounds: Lavelle Green, Neville.
135 pounds: Howard Earl, Neville.
145 pounds; John Ed Rabun, Farmerville.
155 pounds: Nick Danna, Neville.
165 pounds Darius Crews, Neville,
175 pounds Malcolm Lightsey, Lake Providence.
Heavyweight Harry Snyder, Neville.

The championship fights were the best witnessed here in a long time and a record crowd of the year was on hand for the battles. Of the twelve fights on the program, which included one consolation bout, only five went to a decision. Three of the battles ended in knockouts and four were concluded by technical knockouts.

Mitchell Brazier, 118, Farmerville, stopped David White, Bastrop, in the first round for the first knockout of the card. White was never completely out but was unable to get up as he was taking the count. The other two knockouts were by Neville boxers. Darius Crews, 165-pound state champion, hit John Chaney, Lake Providence, one lick on the jaw and the fight was over in 9 seconds of the first round. The count was never completed over Chaney as his seconds tossed in the towel. Nick Danna, 155, Neville, disposed of James McDowell, Bastrop, in the second round for the other kayo. The first round was slow with Danna missing some powerful swings, but in the second stanza one of Danna's mighty wallops conected and McDowell was out after 22 seconds of the round.

Fighting one of the best fights of the night, Horace Clark, 105, Farmerville, won a last round technical knockout victory over Marvin "Sparky" Spaugh, Neville. The two scrappers came together slinging leather right and left and it was hard to judge who won the round, but Clark came back strong in the second to weaken Spaugh and he followed up his advantage in the third round by punishing the Tiger severely about the face. Spaugh was hardly able to raise his hands to defend himself when the towel came in to save him.

Ernest Pierce, 118, Neville, and Harry Snyder, heavyweight, Neville, had little trouble winning their fights in one round. Pierce had Brantley, Farmerville, in trouble from the start and was hammering him savagely about the head when the white flag came in after 56 seconds. Snyder stopped Sam Whatley, of Lake Providence, in about the same time after slamming a hard punch to Whatley's jaw, causing him to cover up in a crouch which was straightened out when Snyder delivered a sickening right in the pit of Whatley's stomach. That finished Whatley.

The other fights were all good. Leon Andrews, 90, Farmerville, and Loue Thomas, Bastrop, fought a spectacular fight with Thomas getting the best of the wild slugging bee. Tom King, Neville's classy little 112-pounder, found stubborn opposition in Hansford Holloway, Farmerville, and, although the Tiger tried vainly for a knockout, Holloway stayed with him gamely for the full three rounds and at times jarred King with rights to the face.

Howard Earl, 135, Neville, also had a tough customer on his hands and although he won all three rounds by a shade, Dick Davis, Lake Providence, made him battle for all he got. In one of the closest fights on the card, John Ed Rabun, 145, Farmerville, outpointed Walter Brady, Neville. Brady swapped punch for punch in a hectic first round skirmish but Rabun began to slow Brady down in the second. Brady came back in the third to battle Rabun on almost even terms but Rabun's aggressiveness in carrying the fight to Brady throughout the battle was in his favor when the judges made their decision.

Besides the trophies given, 24 indi-

By Paul Mickelson
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 21.—The "daffiness boys" from Brooklyn may be the nightmares of the 1936 National league pennant race.

Casey Stengel's crew, a set of strange faces to the rabid fans of Flatbush, probably will fumble and stumble with an uncertain infield, but they'll spread no little misery among the hot pennant contenders with one of the slickest pitching staffs in baseball.

"I'm not going around predicting a pennant for my boys," said Casey, "but we're going to make the road rocky for a lot of ball clubs. My pitching staff, I figure, is the best we've had at Brooklyn for years. It's chuck full of good names, fellows who can step out there and win ball games. My big worry is the infield, but I'm running my boys out there in 24-hour shifts in an attempt to get a good lineup. I also have some worries about the outfield but have a lot of talent."

Acquisition of Fred Frankhouse and Dutch Brandt from Boston and the entry of several good looking youngsters have rounded out the hurling staff. Van Lingle Mungo, the fire baller, will be the No. 1 man, assisted by Brandt, Frankhouse, Watson Clark and big George Earnshaw, who is reported to be in the best shape since he mowed 'em down for Connie Mack's champions in 1929, '30, and '31.

Dead serious about a comeback, big George worked out at Swarthmore and Hot Springs, Ark., for four weeks before reporting for practice. Emil Leonard, six-foot right hander, also is slated for a regular's berth with his old teammate, Raymond Berres, to catch him. Leonard, never effective since coming up, always has pined for his old backstop mate from Sacramento to catch his knuckle ball.

Tom Baker, husky right hander obtained from Allentown toward the close of last season; Harry Eisentat, rookie from Dayton, who beat Detroit twice last spring; Albert Butcher, winner of 24 for Galveston in '35, and the ever reliable Tom Zachary, 39-year-old relief ace, complete the staff.

Every spot in the infield, however, is open except possibly shortstop, where Linus Frey, now ill with a throat infection, is expected to operate. Bud Hassett, the crooner, looks like the new first baseman, although he can't hit along with Dick Seibert, another candidate. Vince Sherlock, obtained from Indianapolis, should plug up the second base hole as he is fast, a fine fielder, even though he may not hit. Jersey Joe Stripp, a holdout, may have to battle to keep his job at third away from Jim Bucher, a converted outfielder, who can give the ball a ride. E. Gordon (Fatty) Phelps, who hit .364 last season until he broke his right hand, and Berres, a smart, smooth, mechanical receiver, should hold up a catching staff weakened by the trade of Al Lopez to Boston.

Casey can hardly guess his outfield at this time, but it may resemble an "old man's club" with Fred Lindstrom in center, John Cooney, 35-year-old veteran obtained from Indianapolis, and Oscar Eckhart, a 34-year-old rookie from the Missions who never has received a good chance in three trips to the major because of his unorthodox form.

GRAND NATIONAL 'CHASE DRAWS 54 HORSES

EIGHT U. S.-OWNED JUMPERS TO FACE AINTREE HAZARDS

Golden Miller Again Favorite To Cop English Classic Friday

By Jimmy Donahue
(NEA Service Sports Writer)

Fifty-four iron-sinewed horses, topped by 54 iron-hearted jockeys, will face the barrier at historic Aintree track, England, Friday, March 27, in the greatest test of horseflesh in the world—the Grand National Steeplechase.

Ten minutes is all it takes for the winner to make a double circuit of the course. But in those minutes the horse covers 4 1-2 miles of the toughest going imaginable. Thirty-one jumps, ranging from 4 to 5 1-2 feet high, stud the path of the race, and run the gamut from ordinary hedge jumps to water hazards and ditches.

Some idea of the rigors of the race can be had when one realizes that any bookie will give you odds of 5-1 that any horse won't finish, and that the shortest-priced horse ever to win was Poethlyn, which paid off 11-4 in 1919.

Many are called to the barrier, but few are chosen to finish. In 1929, there were 66 starters, and only 10 crossed the line. Only two finished in the 1928 field of 42.

What happens to those horses who fail to get home in time to share in the rich purse that brought Renoldstown, last year's winner, $31,536 worth of oats? They fall by the wayside at the various jumps, five of which are as ornery as your neighbor's mongrel dawg.

Jumps Give 'Em Jitters

Probably the most notorious is Becher's Brook, No. 6 jump. This is a thorn fence 4 feet -10 inches high, and 3 feet 3 inches wide. On the far side is a natural brook, and the width of the stream is 5 feet 5 inches. This gives the horse a jump of nearly nine feet across.

It was at this spot that Pete Bostwick, America's gentleman jockey, came a cropper during the second time around on his Castle Irwell last year, after being up among the leaders.

No. 8 jump is the Canal Turn. Here is a thorn fence 5 feet high, 3 feet 3 inches wide, with a ditch 6 feet wide, 2 feet deep, and banked up to the guard rail on the take-off side.

No. 9, Valentine's Brook, is a honey. It is a thorn fence 5 feet high, and 3 feet 3 inches wide. A natural brook on the far side is 5 feet 6 inches wide. Any horse getting past these three still has Open Ditch to negotiate. This is No. 15, and is constructed of a thorn fence 5 feet 2 inches high, and 3 feet 9 inches wide. A ditch on the take-off side is 6 feet wide, 2 feet deep, and banked 1 foot 6 inches in front of the ditch.

The Water Jump is the last on the list of really tough ones. It is a 15-foot over-all thorn fence, with 12 feet 6 inches of water 2 feet 6 inches deep.

Weight Real Handicap

These jumps wouldn't be so tremendous for steeplechasers if they carried anywhere near the weight the average American flat racer totes. Our horses seldom are called on to carry more than 130 pounds, but Golden Miller, Dorothy Paget's favorite in this year's race and winner in 1934, will carry top weight 175 pounds. The lightest impost will be 147.

The Miller has been made top hoss in the classic despite his failure to beat Reynoldstown to the finish last season. Miss Paget's jumper faced the barrier in 1935 as tops in the betting, with nearly $10,000,000 riding on his nose. Bookies were pulling their hair out in handfuls as he neared one of the smaller jumps yards ahead of the field. But just then a flash gun of a photographer flared, and Golden Miller threw his jockey, Gerry Wilson. His failure to win sent many of his backers to the poor-house, but it saved the bookies.

This year there are eight American-owned horses in the race. Pete Bostwick has entered Castle Irwell, which he again will ride. John Hay Whitney has nominated three—Royal Ransom, Double Crossed and Rod and Gun. Alvin Untermyer's Bagatelle II is the only American-bred horse in the race. J. B. Snow again has entered Delaneige, which finished second in 1934, and his other nomination is Delachance. Jesse Metcalf has Kiltoi in the classic.

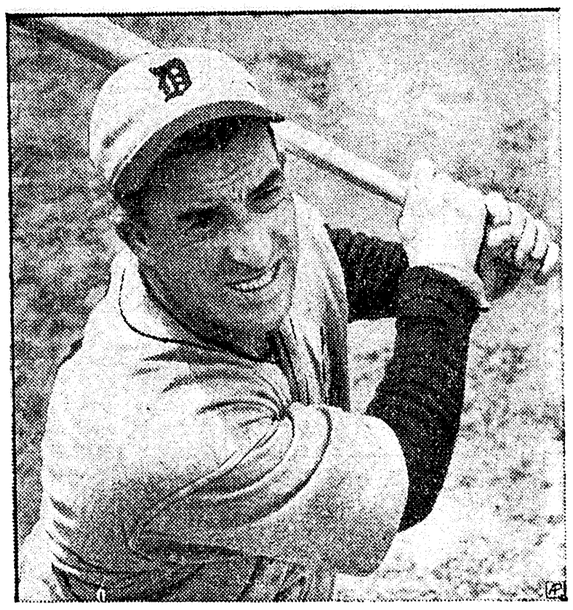

Most of the horses represent the cream of the continent. But breeding isn't everything in this race; remember that Rubio, the only American-bred hoss ever to win the event, once pulled a cart!

SOCKLESS CARD ROOKIE

BRADENTON, Fla., March 21.—Lou Scoffic, St. Louis Cardinal rookie outfielder, insists on playing without baseball socks. Manager Frankie Frisch doesn't care as long as the youngster smacks the ball.

Holdouts Told To Sign At Owners' Terms Or Remain Idle

KEY MEN OF BASEBALL

AL SIMMONS

((This is the first of a series of eight stories from the training camps concerning the key men on various major league clubs.)

By Paul Mickelson
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

LAKELAND, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Al Simmons, a ball player who couldn't help the Chicago White Sox out of the second division, strangely enough holds the big master key this year to the American league throne room.

On his broad shoulders rest the pennant hopes of the world champion Detroit Tigers. His bat, muffled to a .267 groan last season with the luckless White Sox, must roar again as it once did for Philadelphia if the Tigers are to offset and turn back the added power of their rivals.

Experts Convinced Now

When Al was sold to Detroit for $75,000 last December, the expert consensus was that he would never be of great aid to the champions. But since he arrived in the spring camp by the waters of Lakeland, the experts have changed their minds. They believe Simmons is the Simmons of old—that he will supply the power to keep the Tigers tops. He is convinced he can do it, too.

"Chicago is a great baseball town, and they treated me like a king even when I slumped," he said as he finished a gruelling workout to cut down a waistline that is slightly wider than normal. "but I couldn't do them any good. But this year, I feel like I am all set to go. I will have a big advantage by playing with a championship club. I don't ask for spots, but on a team of hard hitters you will find it easier to find softer touches. You won't have pitchers bearing down on just one man."

A Lighter Bat

Manager Mickey Cochrane unquestionably is one of the big reasons for Simmons' new lease on baseball life. First of all, Mickey got Al to use a lighter bat, contending that as players get older, they should use lighter bludgeons. Even with the lighter stick, Al's bat is four inches longer than the one wielded by Charlie Gehringer, one of the greatest hitters in the game today.

Even though he hit but .267 last season, Simmons still holds a high career average of .347 for his 12 years in the American league. His greatest year with the stick was 1927 when he batted .392. At 33, he still should have some good years left.

"He worried about the brisk wind off Lake Michigan, the distance of the fences and finally worried himself out of his batting streak. That should be all changed now that he's with us."

ALUSTIZA REGAINS SIGHT

PALO ALTO, March 21.—Frank Alustiza, Stanford's star quarterback who impaired his sight last year in football, has regained good vision and vows never again to engage in sports that feature bodily contact.

RICKEY, DIZZY FAIL TO FIND EACH OTHER

BRADENTON, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Jerome Herman Dean and Branch Rickey failed again today to get together on the matter of salary for "Ole Diz," the St. Louis Cardinal holdout mound star.

But they tried. Dean telephoned Rickey late last night. The club's vice-president and general manager was out. Rickey telephoned Dean this morning. "Ole Diz" was out—out of town for the day and so was Mrs. Dean.

Rickey, who has Dean's signature to a pledge of team loyalty, said he thought he and the big pitcher would get together soon. Dean wants $40,000 and says Rickey's best offer has been $18,500. Rickey says nothing about money in figures.

Rickey declined to discuss Paul Dean's holdout situation but training camp followers believe the younger brother would come into the fold as soon as "Ole Diz" is reinstated.

YANKEE MOUND ACE REMAINS UNSIGNED

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—The first meeting between Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, and his holdout pitcher, Charlie Ruffing, ended in a futile deadlock today.

Ruffing, holding out for $15,000, which is $3,000 more than the Yankees have offered him, stalked off in a huff after the colonel had refused to increase the figure originally tendered the big right hander for his 1936 contract. The whole conference lasted less than ten minutes.

Ruppert also said he would make no further offers to Ben Chapman, the club's other holdout. Chapman is said to have been sent a contract, calling for $10,000 with a bonus arrangement added.

ANDY REESE SIGNS WITH MEMPHIS CLUB

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 21.—(AP)—Andy Reese, first baseman, pride of Tupelo, Miss., donned his tribal uniform for the first time today as the Chicks went through a spring exhibition game.

Ollie Marquardt, shortstop, also has come to terms with Manager Fred Hoffman, and should arrive tomorrow. As soon as Lynn Nelson, veteran right-hander, puts his name on the dotted line, the 1936 presentation of President Tom Watkins should be ready to "go places."

DEAN, GREENBERG UNLIKELY TO GET FURTHER RAISES

Breadon And Cochrane Reported Unwilling To Increase Offers

BRADENTON, Fla., March 21.—Regardless of the merit of their arguments, Jerome Herman Dean and Henry Greenberg, baseball's more prominent holdouts of 1936, will sit out this season unless they sign for what their clubs consider reasonable salaries. (It looks as if Dean already is weakening.)

Gordon Stanley Cochrane, vice-president and manager of the Detroit club at nearby Lakeland, asserts that $25,000 is the Tigers' top offer to Greenberg. Cochrane adds that the large first baseman will take it and like it or cool his heels in the Bronx.

Singularly, Dean and Greenberg demand $40,000 each. It is believed that the younger Dean easily could be satisfied were it not for the fact that he is on a sympathy strike with his more conspicuous brother.

Dizzy drew $18,500 in 1935. Daffy collected $9,000. Greenberg was a comparatively low-salaried performer.

Mrs. Dean In Charge

Mrs. Dizzy Dean, who manages the strike-out king of the National league, has it figured that the St. Louis outfit owes her famous husband $60,000.

Mrs. Dean points to the fact that the more affluent clubs recompense their handcuff kings—Bob Grove, of the Red Sox, and Vernon Gomez, of the Yankees, for examples—at something approximating a rate of $1,000 a victory.

Dean has bagged 96 engagements for the Red Birds in four campaigns, exclusive of the 1934 world series and exhibitions. His efforts were worth $36,000, in the bright eyes of his better half, who believes it is high time that her talkative husband collected some share of the difference between that and the $36,000 he actually was paid.

Dizzy asserts that when, after a chat with Breadon, the owner told Rickey that he was no piker when it came to demands, Rickey said: "Babe Ruth held out for $80,000. Dizzy ought to hold out for half that, anyway."

"So I said," continues Dean, "'All right, gents, $40,000 is my price,' and it is."

The Cardinal management wants Dizzy to agree to quit popping off about Breadon and Rickey being cheap. Those close to the club call Dizzy the world champion second-guesser and point to his being a constant cause of turmoil within the ranks.

"It's a question of whether the Cardinals are to be run by Rickey, Frank Frisch and myself, or the Deans," says Breadon.

Breadon Sticks To Guns

There is no question that Dizzy Dean is worth $25,000 to the Cardinals and the chances are that they might finish as bad as fifth without the pitching brothers, but Breadon is a tough man when he bows his neck.

Breadon traded Rogers Hornsby to the New York Giants after the Rajah had managed the Cardinals to St. Louis' first National league pennant in 1926. Hornsby insisted that Rickey, then general manager of the club and the man he succeeded as manager, be dismissed.

"I don't know what I'd do without you, Branch," Breadon told Rickey when the deal for Frisch was made with the late John McGraw.

For a time it looked as if St. Louis fans would run Breadon out of the city, but he stood his ground, and the deal turned out to be one of the best ever completed.

Greenberg not only is asking for $40,000 but told Cochrane that he'd be paid $60,000 in 1937.

Walter O. Briggs, wealthy owner of the Tigers, told Cochrane to give Greenberg every cent that he is worth. Cochrane could pay Greenberg $80,000 if he cared to, but says $25,000 is the maximum.

Cochrane says that, if he must, he'll go through the season with Rudy York, the recruit, at first base.

The Deans and Greenberg will be in line before the curtain goes up next month, but it's a safe bet that they'll sit out unless they agree to take what their clubs consider fair.

Bobby Jones Makes Third Attempt To Conquer 'Masters' At Augusta

Host To Golf's Best, Atlantan Will Make Another 'Comeback'

By Kenneth Gregory
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 21.—(AP)—Can Gene Sarzen repeat?

Will Horton Smith come through again?

These are a few of the questions arising with the approach of the third annual Augusta national invitation golf tournament, April 2-5.

The competition waged here among the masters of the green and fairways is second only to the National Open as a drawing card for golf's big names.

Jones inauguarted it in 1934 with the announcement that he would return to competition in this one event annually.

Smith Won First

The "comebacks" of Jones, who retired in 1930 after winning 13 national titles, climaxed by his British-American "grand slam" that year, found the former emperor of golf far down the line—tied for thirteenth place in 1934 and deadlocked for twenty-fifth a year ago.

Jones, the co-designer of the Augusta course with the late Dr. Alister MacKenzie, apparently is ready now for his first big effort since his retirement.

He has been turning in plenty of sub-par cards and only recently swung over the Augusta layout in 67 strokes five under par, using his famed putter, "Calamity Jane," the old war club that always gave him confidence.

Little, the new monarch of the world's amateurs—winner of the British and American amateur crowns the last two years and victor in 31 consecutive matches in the fastest simon-pure company—was not a contender in 1934, but he led all the amateurs and all but five of the money players last year.

That "Double Eagle"

Craig Wood, the beltung blond from New Jersey, has been the hardluck competitor of the first two Masters tournament. In the inaugural his three-under-par 285 was beaten by Horton Smith's 284.

Last year Wood toured the 72 holes in 282 and waited on the clubhouse veranda for the few late foursomes to finish. Sarazen was among the late ones, with the only chance to overtake Wood.

Gene drove from the 69th needing to beat par by three strokes to gain a tie. His tee-shot carried close to 265 yards on the 485-yarder. He pulled out his No. 4 wood and smacked the ball straight to the cup for his now famous "double eagle." He thus picked up three strokes on one hole.

That coup left Gene needing only pars on the remaining holes to gain a tie—and he pared them. Next day he defeated Wood in the playoff, 144 to 149, to take first money of $1,500 in the $5,000 event.

Invitations for the Augusta event are issued to all reigning and former open and amateur champions. Aside from those, the qualifications for entry depend upon showings made in the Open, the Amateur, the P. G. A. and two or three sectional championships of national importance.

In the field will be Sam Parks, U. S. Open champion; Johnny Revolta, P. G. A. champion and leading money winner of 1935; in addition to Smith, Jones, Little, Sarzen and Wood. Approximately 67 invitations were sent out.

"This is a tournament," says Sarazen, "where all the boys try to finish ahead of each other. It's not just another of these pleasant little winter opens. It's next to the national—and right up against it."

Europeans Challenge U. S. Field Supremacy

Yanks May Be Hard Pressed In Weight Events; Torrance Needed

By Alan Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, March 21.—Ever since the celebrated Boston tea party, Americans have been adept at tossing things around for distance or for accuracy.

With the revival of the classic Olympic games, our supremacy in this respect was consistently maintained until javelin-throwing was introduced. No match for the Scandinavians at spear-tossing, our brawny lads have had their leadership challenged otherwise by Europeans in the art of heaving athletic implements.

At the last Olympics, the U. S. A broke even in the four weight events, retaining the shotput and discus championships.

Dr. Patrick O'Callaghan of Ireland, won the hammer throw for the second straight time, and the Finns, led by Matti Jarvinen, dominated the javelin-tossing competition. Both U. S. winners, Leo Sexton and John Anderson, have retired.

Since then a husky Swede, Harald Anderson, has broken the world record for discus throwing and all things considered, it appears the Americans will be pressed to escape a "shutout" in the Olympic weight-tossing at Berlin next August.

This country cannot count on retaining even the shotput honors unless Jack Torrance of Louisiana, the world record holder, comes back. Torrance surpassed 57 feet in 1935 to shatter all records, but he was scarcely able to better 50 feet this winter and consistently was beaten by Boston's sturdy Dmitri (Dimmy) Zarb.

"If Torrance wants to get out and do a little work and get into shape, he should be the standout of the world," writes his coach, Bernie Moore of Louisiana State.

"Jack has done 54 feet, without real practice, outdoors this winter so that I think his indoor setbacks can be discounted."

Zaitz, on the basis of his rapid improvement, and John Lyman, ex-Stanford star, who has bettered 54 feet, are capable of landing the other places on the team. Lyman has been studying in Germany and may not return for the tryouts.

For the discus, the United States has certain point scorers and potential champions in Gordon (Singer) Dunn, a Stanford product, and Ken Carpenter of Southern California. Dunn, now training in Honolulu, achieved 170 feet abroad last summer and has exceeded 176 feet in an exhibition. American's world record is a fraction short of 172 feet.

Other possibilities for Olympian tossing are Claude Walton, Colorado university negro, and several west coast collegians, including Glenn Randell, Henrie Laborde and Phil Levy. Anton Kishon of Bates tops the eastern candidates, and Jess Petty of Rice institute is a star in the southwest.

Fred Tootell, last American to win the hammer throw in the Olympics (1924) and now track coach at Rhode Island state, is doing his best to develop another world champion. One of his pupils, Henry Dreyer, who holds the national title, got off a throw of 195 feet, 5 inches last year and probably is No. 1 threat to Ireland's O'Callaghan.

Film Stars Back American Tour Of Oxford Rugby Team

By John J. Romano

Boris Karloff is an Englishman despite his Russian-sounding name. Karloff is much more than a movie actor of terrifying mien. According to word reaching this country, Boris is a rugby fan. In fact, he is vice president of the American Rugby Union, and has been in England arranging for a tour of the Oxford university team.

According to plans inspired and sponsored by Jean Harlow, the Oxonians will start in New York and wind up their tour in none such other place than Hollywood.

The make-up of the Oxford team is just as English as that representing England when they won the Olympic hockey title.

Rounding Up The Best

Alexander Obolensky, a Russian prince dating his title to an old family in the state of Georgia, now part of the Soviet States, created a sensation when he was elected to play on the wing against New Zealand last December. Prince Obolensky not only played a dazzling game, but scored two brilliant tries. In this country tries are called touchdowns. The Prince won the game practically single-handed. He also appeared against teams from Wales and Ireland, and quite a rumpus resulted since he was not a national. As such he had no business representing a country considered a stickler for the rules of amateur sport. Obolensky has lived in England since he was five years old, but has not become naturalized as a citizen of the country he represents on the rugby field.

The English team also lists Owen-Smith, a South African, who actually played against England in test cricket matches. In addition to cricket and rugby, Owen-Smith also does a bit of boxing and is well thought as a welterweight in the simon pure ranks.

A third internationalist on the Oxford team is Noel McGrath, who has played for Ireland several times. McGrath plays forward, as does Cooper of Setoland, and Nicholson, a genuine Britisher. Another invited to make the trip. The likelihood is that he will because Karloff is determined to bring over the best team he can get together.

Different From Football

A few words about Rugby. Although the American game of football is a direct descendant of the English game there is little resemblance between the two.

In rugby, a team consists of eight forwards and seven backs. The forwards, instead of facing each other in the scrums, scrimmage is the term employed in football, get down and push. The usual formation is in three rows. Three players in the front row, two in the second and three in the third.

The middle man in the front row is the hooker. His job is to gain possession of the ball and, doing so, heel it back to the scrum half, whose position is similar to our quarterback, who in turn passes it to the outhalf, something on the style of a halfback, and last but not least comes the fullback who, getting possession of the ball, is permitted to "hand off" a tackler. If anyone else prevents a tackle he is penalized for obstruction. A forward pass is not allowed. It is called an infringement. The ball must be passed to someone behind. When a man is tackled and brought down, he must release the ball immediately, and any member of a side who gets it down in front of one of his team's ball carrier is offside.

Hope For Annual Series

A try, or touchdown, counts three points. If converted, a try counts five. A dropped goal is good for four points. A penalty goal counts three points.

The game itself is quite different than the American game. They do not go into a huddle after each scrum, or scrimmage. It is up to the man in possesion of the ball to work out his own salvation. It is a fast game, and highly entertaining from the viewpoint of the spectator.

One accustomed to the ganging-up tactics and open play of American football as it is now played will quickly learn the finer points of English rugby, and in that way work out what Mr. Karloff and Miss Harlow hope will lead to a series of international matches every year. At least that was the thought prompting Miss Harlow to put up the money, and the extended trip of Karloff to his native land to induce the best ruggers of Oxford to make the tour.

HOLL IMAGE IS DERBY WINNER

Outsider Beats Understand And My Auntie In $5,000 Oaklawn Race

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 21.—(AP)—An 8 to 1 shot, Holl Image carried the red, white and blue silks of Jack Carter to victory today in the $5,000 Arkansas derby, revived at Oaklawn Park as a centennial year feature after a two-decade lapse.

Coming from behind in the stretch, Holl Image finished three lengths in front of Understand of the Blue Ridge farm entry, with the 3 to 1 favorite, R. T. Watts' My Auntie, another half length back.

Mrs. A. Sabath's Wayaloft was fourth.

Holl Image paid on $2 tickets $18.50 win, $8.00 place and $5.10 show; the Blue Ridge farm entry (Understand and Lame Duck) $8.10 place and $4.20 show; and My Auntie $4.50.

INTERCLASS TRACK MEET AT RAYVILLE

RAYVILLE, La., March 21.—(Special)—The Rayville high school held the first part of their interclass track meet Friday. Ten events were run off and the others will be held next Friday. The best results, for the boys, were in the sprints, where the boys had a slight wind at their backs. The best girl's mark was in the high jump.

The senior girls and the junior boys made 16 and 19 points, respectively, to lead the day's scoring. The events to be held next Friday will probably make a change in the standings. Bernice Copeland sophomore, with 9 points was high scorer for the girls. A sprained ankle forced her out of the high jump, which may have added some points to her score. Herman Meadors, junior, Rayville's great all-around athlete, was high scorer for the boys with 13 points.

BOB MURRAY SCORES ANOTHER NET UPSET

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 21.—(AP)—Bob Murray of Montreal scored his second successive upset in the Bermuda tennis championships today to reach the final round. Murray, who yesterday eliminated Frankie Parker, United States "first ten" star, today scored a straight-set victory over Wilmer Hines of Columbia, S. C., ninth ranking American player, 6-4, 7-5, 6-1.

Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta, the defending champion and a Davis cup hopeful, won the other semi-final match, defeating Jack McDiarmid of Texas, 4-6, 6-4, 9-11, 6-3, 6-4.

OKLAHOMA U. WINS WRESTLING CROWN

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 21.—(AP)—Oklahoma university tonight won the National collegiate team wrestling championship, and Oklahoma Central State Teachers captured second place.

Ted Anderson, of Oklahoma Central Teachers, fought his way successfully trough an all-star 121-pound group for the national collegiate title. Anderson clinched the crown by outpointing Willard Duffy, of Indiana, in his fifth bout of the tourney.

PLUMMER MEETS WESTENBERG HERE TUESDAY

ALL-ROUGH CARD TO BE PRESENTED AT WEEKLY SHOW

Williams-Wagner Match To Complete Double Main Event Program

A double main event program, featuring a match between Johnny Plummer, rugged Iowan, and Marvin Westenberg, equally tough Washington state entry, has been booked for the regular Tuesday night wrestling show at Roosevelt stadium, Promoter Charlie Bruscato announced last night.

In the opening match, Cy Williams, rated the wildest heavyweight in the business, will tangle with Bob Wagner, husky former Illinois U. football star. The card is expected to produce more excitement than any show booked in here in some months, Bruscato said, because all four pachyderms are plenty rough and tough.

Plummer returned to the stadium last Tuesday night and thoroughly subdued Ernest Kelly, stadium champion. Kelly rushed out of his corner in the first fall and surprised Plummer with a flying body scissors, winning the fall in the record time of five seconds. From then on out, however, it was all Plummer, and in the 20-minute third fall Johnny swarmed all over the clever Kelly to make him look like a novice.

During last week's match, Plummer and Dick Lever, who was refereeing, had a run-in, and later Lever challenged Plummer to a match this week. Bruscato at first agreed to let the Nashville boy try his hand with the veteran, but later a number of fans requested that Westenberg be brought here for Johnny and Bruscato, realizing that it would be a much better match, acquiseced.

Westenberg is expected to be much tougher for Plummer than Kelly was. Marvin is the current sensation among the younger heavyweights. He not only knows all the holds, but is more powerful than Kelly and doesn't hesitate to use a bit of rough stuff to pull out of holes. In fact, it should be a toss-up between the two, and local fans are expecting some real fireworks when the two meet.

Williams will be making his local debut. It is Williams' boast that he never fails to start a riot. Bruscato, who saw him wrestle in Shreveport a couple of weeks ago, says he's meaner, dirtier and tougher than Red Berry, and that's quite a lot to say against any man. Following the Shreveport match, it took some fifteen fans to hold him down and the cops finally subdued him.

Juan Humberto, who wrestled here about a month ago, thought he was tough until he ran up against Williams and absorbed the worst licking he has ever taken. It apparently means nothing to Williams that several of his opponents have found it necessary to go to some convenient hospital for repairs after a match with him.

Wagner made his first stadium appearance last week by giving a rough and tumble exhibition against Dan O'Connor. Wagner weighs 230 pounds and looks like the ideal guard on some Big Ten football team. He appears confident that he can take Williams down a notch or two, Bruscato said.

Bruscato announced yesterday that despite the fact that the double main event program will cost him considerably more than the ordinary card, there will be no advance in admission prices.

Campbell Back After Beating Another Jinx

Cleveland Outfielder Well After Spinal Meningitis Siege

By Paul Mickelson
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—(AP)—Bruce Campbell is big league baseball's proof that you can't keep a good man down.

Stricken with dread spinal meningitis last August in the midst of his greatest year, the husky Scot was reported to be definitely through with baseball. Once the rumor spread throughout Cleveland that the famed Indian outfielder had died.

Bruce Campbell

Yet, unless some sensational rookie unexpectedly pops up to wrest his place away from him, the same Bruce Campbell will patrol right field for Steve O'Neill's Indians this summer. And if condition and tradition mean anything, the Flying Scot will be better than ever.

Eye Trouble Disappears

Comebacks and decisions ever injuries and illness are old stuff to Campbell. He's been beating them for years. Once he injured his arm so badly that he couldn't throw the ball to the infield. The next season, his arm made him one of the most feared defensive outfielders in the game.

Strangely enough, Campbell believes his winning fight against spinal meningitis saved him from serious eye trouble. A short time before he was stricken, he was advised by an optician that he needed glasses badly. His worries about his eyes evaporated shortly after he was pronounced cured from spinal meningitis. He was informed that his eyesight was perfect.

"I never felt better in my life," Campbell, a pleasant fellow standing six feet one, said after a hard workout. "I'm only 10 pounds overweight and feel stronger. I can see the ball clearer. Unless the jinx catches up with me again and I have to take time out to hand it another licking, I should have a big season."

Averill Recovers Too

Campbell was hitting .325 when he was stricken in Detroit on August 4. His loss was a severe blow to the Indians.

Catcher Frank Pytlak, Shortstop Bill Knickerbocker and Outfielder Earl Averill, all of them lost for important periods last season, all appear set for a big year. Averill, who almost lost a finger in a firecracker explosion, said his wound healed nicely.

HENRY PICARD WINS TOURNEY WITH 278

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 21.—(AP)—Turning in a pair of 71's today for a 72-hole total of 278—six under par—Henry Picard, of Hershey, Pa., won the $3,000 Tournament of the Gardens by exactly the same score with which he won it last year.

Trailing Picard in second place was Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., who finished with a 285. Frank Walsh of Chicago was next in line with a 286, while the veteran Walter Hagen of Detroit and Dick Metz of Chicago followed with 289's.

Ky Laffoon of Chicago turned in a par 71 for his afternoon round for an aggregate 290 to put him in sixth place. Next in order, Jimmy Thompson of Beverly Hills, Calif., finished with a 291. Herman Barron of White Plains, N. Y., was but a stroke behind with a 292.

YANKS DOWN BEES

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—The New York Yankees packed their punch in the first three innings today as they defeated the Boston Bees 11 to 2 in their first meeting of the exhibition season.

Hobart Scott, rookie southpaw, yielded 10 of the runs before he was relieved by John Lanning with only one out in the third. Lou Gehrig's single off Lanning scored one more run and then the Yanks offensive stalled. Both of Boston's runs were unearned. EAST'S WRESTLING RACKET UPSET BY 'SHOOTING MATCH'

Shikat Skips To Columbus Stable Owner As Bowser Protests

NEW YORK, March 21.—Thrown badly off stride by what now appears to have been an entirely unscheduled "shooting match," moguls of the wrestling industry have adopted a policy of watchful waiting before moving to regain their most cherished possession—the heavyweight championship.

Not since Joe Savoldi took away the title from Jim Londos, the stream lined Greek, in Chicago, has the industry been so pathetically upset. The "villain" of the piece, of course, is Dick Shikat, who made Danno O'Mahoney yell "uncle" here a couple of weeks ago, took away the Irishman's crown, and fled the eastern scene to take shelter under the wing of Al Haft, Columbus, O., promoter who does a wholesale business in wrestlers.

The situaton is not entirely clear but the consensus among grunt-and-groan experts is that Shikat, tired of being a door-mat, decided to put on a scenario of his own, neglecting meantime to inform the proper authorities.

In fact, he was quoted after the O'Mahoney bout as saying:

"I hated to do it to Danno. He's a nice boy. I really felt sorry for him. But they (the "trust") had been pushing me around long enough."

Paul Bowser, whose Boston herd of pachyderms featured O'Mahoney, still was a bit put out by the Irishman's defeat when asked for his version of the extraordinary upset.

"How do I know if there was any double-crossing?" he asked. "Only time will tell."

"O'Mahoney may have been beaten fairly, and I say 'may' because I have my doubts. It should be obvious that a wrestler of his experience should not be baffled by a hammerlock, especially one applied by such an old-timer as Shikat.

"I have no reason to doubt the honesty of that New York referee. He claims he asked O'Mahoney if he wanted to quit and received an affirmative reply. The Irishman insists he gave a negative one. It's possible the referee misunderstood his thick brogue."

"The prevailing view seemed to be that Danno was the victim of the double-cross and that the result was unexpected in the O'Mahoney camp," he wrote. "Shikat by some is believed to have been a bit unclubby.

"There were others who contended that O'Mahoney, having been 'champion' through 250 successful matches at a profit of not less than a quarter of a million dollars, was forced to let somebody else have a chance and that it was Shikat's turn."

On the SIDELINES

If Calvin Chapman, 23-year-old recruit from Toronto, captures an outfield job with the Cincinati Reds, he'll probably have Hazen Cuyler to thank for it.

Cuyler, making a strong bid himself for a regular berth, unselfishly has devoted long hours to teaching Chapman who never played the outfield until he poined the Reds late last season.

"My experience when I broke in with Pittsburgh taught me a lesson" says Cuyler now 35 years old. "Neither Max Carey nor Bigbee would show me a thing about covering the garden. I was strictly on my own and of course I had my troubles.

"I resolved then and there that if it ever fell to my lot I would help out any kids breaking in to the best of my ability.

"When Paul Waner came to the Pirates he was a natural ball hawk, but I taught him how to play for the various batters. Well he eventually nudged me out.

"With the Cubs last season I took pains to put Augie Galan—originally an infielder—wise to the angles of outfielding. I instructed him wholeheartedly and again it was my luck to have him take the job away from me.

"Now, I am doing the same thing for Chapman, who, I believe, is going to be a whale of an outfielder whe nhe acquires the ins and outs of the garden."

'Little Ralph' Gets Thrill

Silverstein is a university of Illinois wrestler and national collegiate champion in the 175-pound class. He had just defeated 215-pound Charles McDaniels of Indiana, national collegiate heavyweight champion.

As he was crawling out of the ring, Coach Bill Thom of Indiana slapped Silverstein on the back and said:

"I'll be proud to have you on the Olympic team, Ruffy."

Ralph prepped at Crane Tech high school in Chicago, and is now in his second campaign at Illinois. Last year he won all his bouts and in addition the Big Ten and national titles in his class, and was national A. A. U. champion in the weight.

Wrestling comes as sort of a family heritage to Silverstein. An older brother, Max, now a lieutenant in the navy, was runnerup at 158 1-2 pounds in the national collegiates of 1932 when he represented the naval academy.

Diamond Stars Drop From 'Bama Into Big League Baseball Show

Crimson Tide Again Sends Potential Stars To Major Loops

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., March 21.—(AP)—With five members already in professional baseball—and more to follow their footsteps—the 1932 freshman of the University of Alabama promises to equal, in major league talent, the 1920 outfit that included Joe and Mike Sewell, Ike Boone, Riggs Stephenson and Lena Stiles.

Two members of that 1932 yearling team, still playing here, plan to make their bow in organized baseball this year.

Howell With Tigers

Millard (Dixie) Howell, also a football great, is trying for the third-base job with the world champion Detorit Tigers. Howell, farmed out to Birmingham and Houston after an injury last year, looks like a fine prospect.

Lee Rogers, a southpaw signed by the Boston Red Sox last year, was farmed to Little Rock, where he showed Southern association sluggers why college hitter, found his delivery so puzzling. His 1935 record of seven wins and two losses earned him another chance with the Red Sox.

A third member of the aggregation, Legrant Scott, is rated by his owners, the Birmingham Barons, as a likely major-leaguer. Originally a pitcher, he was converted into an outfielder last year and he paced the Southern association batsmen through a good part of the season.

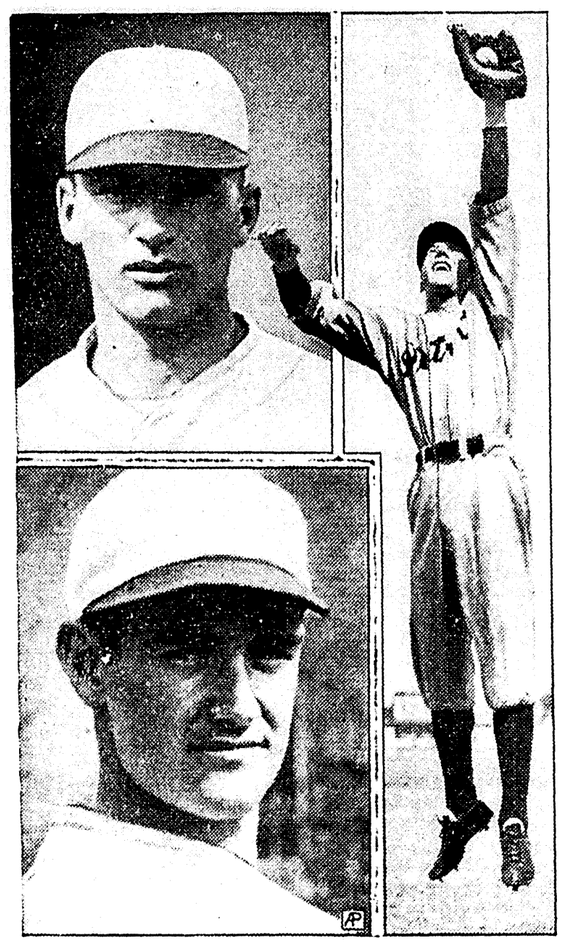

Shortstop Bill Crittendon won a tryout with the New York Yankees and is still the property of that club. His activities, however, are confined to play with junior members of the Yankee setup.

Hutson Shows Speed

Don Hutson, receiving end of the famous Powell-Hutson pass combination in football and now a star with Green Bay's professional football Packers, was singled out for a trial with the Knoxville Smokies of the Southern association. His tremendous speed marks him as a likely prospect.

Two others, Jim Whatley and Hillman Walker, who entered at midyear in 1932, are eligible for the 1936 campaign in college competition here. Both are expected to accept offers from organized clubs at he end of the college season. They played on the football team with Hutson and Howell when Alabama stunned Stanford with a 29-13 defeat in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day, 1935.

Alabama long has been a favorite hunting ground for baseball scouts. Besides the two Sewells, Stephenson, Stiles and Ike Boone, 'Bama sent up Derrill Pratt, Dan Boone, Minter Hayes, Ernie Wingard, Freddie Sington, Dave Rosenfield and others.

SPORT SLANTS by Pap

The advance notices on Joe DiMaggio, the coast youngster who makes his big league bow with the New York Yankees this spring have placed him on the well known "spot," but at the same time, no rookies ever found such a ready-made spot awaiting him if he has the goods to deliver.

The Yankees are badly in need of a hard-hitting outfielder. Their efforts to land one by trading with other American league clubs failed to produce the right man, so their thoughts and hopes have turned to the young Italian from San Francisco.

The experts on the coast are of the unanimous opinion that DiMaggio is a great ball player in the making. They report him to be a devastating hitter, fast as they come and blessed with a throwing arm that has struck terror into the hearts of ambitious Pacific Coast league base runners last season. His record of 30 assists indicates that he has been very much on the job in tossing to the right bases.

DiMaggio, through his own magnificent performances on the diamond, is entirely responsible for the ballyhoo that precedes him and builds up so much hope in the hearts of the Yankees. His work for the past two seasons has been such that even the most conservative judges of baseball material cannot see how he can possibly fail to make the big league grade. Allowing even for considerable deflation, his record indicates that he has enough to earn a regular place in the Yankees' outer garden.

Young Joe hit .399 for the San Francisco Seals last season, hitting 46 doubles, 17 three-baggers and 34 home runs. He batted in 151 runs with his 269 hits and scored 171 runs himself. He is a right-handed hitter, but that really doesn't matter much for he is definitely a line hitter. Of course, the short right field fence in the Yankee Stadium is inviting to a man batting from the other side of the plate but Manager Joe McCarthy is likely to be satisfied if Joe comes through with his share of line drives which land safely in the vast left field area.

In the past the Yankees have had fair luck with their coast league purchases. Bob Meusel, Mark Koenig, Lefty Gomez, Frank Crosetti and Tony Lazzeri learned their baseball lessons in California before starring in the New York livery. Colonel Ruppert has had his disappointing experiences, too—plenty of them. Right now, one of the problems facing Manager Joe McCarthy is just what to do with Myril Hoag, another coast leaguer who came to the Yankees with a $60,000 price tag. Hoag came up as an outfielder, tried out for a spell at third base and now is being groomed to take his turn on the mound. Hoag has a marvelous throwing arm and looked good on those infrequent occasions last season when he was sent out to pitch in batting practice.

It is interesting to note that the Yankees have been unusually lucky with Italians from the coast. Lazerri and Crosetti of the present day squad stand out, while a few years ago the colorful Ping Bodie delighted Yankee rooters with his hard hitting and amusing antics.

BOTTOMLEY GOES TO BROWNIES IN TRADE

MIAMI, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Manager Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Browns announced tonight he had traded John Burnett to Cincinnati for Jim Bottomley.

The deal, hanging fire for some time, was completed tonight in a long distance telephone call from Hornsby to Bottomley at the latter's farm home in Lourbon, Md.

Bottomley had refused to sign his contract with the Reds although he said he "was not exactly a holdout." There had been rumors he was about to be traded to the Chicago White Sox.

BAYNE TO ATTEMPT HURLING COMEBACK

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—(AP)—The cotton market made but slight response today to the new control program and after the two hours of quiet dealings it closed irregularly higher.

Week-end covering and evening up of commitments in the final hour lent firmness to the near months as May finished at 11.02, July at 10.64 and October at 10.18.

The distant options were under pressure during the session and December lost 3 points to 10.16 and January dipped to 10.18.

Liverpool was quiet and steady today. The English market placed an optimistic interpretation on the new American acreage program, but buying was scattered.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

While scattered specialties succeeded in moving against the trend, many recent industrial favorites backed up for declines of fractions to around 2 points. The close was easy. Transfers approximated 850,000 shares.

J. I. Case displayed isolated strength, getting up about 4 points. Lesser improvement was shown by Pathe, Stone & Webster, General Refractories, Thomson-Starrett, Deere and Minneapolis-Moline Plow.

On the losing end were American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, American Can, Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Commercial Alcohol, Schenley, Howe Sound, Anaconda, American Smelting and Curtiss-Wright. The rails and utilities were unchanged to slightly lower.

Bonds were quiet and steady. Commodities were moderately mixed. Principal foreign currencies again gave ground in terms of the dollar.

A contra-seasonal decrease of more than 17,000 cars in last week's freight shipments was in line with previous forecasts. The total, usually announced Friday, was delayed because floods held up the reports.

In the financial district there were mixed opinions of the flood situation. It was recognized that millions of dollars will be required for restoration of homes and business property as well as for urgent repairs.

So far as the railroads whose lines have been seriously affected by the high waters are concerned, it was expected the companies will be compelled to set aside large sums for reconstruction this month that otherwise probably would have gone into net earnings.

Temporary shut downs of principal steel mills in the flood area led to early predictions that the production rate, to be announced today, may show a drop of between 7 1-2 and 10 points.

While European war fears were virtually extinct, some apprehension was expressed over political and financial conditions in France. Banking circles in touch with foreign affairs held out little hope of an international economic conference being held in the near future.

LIQUOR CONFISCATION RESULT OF CAR CRASH

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 21.—(AP)—The "one-man crusade" of H. F. Trainer, prominent business executive, had resulted today in three arrests and the confiscation by police of whisky, gin and champagne assertedly worth more than $500.

Trainer's crusade started when a man, against whom he had obtained a judgment for $105 for damages to his car when it was struck Christmas day, failed to pay the judgment.

The arrest of the driver brought newspaper publicity and a raid last night on the alleged bootlegging establishment where the driver was employed. A police report today showed the arrest of two men and the seizure of other intoxicants in the raid.

HOSPITAL ZONES ARE SAFETY ZONES . . .

SAFETY PICTURE NO. 18
FIND THE MISTAKES AND ENTER CONTEST

With the help of your parents, teacher, or some other grownup, find four safety mistakes in this picture and list them on the blank lines.

NO. 2 .....

NO. 3 .....

NO. 4 .....

Many people pass a hospital with the thought in mind that it is just another building along the street. They do not realize that within the walls of that building some person might be lying in intense pain . . . that even the sound of a speeding automobile or a nerve wracking horn might impair their improvement. Be thoughtful when YOU pass a hospital. Some day YOU might be in the same hospital as the result of thoughtless—or wreckless driving.

RULES

2—After all of the pictures have appeared and you have found four mistakes in each one of them, write a "Safety Slogan" of not more than 12 words.

3—Send the 26 drawings with the mistakes listed and your "Safety Slogan" to the Safety Contest Editor of The News-Star—World.

Farmerville

J. David Barnahman was host at a charming dinner party honoring Dr. J. D. Miller, Jr., on his birthday.

In the handsome dining room, where covers were laid for twenty, the table, glistening with snowy damask and silver, was centered with a tall crystal cake stand on a mirrored reflector surrounded by japonicas and fern and holding the birthday cake, a beautiful and novel confection in the shape of a lamb.

At each end of the table were crystal bowls of red and white sweet peas resting on reflectors. Lovely crystal candelabras and crimson tapers completed the table decoration, while baskets of fragrant red flowers were placed at vantage points throughout the room. The place cards represented polo players and the favors were miniature chocolate "bottles of wine."

Sheriff F. W. Murphy acted as toast master and called on each guest for a toast to the honoree and each responded with a fitting tribute to his sterling character.

Mr. Murphy in his inimitable, jovial way presented Dr. Miller with a Gladstone traveling bag, the gift of the assembled guest. This was a complete surprise to the recipient, who expressed his thanks and appreciation in a most delightful manner.

The guests then repaired to the living room, where various games of cards were indulged in.

Sharing the pleasures of the evening with the honoree were Messrs. F. W. Murphy, A. B. Turnage, W. W. Porter, B. W. Doss, S. L. Hartman, Dent Colvin, J. D. Miller, Sr., L. B. Baughman, O. Baughman, R. B. Fogle, Edward Everett, Jr., Ben M. Lee, Mike Smith, Dr. C. C. Francis, A. C. Dykes, W. B. Miller and John F. Boughton.

Mrs. Duke Selig left for Dallas, Texas, where she will be a guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Erice Gambrell.

Mrs. R. L. Turnage and daughter, Patty, and Clyde Myers, spent a week-end in Memphis, Tenn., with relatives.

Mrs. J. D. Baughman and daughter recently visited in Rayville.

Mrs. Sue L. Barnes is visiting her daughters, Mrs. Tom Sullivan and Mrs. Tom Hayes at Monroe.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell White of Ruston were recent guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mayor and Mrs. J. R. Dawkins of Farmerville.

Mrs. Robert Soule has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Ramsey.

Mrs. Jack Pace, Mrs. Brodie Green and son, Brodie, Jr., spent a week-end in Delhi with Mrs. Pace's parents.

Mrs. James Rabun has returned to Monroe after a visit here with her sister, Mrs. J. D. Baughman.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Green recently visited relatives in Junction City, Ark.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben M. Lee spent a week-end at Gibsland with Mrs. Lee's parents.

Mrs. John W. Taylor has returned home after a visit to Monroe.

Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Read, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Terry and Mrs. Hall Terry spent a week-end in Baton Rouge.

Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Taylor were called to Dallas, Texas on account of the serious illness of Dr. Taylor's brother-in-law, Harry Greer.

R. P. Webb and son, R. P., Jr., of Monroe, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Everett.

A group of Major Bowes' famous amateurs, who gained recognition through a nation-wide poll following their first broadcast over Major Bowes' amateur hour radio program in New York, will appear in Monroe next Sunday and Monday, March 29 and 30.

The group, known as "Unit No. 14," which is on its way to fill an extensive engagement in Texas during the observance of that state's centennial anniversary celebration, is traveling in its own luxurious private bus, and is coming to Monroe under the auspices of Barkdull Faulk Post No. 13, American Legion. The proceeds of the two concerts will be devoted entirely to the furnishing of two rooms in the G. B. Cooley T. B. Sanatorium at Pine Top, overlooking Bayou D'Arbonne.

Four concerts will be given at the parish high school auditorium, the first on Sunday afternoon at 3:30. The others are scheduled as follows: Sunday night, 8:30; Monday, 3:30, and 8:30 p.m. Bill Perhamus, post commander of the local legion, is being assisted by Sab Rubin, chairman of the committee on arrangements, in working out the details of the event, which is expected to bring a large attendance from out of town Major Bowes radio fans.

Personal sketches of the young artists who will appear here on the program are given as follows:

Monroe In For Week Of Music; Two Concerts Are Scheduled

Russian Chorus, Vesper Choir To Perform Here

Louisiana Federation Of Music Clubs Will Hold Convention Here; Beautiful Spring Weather Attracts Folks Outdoors

Put on your new blue homburg with the blue veil on it, pin a flower in the lapel of your coat and get ready for a rather splendorous week. The nights will be filled with music and every care that infests the day will vanish this coming week, when musicians from every section of the state will arrive in Monroe for the state Federated Music clubs' convention.

The concert Thursday night will send your soul soaring and will lift your spirits above the common little annoyances of this little world in which we trudge day after day. The Slaviansky Russian chorus on Monday night, sponsored by Neville High school, will set the tempo for the remainder of the week.

With the golf links a sea of verdant green splashed with the bizarre colors of the sports costumes worn by the feminine golfers, with house boats along the riverfront once again assuming the air of being inhabited, groups of congenials leaving for camping parties, with the days growing definitely longer as the sun travels northward, we realize that summer advances.

Melba Liner, reflecting the buoyancy of springtime, was off to McGowan's club yesterday with a party of congenials. She could scarcely wait to don her riding togs for a gallop along the country roads fringing the Ouachita where the clubhouse is situated. Melba is such a lovely person and will fit delightfully into the picture of springtime beauty. Others will spend their time fishing, but Melba finds life's happiest moments are spent riding horseback in the freshness of the early morn.

The old saw about "a rolling stone gathers no moss" may not be exactly applicable in this case, but William Grasse, after a three months' absence, is back in Monroe with new ideas, new friends, a broader conception of public life and a determination never to roam again. After he had told an energetic young saleswoman that he intended to live and die in Monroe, she immediately tried to sell him a tombstone. Prominent among the new friends acquired by Mr. Grasse is Mrs. Bernice Spratler, dramatic soprano with the Mississippi State Teachers college Vesper choir appearing in Monroe Thursday night. He has planned a little dinner party for Thursday night and we know it will be everything the heart desires, as we saw him talking to Frances Keenan.

Have you ever seen anything blossom out like Doris Read? Just a short time ago she was wearing pinafores and now she is a lovely young woman ready to say goodbye to high school days for ever. Saw her shopping with her attractive mother, Stella Reid, the other day and found the reason for the classy wardrobe was the Easter prom at Culver. She will motor through the country with Helen and John Sherrouse and will be the guest of John, Jr., at Culver.

With our gift for prophecy, we foretold with fine accuracy that the romance spring is exuding would result in several marriages. There is one in particular that will quite thrill you.

Elizabeth Cosper's eyes were as round as saucers when she told us about the fountain that dripped champagne at Shirley Mae Wahl's wedding in New Orleans last week. The fountain, fashioned of white lilies and roses and banked with palms, was bubbling over with the nectar of the god's and many there were who drank deep at the fount. She told us also of the twenty-five pound wedding cake that rated a table of its own. Elizabeth also told us about the gown she wore and we imagined the gods had something to do with that also. It sounded like something dreams are made of.

Bessie Biedenharn has at last attained her heart's desire. She caught a huge tarpon off the coast of Florida last week. At the Key Largo fishing club near Miami, where every breath you draw costs plenty of money, Bessie and Henry and their guests from New York found life most expansive. They found just what they wanted in the way of boats and guides to take them deep sea fishing. Bessie's quota was a half barrel in two hours.

Sandwiched in between all the events of the coming week will be the Little Theater production, "The Importance of Being Earnest," at the Central school auditorium Tuesday night. This, as you all know, is Oscar Wilde's famous farce—the greatest one he ever wrote, they tell us. You will be simply delighted with Sybil Thompson's characterization. She has the leading feminine role.

Maud Stubbs is off for California to recapture the roses in her cheeks. A severe case of the "flu" left her wan and a very different person from the Maud we all know. Two months of California sunshine and the companionship of her charming aunt, Mrs. D. M. Flowers of Alexandria, will work wonders.

About Spring Clothes

Looking for new spring clothes is an annual thrill that every woman experiences. Never are clothes enjoyed more than the moment when you put aside your faithful winter coat and slide into crackling fresh prints.

If you are hunting hopefully for distinctive, different, and yet not freaky new ideas, this is the time to shop. Monroe shops are filled with gay, bright, new ideas, all kinds of daytime dresses, all kinds of afternoon models, countless models of the sort of new spring ensembles and costumes that you have been waiting for. These are real, honest to goodness creations that promise to make everyone look individual.

There are high fashion duets of dress and bolero coatee effect, with either long or short sleeves. There are interesting and daringly different combines of materials, subtle shades and tones, adroit new sleeves, flattering masses of plaiting and even more effective bits of drapery. There are slim, tailored things redeemed for femininity with flippant accents of frills and even embroidery.

Outstanding models for spring! Clothes that you hurry into the first sunshiny day, the wardrobe possibilities that will make a vastly different woman out of the most pessimistic soul.

Spring dresses of bright prints, spring duets of a short and snappy jacket of checks or plaids, or any contrasting color that you wear with a straight and scanty skirt of some plain dark color, and spring suits—can pick from dozens of different there are so many of these that you models to dramatize your personality.

Crackling fresh printed taffeta or the embroidered kind is a pet material this spring, fashioning everything from slim daytime dresses, rather simple as to streamline, to the swirling, long skirted dinner and evening gowns made with Spanish flares and ruffles and using a scrap of a cape for the shoulders. Short jackets have taken the town, as well as the fancy of every clothes collector. There isn't a well asembled wardrobe that does not, or will not, have at least three or four of these practical jackets ready to change and transform extra skirts or dresses into supersmart street outfits.

Aside from the many tailored street suits, the spring showings feature flattering, feminine clothes . . . clothes that will lift you out of the winter doldrums with all the fizz of spring tonic. Sleek little duets of wool and taffeta, with tiny plaitings, printed silks with designs that are obligingly small, dark backgrounds discreetly spattered with bright colors, to wear with all the bright colored gloves and handbags and flower hung hats.

Williams-Barker

The marriage of Mr. Martin Ellwood Williams, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Williams of Shreveport, and former residents of this city, claims the interest of their many Monroe friends.

The following aritcle appearing in the social section of the Shreveport Times will be read with considerable interest:

"The marriage of Miss Marjorie Barker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Barker, and Martin Ellwood Williams, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Williams, was impressively solemnized Friday evening at the First Baptist church, with Dr. M. E. Dodd, pastor, officiating, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. The chancel was beautiful with palm and ferns and tall crystal vases filled with white stock, white marguerites and gypsophila. Tiered candelabra held burning tapers that gleamed against the verdant background. Mr. Charles Hostettler, at the organ, played a group of pre-nuptial selections and accompanied Miss Elizabeth Spencer, who sang "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me." The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a grey spring ensemble trimmed with grey fur. Her blouse and hat were of navy blue and her flowers were a shower bouquet of bridesroses and midget calla lilies, veiled with misty gypsophila. Miss Coila Redding, maid of honor, was gowned in turquoise blue, flat crepe with lace sleeves and her accessories were of brown. She carried an arm bouquet of pink snapdragons, pink larkspur and pink sweetpeas. Mrs. Frederick Wright, matron of honor, wore powder blue crepe with matching accessories and also carried pink snapdragons, larkspur and sweetpeas. The two bridesmaids, Miss Betty Watkins and Miss Ann Neef of Texarkana Texas, wore identical gowns of pink silk pique with small pink hats. Their flowers were a mixed spring bouquet of pink and blue.

Mr. V. G. Simmons, Jr., served the bridegroom as best man and the ushers were Charles Simmons and Sidney Williams. They wore the bride's favor, white rosebuds as buttonierres. Mrs. Barker, the mother of the bride, was gowned in blue crepe, with modish printed blouse, and Mrs. Williams, mother of the bridegroom, wore a chic spring model of blue triple sheer. Both had corsages of souvenir roses and sweetpeas. Mr. and Mrs. Martin Elwood Williams, Jr., left immediately after the ceremony for their home in Baton Rouge."

Anniversary Observed

A birthday anniversary when one has reached the age of eighty-three is sufficiently interesting to inspire the gathering of relatives and friends for a day of reminiscences.

Mr. Jacob Landrum celebrated his eighty-third birthday anniversary in the midst of old friends and relatives, numbering his own immediate family and his brothers and sisters. The day was overflowing with pleasures, with a sumptuous dinner served al fresco at noon under the trees, where long tables adorned with beautiful flowers were placed. Blessing was asked by Reverend E. E. Huntsberry, pastor of the West Monroe Baptist church, of which the celebrant is a faithful member.

Dr. J. H. Landrum, the celebrant's son, proved an eloquent after-dinner speaker, as did Mr. Allen Wood, a life long friend.

Those present in addition to the celebrant were: Reverend and Mrs. E. E. Huntsberry, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Burt, Mrs. George Green, Mrs. W. P. Ray, Mrs. J. G. Aperitifs were enjoyed in the drawing rooms before luncheon was served in the dining room at a lace-draped table adorned with a low plaque of pink camellias nestling in a bed of maiden hair fern. A delectable five-course luncheon with broiled chicken comprising the entree was served and later bridge was introduced.

Enjoying Mrs. Kellogg's hospitality were Mrs. L. P. Milner, Mrs. Woodworth Cooper, Mrs. Allan Sholars, Mrs. Howard Greene, Mrs. John Sherrouse, Mrs. Arthur Dryburgh and Mrs. Clyde Paine.

Miss Smith Honor Guest

Miss Annie Mae Smith was guest of honor at a beautifully planned shower in the home of Misses Anne and Freeda Mickel Thursday evening.

Fragrant yellow spring flowers created a colorful background in the reception suite. The gay decorative theme of green and yellow was manifested in the appointments of crystal and linen.

The presentation of gifts climaxed the evening's pleasures. Miss Smith was requested to cut the handsome wedding cake embossed in yellow and surmounted with a bride's bouquet. When the flowers were removed the gifts were discovered attached to the wide satin streamers and concealed in the cake, so realistically decorated, that everyone was surprised to find it was not edible.

During the social hour the hostesses served assorted sandwiches, cake and iced tea to Miss Smith, Misses Ann Elizabeth Benton, Faye Curry, Virginia Baldwin, Elizabeth Stringer, Mary Louise Farr, Katherine Mickel and Mrs. Drew Anderson.

The hostesses were assisted by Miss Stringer and Miss Farr.

Paris Puts Spring In Bridal Ensembles With These Models Of Handknitted Silk

UNITY CENTER

Sunday morning at 10:15, lessons in truth. Devotional services at 11 o'clock. Subject, "Relation and Absolute Values." The flower is for a day; man is for eternity. The beauty of the flower is perfect, but fleeting. It is a symbol of the infinite care and perfection evident in life in even its least significant form. The beauty of man is his character, a flower he helps God to cultivate in him through faith. Without faith he cannot allow God a free course in his life, but interferes by his anxious thought. Character is a species of beauty peculiar to man. The Infinite puts His seal on him in the action of his mind and soul. The highest act of creation, requiring the joint work of Creator and creature, is reserved till last. For that work consciousness of truth in man is necessary. Thursday evening at 7:30 a study of prayer. An invitation is extended those who wish to attend these services.

Sherrouse P.-T. A.

As guest speaker at the March meeting of the Sherrouse school P.-T. A., Miss Clara Hall, city school music director, gave a splendid talk on the development of the natural ability of the child.

"Music," she said, "was used as a mode of expression before speech." The very best emotional experiences are brought out by the fine arts, architecture sculpture, painting, literature and music—most modern schools including these so that each child may make his choice. She urged that the greatest patience be exercised by parents and teachers while permitting this development.

Songs and folk dances were given by each grade in the school, showing satisfactory accomplishments on the part of both teachers and pupils.

The national president's message, read by Mrs. C. C. Colvert, was followed by the reading of the state president's message by Mrs. E. J. Brown.

During the short business session thes eofficers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. John Calhoun; vice-president, Mrs. E. J. Brown; secretary, Mrs. Fred Wetzel; treasurer, Miss Eloise Cann; historian, Mrs. C. C. Colvert.

Sleeved Evening Dresses

They billowed out in organdies and chiffons or fell in draped folds of crepe or satin. Many were slashed from shoulder to wrist. One dress boasted a single sleeve, the right one, while the left arm and shoulder went entirely bare.

Evening dresses without sleeves often had long scarfs of the fabric draped off the shoulders. These were caught to the wrist with a jewelled band like a bracelet, or they fell down to the feet and were turned up again to fasten under the belt. Red scarfs on white dresses and mauve on turquoise, were some of the most effective contrasts.

Fringed trimming added a striking note to crepe and satin evening dresses. Black silk fringe outlined the low neck of a black crepe model and made four tiers for its trained skirt. A small sensation was created by the appearance of pink straw fringe on a pink lace dress, which also had a woven straw girdle.

Pink lace dresses were an outstanding success at the Lace ball, a charity event which took place in Paris this week under Franco-American auspices. One model in Venise lace had a stiffened full skirt, and a Victorian neck finished with a stiff lace band. Another had long loops of the pink lace for sleeves, and a bunch of many-colored tulips thrust under the belt. Red roses accented a black lace model.

Madame Lebrun, wife of the French president, who was also present at the ball, was costumed in gray lace, while Mrs. Straus, the American ambassador's wife, wore white satin with a long pointed shawl of black lace.

Tulle dresses appeared in such tones as lacquer red, gentian blue, Chinese green, black and white. Big sleeves distinguished many tulle models, and usually were dropped off the shoulder to expose the top of the arm.

The Louisiana Academy of Science will hold its annual meeting at Lafayette on March 27th and 28th. Several Northeast Center professors will appear on the interesting program, which will be sectioned this year into a physical science, biological sicence and junior academy division. The complete program of the society will be printed soon. All grammar and high school teachers of science are cordially invited to hear the papers on research and particularly invited to the junior academy division, which will discuss some of the teaching problems.

Mr. C. A. Braun of Sedalia, Mo., is a week-end guest of his son, Mr. C. B. Braun, and Mrs. Braun.

GATHERED JACKET FASHION WINNER

Multicolored shaded wool fabric with the dominating tone, red, green, yellow and brown is used by Creed for this jacket with the new gathered back and sleeves. A green felt hat trimmed with a red and green ostrich tip, completes this smart, semi-tailored ensemble.

Louisiana Federated Music Clubs To Meet Here Thursday

Choir Sings At Meeting

Three-Day Gathering To Be Held Here; Mrs. Hullum To Preside

Appearing for the first time in this city, the state teachers college vesper choir of Hattiesburg, Miss., under the direction of Frank Earl Marsh, Jr., will present an unusual concert at Northeast Center auditorium Thursday night, March 26. This concert is presented under the sponsorship of the senior federated music clubs of Monroe.

The vesper choir was organized in the fall of 1930 at the Mississippi State Teachers college for the purpose of gaining experience in professional concertizing and also to acquaint the musical public in various sections of the country with the caliber of vocal ensemble composed of youthful southern singers. The personnel of this talented group consists of sixty students from the Mississippi State Teachers college.

Last April the vesper choir journeyed to Philadelphia, Pa., and sang with great success at the National Federation of Music biennial convention, it being one of three such choruses to receive encores during the week of music at Philadelphia. Next October the choir will go to Dallas, Texas, to represent Mississippi on Mississippi day at the Central Centennial exposition on invitation of the Texas State Federation of Music clubs.

The choir will be conducted by Frank Earl Marsh, Jr., one of the outstanding American interpreters of choral music in the south. Bernice Spratler, dramatic soprano, Vivian M. Kuhl, violin-cellist, and William Morgan Keller, violinist, will be presented as soloists with the vesper choir in its concert here. All three of these young artists are ranked with the most capable young soloists on the concert stage.

Vesper Choir To Sing

An event of major importance among Louisiana Federated Music clubs will be the state convention in this city this week, with Mrs. Louis Hullum, the state president, presiding. Hostesses on this occasion will be the senior Federated Music clubs of Monroe.

The convention will be officially opened at nine o'clock Thursday morning on the roof of the Virginia hotel, where each session of the three-day convention will take place.

Members of the junior Federated clubs will also swing into action at this time, with sessions held in the ball room of the Virginia. The luncheon on Saturday at one o'clock will be held on the roof. Mrs. Frances Leavell will be in charge of the program and will preside during the luncheon hour.

The piece de resistance of the three-day session will be the concert Thursday night at Northeast Center auditorium, featuring the Mississippi State Teachers' college Vesper choir, appearing under the auspices of the senior Federated clubs of Monroe. This event, one of great interest in musical circles, promises to be one of the most brilliant of many seasons. The public is cordially invited to attend this concert, looked forward to with an anticipatory thrill by all members of the Louisiana Federated Music clubs attending the convention.

Mrs. Hullum and members of the senior Federated clubs of Monroe have performed a masterstroke in bringing this choir to Monroe for this particular event. Few state conventions can boast of such an accomplishment.

Music Galore

The coming week will be flooded with music, with the Slaviansky Russian chorus Monday night at the Neville High school auditorium paving the way for other musical events in connection with the program arranged by the Senior Federated Music clubs of this city, which are acting as hostesses for the state convention.

The Russian chorus, sponsored by the Neville High school, is making a triumphant tour of fifty nations, with the world-famous conductor, Mme. Margarita Slaviansky, a colorful, dynamic figure, wielding the baton.

This chorus, acclaimed by eminent critics of fifty nations to be one of the greatest musical organization beneath the sun, will no doubt attract every music lover in the city. The concert will feature sublime singing, beautiful folk dances and gorgeous costumes. Expressed in the songs will be the emotions of the Russian people—the mother rocking the cradle of her child and singing it to sleep, the peasant in the field easing his labor by the chant of a simple song. You will hear the Volga boatman sung as you have never heard it before.

Busy Week Concluded

A week overflowing with activity has just been concluded by members of the Business and Professional Women's club of this city, who observed National Business Women's week with a program of brilliant events.

The public relations dinner party at the flower banked clubhouse Thursday night was the highlight of the week and added lustre to one of the most elaborate programs ever prepared by the local organization in connection with the national observance of Business Women's week.

Radio speeches by outstanding club members were made each day, thus bringing a stirring message of women's place in the business world into every home in the city. Of great importance was the message delivered by Miss Julia Wossman on "The Responsibility of Ending Child Labor."

Public Relations Dinner

The Business and Professional Women's handsome clubhouse on Jackson street, presided over so graciously by Mrs. Charles McCord, was in gala floral attire Thursday night when club members entertained with their annual public relations dinner. This annual event in connection with National Business Women's week, grows more elaborate and more vitally interesting with each succeeding year.

The long tables, banked with rose-colored camellias and bridal wreath and bathed in the radiance of myriad rose-colored tapers in crystal candlesticks down the full length of the board, was presided over by Miss Eleanor Faulk, a vibrant flame in exquisite crimson evening model. Miss Faulk was privileged to present the speaker of the evening, Mr. M. C. Redmond, a prominent Monroe attorney, who delivered a glowing address on the subject of "Women United for Effective Democracy."

Miss Faulk also introduced Miss Lelia Dean Frazier, who entertained with a clever, humorous reading. Miss Charlotte Davis, a talented vocalist, contributed two beautiful numbers, accompanied by Miss Florence Ziegler at the piano. Mrs. Fay Heard led the chorus singing with "My Louisiana," sung lustily by the entire assemblage.

The five-course dinner, with broiled chicken the piece de resistance, was faultlessly served to club members and a few invited guests who represented the civic circles of Monroe.

Present were Mrs. Jennie Thornton, Mrs. Lillian Jackson, Miss Mary O'Kelly, Miss Lelia Dean Frazier, Miss Hazel Wakefield, Miss Mary Hester, Miss Florence Powers, Miss Eleanor Faulk, Miss Charlotte Davis, Miss Florence Ziegler, Miss Maibel Hood, Miss Eleona Brinsmade, Miss May Read, Miss Mae McIntosh, Miss Goldie Copes, Mrs. Lizzie Morris, Miss Lucyle Godwin, Miss Lola Lanius, Miss Bernice Wright, Miss Alice Hodge, Miss Nora Downs, Mrs. Johnnie Smith Elbert, Mrs. Effie Allen, Miss Mamie Ober, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Davis, Miss Alice Baur, Mrs. B. Flower Show Planned

Members of the Garden club have managed to dispell the spring fever doldrums by delving deep into flower lore. The annual urge to dig up, to transplant and to beautify is now upon the home gardener and this urge is being encouraged by the plans adopted by the Garden club for spring beautification.

Plans are going on apace for the spring flower show and in the meantime the planting of purple iris is engaging the attention of all garden club members. The presence in the city last week of a noted authority on the native iris, Mr. Frank Carroll of New Orleans, who addressed members of the Garden club, inspired the planting of these glorious flowers along the lagoon in Bernstein park. Motoring to the park with Mr. Carroll, who superintended the planting, the committee headed by the president, Mrs. Elmer Richards, rowed a small boat up the lagoon where roots were planted along the water's edge. Next spring members of the Garden club already find themselves visualizing the beauty of the banks along the lagoons and the shore of the small islands that dot the park, next year when the iris flaunts its purple banners.

In addition to planting iris at vantage points in Monroe the Garden club recently sent bulbs to Mr. Carroll for planting in Audubon park, New Orleans. The little space devoted to them will bear the name of Ouachita.

With plans now under way for the spring flower show, it is well to bear in mind that there is more to a flower show than intermingled personal satisfaction and horticultural inspiration, for a flower show, properly staged, is essentially educational.

An authority on public exhibits tells us: "It's planning that puts a flower show over, and there are three definite angles to be considered. First, of course, comes the manager.

"This director should have complete responsibility and unrestricted authority in certain phases of the show, and one of these phases involves specifying the paper or other covering to be used as a background for the exhibits. There will be no harmony or beauty to any flower show if the exhibitors go in for a hodge-podge of color, each to some individual fancy.

"Even the containers to hold the flowers must all be of the same general type. Most any horticultural enthusiast can remember show where the variety of tin can, kettles, milk bottles and other receptacles attracted hideous notice, virtually blotting out any effort with blossoms. Let the manager decide upon the containers to be used and abide by his choice and demand!

"Factor No. 2 is no less important than the first consideration. It constitutes the very core of intelligent flower-show planning, and you can sum it up like this:

"Clubs planning displays must call upon their members to begin work months in advance of the proposed show date. Each member must plant according to a specific, well-rounded program; for, whatever varieties of flowers are to be exhibited, there must be enough 'showable' bloom to make a definite spectator-impression.

"Take gladioli, for instance: If you're going to build your show around flowers of this type your garden club members should plant large qauntities of gladioli—and the planting should be 'staggered,' so that, no matter what the weather conditions or unforeseen 'bad breaks' might be, there will be plenty of blossoms between participating gardens by them time that the show date arrives."

Rose garden activity begins with the very first day that the gardener can really begin outdoor work. The rose plant is one of the very earliest to respond joyously to the impulse to grow. The latent buds begin to swell up as soon as the weather shows any true signs of relenting. When the forsythias open their golden bells it is time for the rose grower to set out his new plants. Most other spring activities can well be delayed a bit to give the right of way to the rose.

Auxiliary Meets

The L. B. Faulk unit No. 13 of the American Legion auxiliary met Thursday evening at the legion home with the past president, Mrs. C. L. Mengis, presiding. The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Henry McClendon.

Commander Gill Perhamus of L. B. Faulk post of the legion was introduced and spoke on the legion's traffic safety campaign, saying that in 1935 more than 35,000 persons were killed and close to 1,000,000 injured in automobile accidents. The deductions drawn from these tragic figures show a need for safety education, not only for motorists, but for pedestrians as well; and that the Faulk post was actively supporting this program. Also that the post was bringing to Monroe the Major Bowes program and needed the assistance of the auxiliary to make advance ticket sales.

Plans were made to hold a joint child welfare meeting of the legion, Forty and Eight and auxiliary in April, Mrs. Mengis named Mrs. Oscar Johnson, Mrs. Henry McClendon and Mrs. Bill Perhamus members of the committee to assist her.

March being community service month, Mrs. Charles M. Mitchell, chairman, talked on community service activities sponsored by the unit as follows:

"In 1926-27 the American Legion brought forward community service as a major program of activity and the month of March was set aside as the time for us to localize our appreciation and look about us to see how best we can serve the community in which we live. This is also true of our town and our friends.

"How can we best help to improve this place that is so dear to us? was the question asked by the L. B. Faulk unit at that time. It was soon answered that spring. The flood waters of the mighty Mississippi river rolled in over our beloved land, and we set to work with might and main to do our bit. The flood refugees were pouring in from Arkansas. The need was immediate action to care for these poor, hungry, frightened people. There was no Red Cross or other organized relief agency here at the time. We volunteered with several other organizations. The old Weaks supply building was secured. You know the rest; the story has been told many times.

"After the flood of '27, the question was, 'What can we do now?' We considered the needs of our community and found that infantile paralysis was ravaging our children; that there were boy and girl organizations to be sponsored; that there was no city recreation department. We decided not to scatter our efforts but to concentrate on the interests of children, of which there was an immediate special need. Our first effort was to sponsor the Camp Fire Girls' organization; our second, to hold crippled children's clinics whereby children who had suffered from infantile paralysis and whose parents were unable to procure examination and advice from orthopedic surgeons would be benefited. May I say that we were the first among the 8,590 units of the auxiliary in the United States to see the need for such a program. Through the cooperation of Dr. H. A. Durham, legionnaire and orthopedic surgeon in charge of the Shriners' hospital for crippled children at Shreveport, who offered us his services and the services of his hospital, and the sisters of St Francis, who offered us the use of St Francis sanitarium, with nurses and equipment, we were able to hold the first crippled children's clinic held in the United States.

"By this time we realized that the world marches on, on the feet of little children, and experience had taught us that any program for the betterment of the children of Monroe was the greatest service we could render our community. The increased leisure time of children was beginning to be felt, the need for well-directed activities under the supervision of a recreation and play leader was a long felt want. A committee from the auxiliary, the parent-teacher council, Lions and Kiwanis clubs, and tuberculosis and health association called upon Mayor Bernstein and made known our views to him. Mayor Bernstein, a man of foresight, was keen to sense the potentiality of such a program. He immediately organized the city of Monroe's recreation and playground department. This, our third effort, was launched six years ago and the wonderful results obtained by this department, for the benefit of the children of our city, has more than justified our leaders in this progressive step.

"We are sponsoring a nation-wide program to develop a conservation-consciousness in the men, women and youth of the cities and countryside in every region of the United States, by the development of a continuing program for the protection from destruction, the restoration and the enjoyment through wise use of our natural resources. We are proud of our past accomplishments and present achievements. 'Because of our eligibility through service, we give service.'"

Style Revue Slated

Springtime and style revues are so closely associated, one without the other would be incomplete. Realizing this, the Junior Charity league is delving deep into plans for their fashion pageant Wednesday night, featuring beautiful models who will walk in the spotlight to the accompaniment of lilting music.

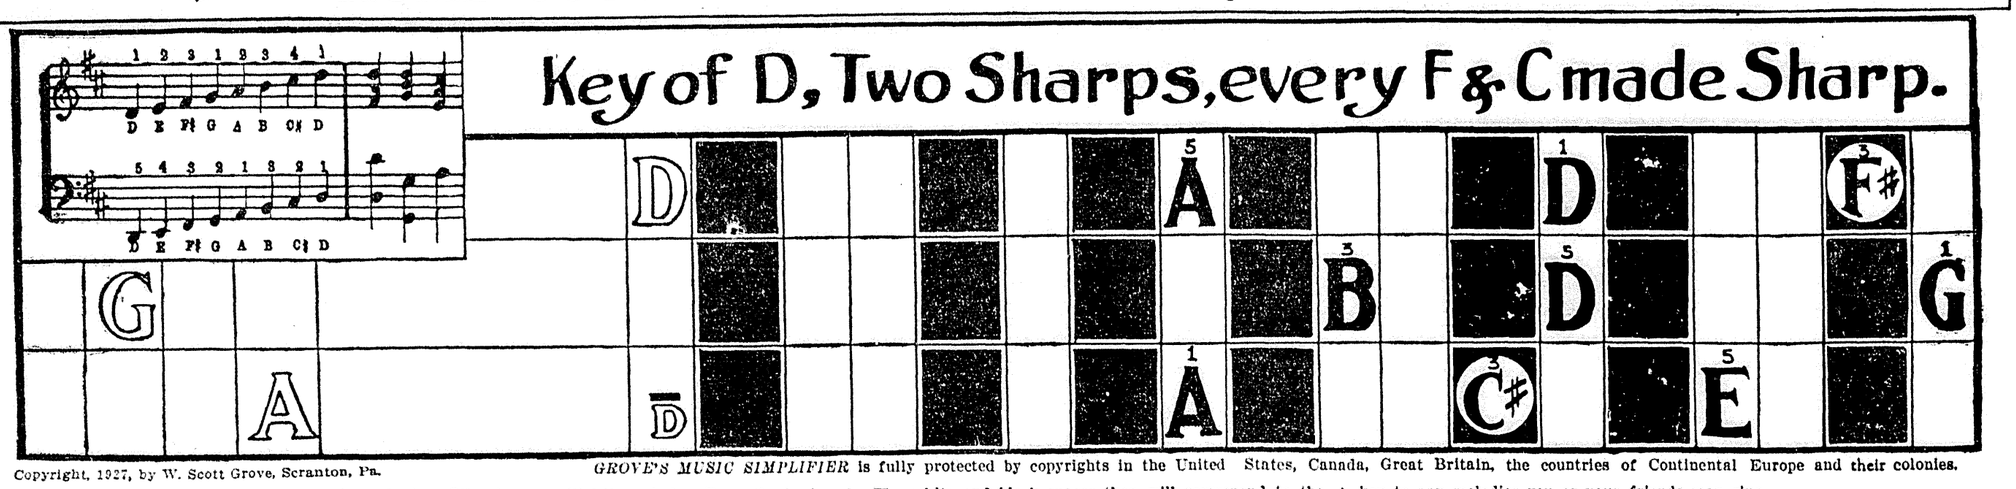

Mrs. Walter Kellogg, chairman of the style revue committee, is now busily engaged in completing plans for this picturesque event that claims the undivided interest of feminine Monroe year after year.

The models will be Mrs. Merrill Bush, Mrs. C. E. Thompson, Jr., Miss Violet Meyer, Mrs. Romaine Peters, Miss Connie McReynolds and Miss Sue Graves.

Miss Lillian Baker, formerly head of the Spanish department of Northeast Center, and Miss Kathryn M. Wolfe, head of the biology department, are spending the week-end in New Orleans. They were guests of the New Orleans Academy of Sciences at their annual dinner at Kolb's restaurant, Friday evening. Following the dinner Dr. Otis W. Caldwell, junior academy chairman of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, addressed the academy. Numerous papers on research in the various sciences were presented during the two-day meeting, which was held at Tulane university.

HOME COURSE IN PIANO PLAYING—LESSON NO. 1

Copyright, 1927, by W. Scott Grove, Scranton, Pa. GROVE'S MUSIC SIMPLIFIER is fully protected by copyrights in the United States, Canada, Great Britain, the countries of Continental Europe and their colonies.

Here is the first of a series of 24 lessons in piano playing. Other lessons will follow making a complete series of chords in all keys, both major and minor. The system embraces a general and practical method of instruction. It teaches the notes and letters in the transpositions of the different keys and embodies the principles of harmony and thoro-bass. Learn the first lesson thoroly before taking up the second.

INSTRUCTION—Place chart upon the keyboard of the piano so that the small white letter D with a dash above it, at the bottom of the chart, is directly over the key D on the keyboard. The white and black spaces then will correspond to the white and black keys. Each of the three horizontal series of letters represents a chord. Beginning with the upper row, play the white letter or note with the left hand and play the three black letters or notes with the right hand, making the first chord. Then, in the same way, play the notes indicated in the second horizontal series, then those in the third and back to the first, forming a complement in D Major.

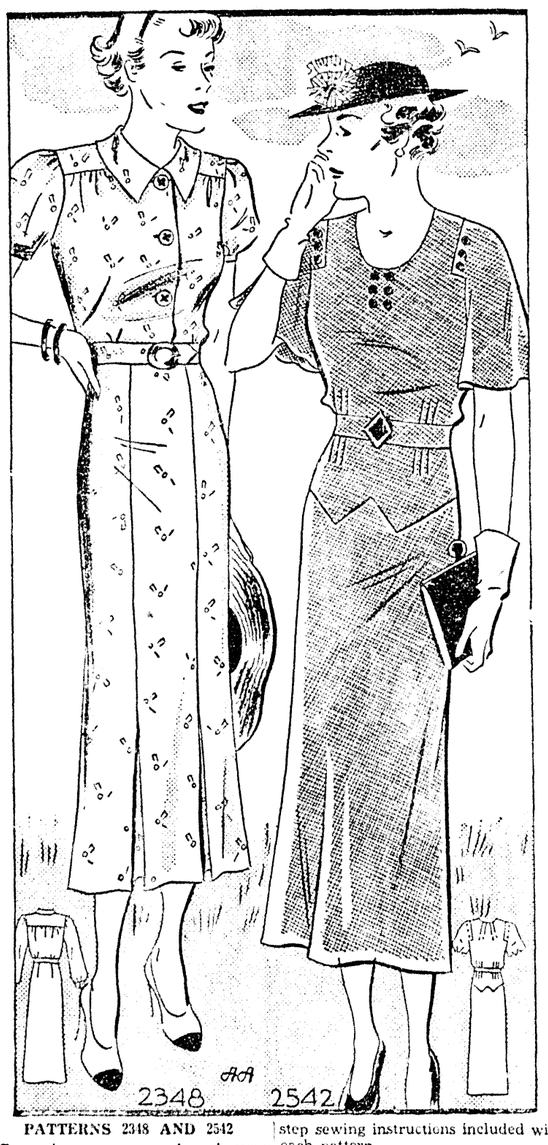

Play the chord over and over again until you have memorized it. Memorize the letters also. You soon will find that you can play simple accompaniments in this key to any melodies you or your friends may sing.

If you wish to go further in studying learn the fingering of the scales shown on the staff in each chart, upper notes played with the right hand, lower with left hand. The chords at the end of the staff you will find are the chords you already have learned, but with the upper notes inverted. Every triad in black letter is marked 1, 3, 5. Always read it so, no matter in what vertical order the notes may be written.

CHAPTER VIII

Ben Blake said, "Do you mean you've changed your mind or you haven't the money?"

Toby met his gaze. "I haven't the $25," she said. "Even if I had a job, a regular one—and I haven't—it would take months for me to save that much. I'll just have to forget about it. I'm sorry."

"But, Mr. Blake—"

He did not seem to hear her. Picking up the telephone, he said to the operator, "Get Marty Hiatt on the wire for me."

Toby explained insistently, "Oh, I couldn't ask him—!"

Blake raised one hand, silencing her. "You let me handle this," he said. "Sit down."

Toby obeyed. A minute later Blake was speaking into the telephone again.

"Marty?" he said. "How'ryou? Yes—yes, I've been talking to her. She's here now." For several moments he listened, now and then making monosyllabic answers. Presently, he said, "Listen, Marty, are you doing that Worthingale job? You are? Well, here's what I was thinking about. How about using Miss Ryan on that job and, instead of paying her, let her have some of the photographs? Could you do that? Well, I thought—yes, sure. Yes. Wait a minute; I'll ask her—"

Blake turned to Toby. "Marty says he can use you on a job this afternoon. He's willing to let you have some of the pictures instead of paying you. Is that all right?"

"Oh, yes, Mr. Blake."

"Could you go over to his studio this afternoon?"

"I can go any time."

* * *

Blake spoke into the telephone again. "It's all right, Marty," he said. "She'll be there. What time do you want her? Four o'clock. Okay. Thanks, Marty. I'll be seeing you in a day or so. Yes—goodbye."

He put down the telephone, pushing it aside. "Well," he said, "that's that. Hiatt will make the pictures and turn them over to me. Of course I can't promise that we're going to be able to get you work as a model. It all depends on how well you photograph. The pictures will be the test."

Toby said, "I don't know how to thank you—"

"Never mind about that." Blake cut in. "Wait until we see how those pictures turn out. Hiatt wants you at his studio at four o'clock." He glanced at his wrist watch. "You've a little time yet. Maybe there're some questions you want to ask about this business."

"There are," Toby admitted. "You see, I don't know anything about it at all. I didn't even know there was a place like the Model's League until Mr. Hiatt told me."

"Well," Blake crossed one knee over the other and settled back comfortably. "In the first place, the regular price for modeling is $5 an hour. That's for photographic work. Artists' models pose three hours for $5. That's why most of the girls would rather work for photographers. Some girls—the ones most in demand—are paid three and four times the regular rate. We have six on our lists who have yearly contracts with a cigaret company that pays them $1,000 not to pose for any other cigaret manufacturer. Besides the $1,000, the girls are paid for all the modeling they do, and they can work for as many other advertisers as they please—but no other cigaret company. Some of these girls earn as much as $5,000 and $6,000 a year. Of course there aren't many of them, I believe I forgot to tell you that we charge 10 per cent of all fees for our services."

* * *

Toby opened the book and turned the pages. Each was made up of reproductions of photographs. There were girls of all types—blond and brunet; tall and aristocratic-looking like "the outdoor type" and girls who were like orchids; girls posing in evening wraps, in bathing suits, in riding habits. Beneath the pictures were descriptions of each girl, giving the color of her hair and eyes, her height, weight and the sizes of dresses, hats, shoes, gloves, etc., she wore.

"That's a code," Blake told her, "for convenience. 'A means 'Camera experience.' O means that particular girl has beautiful legs. Some models are willing to pose in bathing suits, lingerie and so on, and others are not. Some will do medicinal advertising and some won't. The code tells. These books go to photographic studios and advertising agencies. From it they select the models they want and telephone us. We get in touch with the girls, make appointments and do the rest. See how it works?"

Toby nodded. "I'm beginning to," she said. "Mr. Blake, do you really think I can do it—pose, like these other girls—"

He smiled. "I'll tell you after I've seen those photographs," he said. "But you'd better be getting along now. Know where Hiatt's studio is?"

She said she did not and Blake told her how to reach the place. The address was within walking distance. Toby hurried away and 15 minutes later was stepping from another elevator into another hallway.

She found the studio and entered without hesitation. A girl sitting at a desk, looked up and asked whom she wished to see.

Toby said, "I want to see Mr. Hiatt. I'm Toby Ryan—"

"Oh, yes, Miss Ryan," the girl said quickly. "Go right on in. He's expecting you."

Toby entered a large room, unfurnished except for a curious assortment of chairs, a bench and table at one end. There was a camera, facing a small raised platform. On either side of the platform were lights such as those Toby had seen when she posed for the photographs at Bergman's. A tall basket of artificial flowers, an iron railing and several strips of linoleum were the only other objects in the room.

The tall young man motioned toward a door. "Back there," he said. "He'll be out in a minute or so."

* * *

Toby waited. Presently Marty Hiatt, coatless, his sleeves rolled to the elbows and his red hair somewhat ruffled, appeared. "Hello," he said, addressing Toby. "So you got here."

"I hope I'm not late—"

Hiatt said, "You're on time all right." He went on, "Mary'll show you the dresses you're to wear. There are three of them. It doesn't make any difference which you put on first. We're to shoot all of them. Oh, Mary—"

The girl from the outer office entered and led Toby to a tiny dressing room. Across one end of the room, on bars, several dresses were hanging.

"You wear size 12, don't you?" Mary asked. "Here they are." She pointed out three light-colored summer frocks, hanging side by side.

"Anything else you want, let me know," Mary added and then disappeared.

Toby surveyed the dresses. There was a green and white checked seersucker, a printed voile and a two-piece, bright blue linen with a round white collar and bow tie.

With no hesitation Toby slipped the linen over her head. It fitted perfectly. Toby, gazing at her reflection, smiled. The dress was becoming, as she had known it would be.

Ten minutes later she was on the platform before the camera. The lights blazed down on her with their scorching heat. She took the pose as Hiatt instructed and felt awkward. Toby told herself earnestly, "Everything depends on this. I've got to make good now! I've got to—"

And then suddenly every hing began to go wrong. Hiatt was shouting instructions at his assistant. He shouted at Toby, too, "No, no!" he said. "Not like that. Can't you be more natural? You look wooden, stiff. No, it won't do—"

A light, poised precariously, started to fall and the assistant caught it barely in the nick of time.

When the lights were in place again Hiatt said, "Now again. Please, Miss Ryan. PLEASE—!"

Toby took the pose. It wasn't right this time either, and she knew it. She felt stiff, strained. She tried to smile, but the lights blinded her and made her squint. This was nothing like the time she had posed at Bergman's. It hadn't seemed important then and it had been easy. Now when so much depended on it, she was panic-stricken, helpless.

Hiatt, behind the camera, said wearily, "Let's try it from this other side. Maybe that will be better. Turn your head—"

Toby turned. Startled, her eyes met those of a young man standing in the doorway. He was staring at her intently. All at once, with a quick flush of color, Toby recognized him.

(To Be Continued)

Toby turned the pages. There were girls of all types—blond and brunet, tall and small, girls who were "the outdoor type" and girls who were like orchids.

Dietrich And Cooper Playing In 'Desire' At Paramount

Marlene Deitrich and Gary Cooper in their first picture together since "Morocco" . . . the alluring Deitrich, as the beautiful lady with the bad habit of stealing expensive jewels in a very naughty way, meets an irresistible American who steals her heart. The scene is from "Desire" which plays the Paramount theater for the last times today.

Rochelle Hudson and Edward Norris in a scene from the dramatic bombshell "Show Them No Mercy," the attraction coming to the Paramount theater Thursday and Friday, with Cesar Romero, Bruce Cabot, Edward Brophy, Warren Hymer, and Herbert Rawlinson heading the big cast. It is the first picture that dares to tell you the story behind today's white hot headlines.

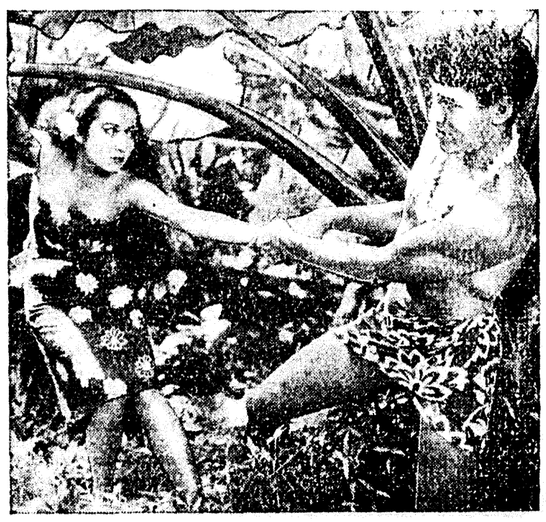

So many people have requested the Capitol management to return the picture "In Old Kentucky," starring Will Rogers, with Dorothy Wilson, Russell Hardie, and Charles Sellon, that the picture has been booked for re-showing Thursday. Millions the world over loved Will Rogers for his homespun humor and kindliness, the qualities that are so sympathetically caught in "In Old Kentucky."

Here is a scene from the funmakers frolic, "Thanks a Million," which comes to the Paramount theater for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, with more stars than you can count and big chorus numbers. Dick Powell, Fred Allen, Ann Dvorak, Paul Whiteman and his band, Patsy Kelly, Raymond Walburn, Rubinoff, and the Yacht Club Boys are among those contributing to its mirth and melody.

Rafael Sabatini's famous and colorful story of romance and adventure, "Captain Blood," comes to the Capitol theater Tuesday and Wednesday. Errol Flynn, Olympic hero and world adventurer, was lured from the stage to portray Sabatini's most lovable scoundrel and he is the image of the romantic pirate as pictured by the author. Lovely Olivia De Haviland has the leading feminine role. The roles have set these two definitely high among the leading stars of the screen.

Mala and Lotus bring you a lesson in love in the South Seas paradise in "Last of the Pagans," coming to the Capitol Friday. The haunting fascination of the South Seas, the idyllic lives of its natives, a romance unfolded amid the thrills of primitive lives are the elements caught in this absorbing piece of entertainment. Mala will be remembered for his performance in "Eskimo" that brought rave reviews from the critics and public alike.

Fast-Moving Film Unites Two Stars

Outstanding Cast Scores Triumph In Romantic Comedy Hit

"DESIRE," the Paramount romantic comedy which had its local opening yesterday at the Paramount theater, brings together that ideal team of screen lovers, Marlene Dietrich and Gary Cooper. It is their first co-starring picture since "Morocco."

The promise of exceptional screen entertainment filled the house with Dietrich fans, Cooper fans, and those who like to see them together. "Desire" reveals a new Marlene Dietrich, glamorous in a different way from her past creations, and a Gary Cooper who turned in as fine a performance as he has ever given.

This screen couple, admirably complement one another. Miss Dietrich is the creature of mystery and allure, the personality of fire and ice. Gary Cooper, her dynamic opposite, is easy-going, smiling, and refuses to let himself be hurried out of his stride in this ardent romance.

Those who see these stars in "Desire" must agree with Director Frank Borzage, who places them at the head of a list of famous screen lovers of all time.

Miss Dietrich, as a breath-taking continental beauty, is used by a gang of master crooks to purloin a costly string of pearls, and accomplishes the job with finesse. She asks a leading Parisian jeweler to deliver the pearls to her so-called husband, a famous psychiatrist. She then calls on the psychiatrist to ask him to examine the jeweler, whom she represents as her mentally deranged spouse. In the ensuing comedy of errors, she makes off with the jewels.

In her flight, the siren meets an American, played by Gary Cooper. Perfect foils, the skirmish in a lively give and take of comedy which moves into romance by easy stages.

Notes On Life In Hollywood

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Before Ernst Lubitsch became managing director of Paramount, he was to have directed Marlene Dietrich in a picture. But his elevation to production chief changed this plan, and Frank Borzage was selected to succeed Josef von Sternberg as the Dietrich mentor.

The first Borzage-Dietrich film, "Desire," bears the marks of a Borzage - Dietrich - Lubitsch picture, as though Lubitsch, its producer, could not refrain from injecting his saucy spirit into the celluloid play by Edwin Justus Mayer, Waldemar Young and Samuel Hoffenstein.

At any rate "Desire" is a departure for Borzage, the master of screen sentiment as exemplified in "Seventh Heaven," "Bad Girl," and other human comedies. "Desire" is comedy that grows sentimental only toward its end, and even then with a suspicion of tongue-in-cheek.

Glamorous Comedy

The picture reunites Marlene with Gary Cooper, her leading man of "Morocco." This time Gary is co-starred. Marlene plays a dazzling, clever jewel thief, and Gary is the American from Detroit.

Marlene no longer is the langorous beauty of multiple close-ups, but a glamorous comedienne. Cooper is likable and exhibits a talent, hitherto little suspected, for this sort of comedy. Exceptional support is given by John Halliday, Ernest Cossart, Alan Mowbray, Zeffie Tilbury and Akim Tamiroff.

"The Milky Way" is expected to restore Harold Lloyd to his old position as a front-rank laugh-getter of the films. Based on the stage comedy, the picture offers Lloyd as the milkman who stumbles into groundless fame as a prizefighter.

Chester Franklin, who directed the scenically beautiful "Sequoia," offers a photographically appealing picture in "Tough Guy." A great area of southern California is the background for a routine cop-and-robber melodrama about the love of a boy (Jackie Cooper) for a dog (Rin-Tin-Tin, Jr.) and a gangster (Joseph Calleia) whose hard heart is softened. Calleia is excellent, the dog ditto, and Jackie Cooper—at his age—should stop crying.

News Reel With Flood At Capitol

Rushed by the Hearst Metrotone News to the Capitol theater by air express for showing today and Monday are scenes of one of the nation's most appalling disasters, flood scenes at Pittsburgh, Johnstown, Washington and the New England states.

Almost simultaneously when the disaster occurred, news was rushed to the Capitol theater that it would be among the first to show these most important scenes, with special views of Pittsburgh and Johnstown as the disaster takes tremendous toll of destruction and death.

In the same news reel there are scenes of frenzy as Germans occupy the "forbidden" Rhine zone, and the French troops on the move are seen. Snapshots are made of the navy fleet boxing championships, and King Edward inspecting the new giant liner of the seas.

Richard Dix Scores Hit At Capitol

'Yellow Dust' Is Thrilling Drama Of Historic Gold Rush Days

THE Mother Lode region of fabulous California gold, with all its historic romance, mad gayety and lawlessness has been recreated for an action drama that gives Richard Dix one of the most colorful roles of his career in "Yellow Dust," playing today at the Capitol.

As did "Cimarron," "West of the Pecos," and "The Arizonian," this Dix picture revives one of the most vivid periods in American history with a story that smashes to a new high in thrills when love finds its way into that atmosphere of hate and greed.

A good woman was an oddity in those mining towns of old, where men outnumbered women of any kind a hundred to seven. Her coming never failed to produce thrilling drama. "Yellow Dust" builds to nerve-snapping suspense when Leila Hyams, as an alluring and virtuous singer, stirs Dix, a young prospector, and Onslow Stevens, a suave mine town boss, to deadly rivalry for her heart.

After striking a fabulously wealthy mine, Dix temporarily forgets gold in in his haste to prospect the romantic riches offered by Miss Hyams. But the exciting young singer flies claim on his mine for herself, and starts Dix on a path of wild adventure not only to regain the mine, but to take her to the altar despite her apparent duplicity. The path is highly dangerous and Dix finds a gun in his ribs and a rope near hangings, claim jumping, gambling, and fighting.

Adapted from the Broadway play, "Mother Lode," the story is highlighted by gun duels, stage hold-ups, bling, drinking, jail breaks and all the mad things men did when the riches of the Mother Lode turned them into lust-frenzied beasts.

A brilliant cast, every one of whose members has made his or her mark on the stage and screen, supports Dix. Jessie Ralph, beloved Broadway veteran who won wide popularity among film-goers as Peggoty in "David Copperfield," and as Gran in "Julna," opposes the star as Miss Hyams' fiery mother. Andy Clyde has a rich comedy role reminiscent of his work in "The Little Minister" and "Annie Oakley."

Moroni Olsen, stage favorite, who recently made his screen debut as Porthos in "The Three Musketeers," portrays a desperado who saves Dix from death by turning on his "road agent" pals. Ted Oliver and Ethan Laidlaw are his menacing partners.

Much of "Yellow Dust" was filmed in the Kern River valley, and the rugged foothills of the Sierra Nevadas form a magnificent backdrop for its stirring action.

TURNING TURRET IS NEW FEATURE

FHA Adds 15 Units To Amplify Success Of Better Home Demonstration

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The National Home Shows which have been held in the key cities of the country during the last two months have been so tremendously successful that the Federal Housing administration has decided to add 15 units of its educational exhibit equipment to the five already in service, thereby providing the central attraction so that shows of this type may be held in almost every sizable city in the United States.

The new units will be ready about April 1. Nineteen of the full 20 will travel from town to town while the other will be located for the spring and summer at America's exposition, at San Diego, Calif.

Red, white, blue and aluminum will continue to be the color scheme of the new units, but they will differ from the original five in certain other details. Instead of "Talking Towers," the new equipment will feature "Turning Turrets." This comes about from the fact that many exhibition halls throughout the country do not have ceiling height sufficient to display the towers. The towers are adjustable, it is true, but the full effect is not to be enjoyed unless they stand at their full height, 18 feet. The "Turning Turret" towers will be 12 feet high and will fit into buildings in almost any city.

Turrets Novel

The turrets are novel in the extreme. They are at the top of aluminum pillars and turn slowly, red, white, and blue lights flashing alternately through huge red, white, and blue letters, "F. H. A." Each unit includes a highly decorative information booth, where the public may obtain full details on solving home financing problems under the National Housing act, as well as other features.

After the first of the National Home Shows, held in Baltimore early in January, the Federal Housing administration was swamped with requests from cities throughout the country for the use of its exhibit material. Four traveling units, obviously, were not sufficient. This led to the decision to obtain the additional units. Their appearance, for the time being will be restricted to cities of 50,000 or more. Booking arrangements already are under way.

The success of the National Home Shows has astonished officials of the Federal Housing administration and gives testimony of the country-wide interest in better housing. They are attracting tens of thousands of visitors daily, many of whom have sought information on the single mortgage system, declaring it is their intention of taking advantage of its long-term, easy-payment features to finance new home construction.

National Home Shows are held, not by the Federal Housing administration, but by local sponsoring groups, such as real estate boards and chambers of commerce, with the interests of better housing in their cities at heart.

14 NEW FINANCIAL GROUPS APPROVED

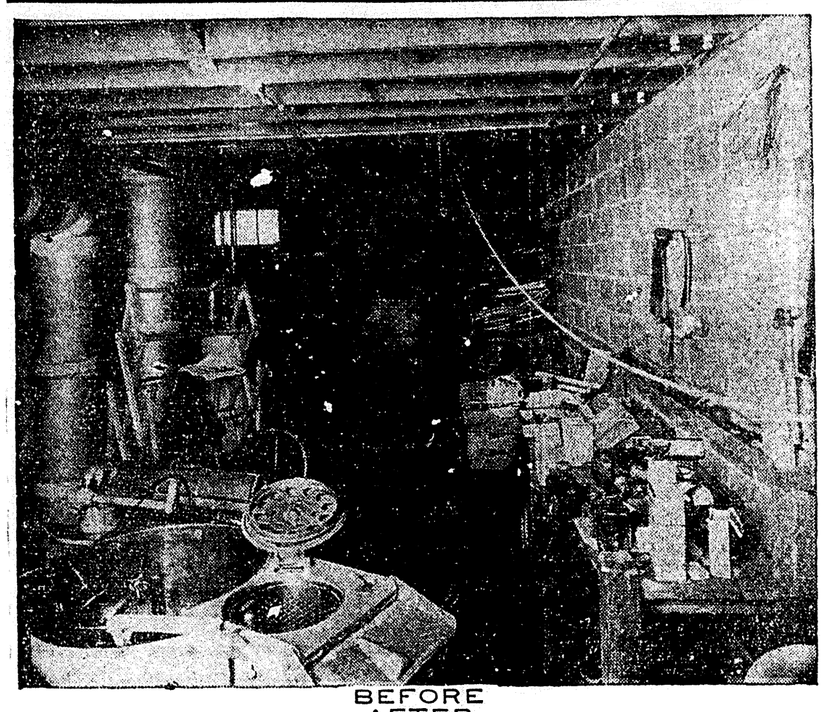

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—During the past week 14 financial institutions have applied to the Federal Housing Administration offices here for approval as mortgagees under the National Housing Act.

This fact is cited as an indication that banks and other institutions are becoming increasingly interested in the Federal Housing Administration's Single Mortgage System. The 14 recent applications came from all parts of the state and was the largest number received in any one week since the beginning of the program At the present time, there are 337 approved mortgagees in Minnesota, 150 of which have submitted applications for mortgage insurance by the Federal Housing Administration.

FHA INSURES

Comfort and Charm Replace Waste Space

BEFORE

AFTER

Mere words could not tell the story depicted by the two photographs shown above. The top view shows how an Illinois home owner's basement looked several months ago. The lower shows how the cluttered-up, gloomy basement was changed into a brightly lighted, luxurious recreation room. Application of wallboard and a paneled ceiling, a spacious fireplace, hearth, and flooring worked wonders. Carefully selected furniture, a warm-hued carpet, and occasional pictures help to provide the family with a cozy nook which is comfortable and livable both Summer and Winter. Such projects, exclusive of furniture, are well within the limitations of the Federal Housing Administration's Modernization Credit Plan. Loans obtained at private financial institutions under this plan may be repaid in convenient equal monthly payments over periods up to 5 years. For full particulars consult any Federal Housing Administration insuring office or the Federal Housing Administration, Washington, D C.

INSURED LOANS SOLVE PROBLEM

Funds Available For Public Buildings To Correct Accoustics

Owners of theaters and public halls, and trustees or other persons responsible for the structural condition of churches and schools are frequently confronted with the problem of providing proper acoustics in lecture rooms, halls and other gathering places.

Either through modernization or in cases where new additions are contemplated, acoustical defects may be remedied or avoided. It is advisable that this important feature of auditorium efficiency be taken up with qualified experts who may effect materail savings through application of the old adage of an "ounce of prevention." Sometimes auditoriums must be reconstructed after completion because of acoustical defects.

Funds with which to fanance such projects are available from private lending institutions operating under the terms of the Federal Housing Administration's Modernization Credit Plan.

CONVERSION OF PARLORS ADDS TO HOME COMFORT

Houses constructed about the turn of the century, in many cases, include living rooms (known more familiarly in that era as parlors) which are out of place, dull, and unattractive to the modern eye.

Such homes, however, frequently are of sound construction and still have many years of service ahead of them. Intelligent transformation or conversion of such living rooms is easily effected under terms of the Federal Housing Administration's Modernization Credit Plan. In such cases, it is advisable to consult with a qualified architect or building contractor prior to starting work, as such advice in the beginning generally more than pays for itself in savings both in materials and labor.

Built-in shelves and cabinets not only tend to enhance the beauty of the room, but also materially increase utility with a minimum usage of floor space. Simplicity should be the keynote of modern interior decorating. Thoughtful home owners will find in most instances that such conversions may be done at very reasonable costs. For full particulars consult any Federal Housing Administration insuring office or the Federal Housing Administration, Washington, D. C.

LOWER INCOMES IN FHA PROGRAM

Analysis Shows Average Note Totals $4,030 Under Mortgage System

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The average amount of a home mortgage made under the Federal Housing Adiministration's Single Mortgage System extends for a period of 16 1-2 years for a principal amount of $4,030, representing 70 per cent of the valuation of the property, Federal Housing Administrator Stewart McDonald announced today.

"Through December 1935," the administrator said, "mortgages valued at $170,000,000 had been accepted for insurance. This amount, in addition to the 30 per cent equity of $51,000,000 advanced by the owners, represents the total home investment interest of the Federal Housing Administration of $221,000,000.

"Our analysis indicates that 73 per cent of all Federal Housing Administration insured mortgages are for amounts less than $5,000; mortgages on new construction are mostly for $4,000 to $5,000, while the average refinanced mortgage falls into the $3,000 to $4,000 group.

"This difference is compensated for in part by the fact that mortgages on new construction represent a higher percentage of the property valuation than refinanced mortgages and that the period of years in which the mortgage is to be paid off is longer for new construction mortgages than for those refinanced.

"As a consequence, the monthly payments for both new construction and refinanced mortgages are about the same. The man who builds a new house gets a 20-year mortgage and borrows up to 80 per cent of the value of his property, obligating himself for a monthly payment of about the same amount that a person who refinances the mortgage on an existing house pays under the Federal Housing Administration Single Mortgage Plan.

"That the Federal Housing Administration Plan appeals to persons of moderate income is evidenced by the fact that monthly payments on these mortgages range from $21 to $36 per month. On the basis of an expenditure of 20 per cent of the family budget for housing, these payments presuppose an annual income of from $1,200 to $2,200 for almost three-qaurters of the families benefited by the Federal Housing Administration plan."

NEW MATERIALS AID TO BEAUTY IN BATHROOM

Great strides have been made during the past five years in perfecting new and efficient bathroom equipment, wall materials, and flooring. At the same time, heating appliances have been improved in keeping with the times. Many of the new materials on the market may be effectively adapted to the outmoded bath of ten years ago. There is a wide variety of tile and composition tile on the market, all waterproof, which makes ideal siding and flooring for a bath and may be obtained in a wide variety of color schemes. Fixtures have also been improved, beautified and simplified. Bath tubs have also advanced in design. The bathroom may be completely transformed by rearrangement of fixtures and addition of new floor and wall materials. Bathroom modernization projects are eligible for financing under the Federal Housing Administration's Modernization Credit Plan. For full particulars consult any Federal Housing Administration insuring office or the Federal Housing Administration, Washington, D. C

LOAN ASSOCIATION HEAD SEES BUILDING REVIVAL

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—A material increase in the volume of new construction here is predicted for the coming spring by Mr. Met Dye, president of the Federal Building and Loan association, according to Federal Housing Administration Regional Director E. T. Wilson

Mr. Dye stated that "with a fair volume of business our association can operate on a spread of from 1 per cent to 1 1-2 per cent." According to Mr. Wilson, this "is quite contrary to the argument usually advanced by building and loan people that they must have at least 1.7 per cent."

IDAHO PLAN SUCCESSFUL

BOISE, Idaho—To further the general educational program of the Federal Housing administration, the Idaho organization of this governmental agency has instituted a plan whereby field representatvies have been instructed to report names and addresses of all prospects interviewed. Names of these persons will be submitted to the state office here, and appropriate literature will be mailed to each applicant explaining full details of the modernization credit plan and the single-mortgage system. Every field representative is to have duplicate lists of all applicants and as far as possible will "follow through" by personal contact with each potential modernizer or home builder.

BANK PASSES MILLION MARK IN HOME LOANS

SPRINGFIELD, Mass.—The Springfield National bank has passed the $1,000,000 mark in its total of loans made under terms of the Federal Housing administration's modernization credit plan.

Several weeks ago a public celebration was held to mark the loaning of a total of $1,000,000 by three banks, the Springfield National, the Third National, and the Morris Plan. The Springfield National bank now holds the distinction in its own right, and its officials are "eager to forge ahead to the second million," according to State Director John F. Malley of the Federal Housing administration.

VETERANS INTERESTED IN SINGLE MORTGAGE SYSTEM

SEATTLE, Wash. — The Federal Housing Administration offices here have received many inquires concerning new-home financing under the Single-Mortgage System by World war veterans who are anticipating payment of the soldiers' bonus. These inquiries are being given every encouragement, according to the state director.

BUILDING INCREASE

EVANSVILLE, Ind.—A large volume of new construction is predicted for Indiana during 1936, and Evansville is a scene of great preliminary activity. It is expected that 300 new homes will be constructed in Evansville during 1936, and a large proportion of these will be financed under the Federal Housing Administration's Single Mortgage System.

DEFECTIVE FLUE CAUSE OF FIRES

Much Loss Occasioned Because Proper Construction Is Neglected

Most fires are caused by overheated or improperly built flues, defective electric wiring, carelessness in the use of matches and cigarettes, or spontaneous combustion.

The owner or tenant can control the first cause by not allowing the furnace fire to stay too hot for a long period. He can also have the flue cleaned and examined.

The second cause is beyond his control, except insofar as the wiring of lamps and other accessories are concerned. He should watch the cords and see that they are in good condition.

The third cause is distinctly controllable and ordinary care in keeping fire away from flimsy curtains, in not throwing matches into waste baskets, in seeing that cigarettes are put out, in keeping matches—even safety matches—in a proper place, will prevent such fires as are caused by the usual carelessness.

The last is caused usually by quite excusable ignorance. Oily rags or rags that have been used in painting; bundles of newspapers stored away in closets where no ventilation can reach them; oily mops or dust cloths shut up in tiny broom closets, all these and a dozen other materials may produce spontaneous combustion.

The only safe rule is to allow no combustible materials to accumulate and to keep all household-cleaning utensils and materials in a well-ventilated place. A modernization loan obtained from a private financial institution and insured by the Federal Housing Administration may be used to provide a safe storing space in your home

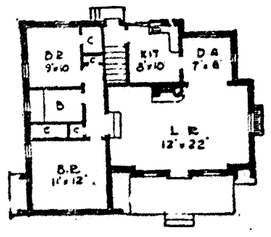

ASSOCIATION WANTS $1,000,000 MORTGAGES

NEWARK, N. J.—The Mount Prospect Building and Loan association here recently announced its intention of accumulating at least $1,000,000 worth of Federal Housing Administration insured mortgages.

"Since these mortgages are readily salable," Edward Kohn, president of the association, said, "we feel that through this step we will have a million-dollar liquid reserve which would serve to protect us in any future contingency and beqond any requirement which we can now perceive."

THE DELUGE

....WERE EVEN THEN EMERGING FROM THE GREAT VALLEY OF THE APES ONTO A VAST PLATEAU, WHILE.....

.....DICK AND GLORIA TRUDGED SLOWLY TOWARD THEIR CAMP WITH THE APE ESCORT WHICH TARZAN HAD PROVIDED.

SUDDENLY HE BETHOUGHT HIMSELF OF THE DEEP, NARROW RAVINE THROUGH WHICH DICK AND GLORIA MUST PASS.

THERE, INDEED, THE STORM HAD ASSUMED THE PROPORTIONS OF A VERITABLE CLOUDBURST.

A THOUSAND BOLD BEASTS OF THE JUNGLE FLED NOW IN PANIC TO HIGHER GROUND TO ESCAPE THE RISING FLOOD.

PICTURING THE DANGER TO HIS FRIENDS, TARZAN RUSHED TO AID THEM, BUT HE WAS STILL FAR AWAY WHEN.....

SURE, I'M THE PARTY WHO RENTED THAT ROOM IN THE CENTER SHORE HOTEL, AND I TELEPHONED ADDIE GOTHORN TO COME AND SEE ME A FEW HOURS BEFORE HE WAS FOUND SHOT IN THE SERVANTS' ENTRANCE OF THE HOTEL —

BUT I DIDN'T SHOOT HIM! -AND I DIDN'T SHOOT THAT BELLHOP!

THAT'S WHAT YOU SAY, MANLIS!

NOW GET THIS! WE KNOW THAT YOU ARE ONE OF THE TEN MEN THAT SAT IN A POKER GAME WITH ADDIE GOTHORN ABOUT FOUR WEEKS AGO.

22 MAR

WE ALSO KNOW THAT GOTHORN LOST ABOUT THREE HUNDRED GRAND, AND THAT YOU WERE THE BIGGEST WINNER!

SO WHAT?

WE ALSO KNOW THAT GOTHORN WELSHED ON THAT GAMBLING DEBT! . . . . THAT HE OWED YOU ALMOST A HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS WHICH HE REFUSED TO PAY!

RING

OKAY, CHIEF. LOCK UP THE PRISONER, PAT — AND COME ALONG WITH ME.

TRACY, WHY ALL THIS FUSS TO FIND OUT WHO KILLED ADDIE GOTHORN? IT SEEMS TO ME THAT WHOEVER DID IT RENDERED HUMANITY A REAL SERVICE.

IN MY OPINION, THE SOLUTION TO GOTHORN'S KILLING WILL INVOLVE AT LEAST THREE OF THE BIGGEST AND MOST POWERFUL NAMES IN THIS CITY! WELL, HERE WE ARE.

WHY-THIS IS THE CEMETERY!

YOU'RE RIGHT, PAT. IT IS THE CEMETERY.

YOU DON'T MEAN —

YES-THE BODY OF ADDIE GOTHORN IS GOING TO BE EXHUMED — AT MY REQUEST.

LOOK AT THIS CORONER'S DIAGRAM. IT SHOWS THAT THE TWO BULLETS ENTERING GOTHORN'S STOMACH WERE IN REALITY QUITE SUPERFICIAL!

THEY PASSED THROUGH THE FLESHY PART OF THE RIGHT SIDE AND COULD NOT POSSIBLY HAVE CAUSED HIS DEATH IN SO SHORT A TIME.

YOU MEAN —

I MEAN DEATH RESULTED FROM SOME OTHER CAUSE. AND THAT CAUSE IS WHAT I INTEND TO UNCOVER!
